FARRELL CHARGES PAY CUTTING

Today

Gas Pistols and Guns.
Russia Is Still Wicked.
When Best Minds Change.
The Maggot and the Lion.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

NEW YORK, Chicago and other centers of gangster activity might send explorers to Milwaukee to investigate a report.

Gen. Mitchell, in charge of all our fliers abroad in the big war, says Milwaukee is not troubled by gangsters, for the simple reason that if a gangster appears in Milwaukee, the Milwaukee police shoot him. And Milwaukee police do not make deals with the gangsters or divide their profits.

The mayor appoints police chiefs, says Gen. Mitchell, and that ends it. The mayor has no power of removal. Milwaukee has only had two chiefs of police in 46 years.

BY THE WAY, Gen. Mitchell says that this country could easily build an airplane to go 400 miles an hour if it wanted to, but for some mysterious reason it does not take the trouble.

He repeats what every intelligent man knows, that our national defense should be divided into three branches, the Navy to take care of everything on the water, the Army to take care of everything on land, and a separate air department to take care of everything in the air.

New York will provide "gas pistols" for its police force, small enough for the pocket, firing gas cartridges that incapacitate the person at whom they are fired. Police also will have gas guns to shoot gas through windows and subdue criminals inside.

Weapons of the same kind probably will be acquired by criminals, which will help to make the lives of ordinary citizens more exciting.

RUSSIA CONTINUES her wicked career. She declines to cut her wheat acreage. Isn't that terribly wrong? Can you imagine how readily this government would agree to reduce its acreage of wheat, cotton, or anything else, if Russia requested it?

You read about great storage tanks in Italy to hold Russian oil for Italian use at cut prices. Russia also has in Italy a great center for her lumber industry. She gets that business by cutting prices. What can you do with such people?

IF YOU ASK a prosperous "best mind" to give impartial consideration to government ownership of natural monopolies, he will stare at you haughtily. But when a natural monopoly suddenly ceases to pay any profits to private owners, that "best mind" will admit that, "under certain circumstances, it might be well for the government to take charge."

YOUR NAME was "Lenin-Marx-Bolshevik" if you suggested government ownership of railroads two years ago.

Now many of them are losing money and even a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission says the best thing might be to have the government take all the railroads, and run them "as a unit."

You may even hear government ownership in power companies advocated by the power companies themselves, when Diesel engines give power companies such competition as motor trucks and buses have given to the railroads. That may come.

Gen. Mitchell says the new German "pocket" cruiser has Diesel engines that weigh 17 pounds per horsepower. It carries guns of 17-mile range, could destroy all our cruisers quite easily, and our cruisers, with short-range guns, have engines that weigh more than 100 pounds per horsepower. Strange, but we still have something to learn, apparently.

SIR JAMES JEANS, whose works you should read, doesn't think anybody is living on the planets that accompany us through space, with the sun. He thinks life is scarce anywhere in the universe.

It is some comfort to know that there can't be any depression on Mars, Venus, Mercury, Jupiter, Saturn, Neptune or little Eros, since it takes foolish human beings to make a slump.

BUT SCIENCE, in the near future, should be able to prove that there is consciousness, life, thought, purpose, in millions of other planets, perhaps on the sun itself. We can't imagine life at a temperature of 50,000,000 degrees centigrade, which is the temperature of the sun's insides.

On the other hand, a cold white maggot could not imagine life in the highly heated body of a bounding lion. It would say:

"Wait till that thing dies, grows cold, and we inhabit it. Then it will have life."

BOSTON IS pleased to hear that the new great British steamships think of starting and stopping there, making Boston their headquarters, instead of New York, to save time across the ocean.

Philadelphia is grateful to its distinguished citizen, Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, for organizing businessmen, and raising money, to establish a steamship service between Philadelphia and Liverpool, Manchester and continental ports.

GOV. ROOSEVELT, of New York, traveling abroad, discovers that French agriculture and industry balance each other, and minimize any slump.

U. S. STEEL HEAD FLAYS RIVALS

'Pretty Cheap Business,' He Tells Institute; Schwab Sees Ends of Liquidation

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP.) — James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, faced fellow-executives of the steel industry today and charged that "the big standard companies" are not maintaining wage scales. He said:

"I think it's a pretty cheap sort of business."

Mr. Farrell's indictment of the companies was made at a general meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute. He said:

"You say wages have been stabilized in the steel industry. They have not. We are living in a fool's paradise. Honeycombing and pinching of all sorts of things have gone on.

CHARGES LARGE CUTS

"The so-called big standard companies, the companies in the headlines, are not maintaining the standard of wages.

"It's a shame that when some of the large companies are trying to maintain wages, others are cutting them even when they are affording only three-day-a-week employment.

"I am not going to give the names of all the companies represented in this room that have cut wages, because I don't want to embarrass you, but I think it's a pretty cheap sort of business.'"

SCHWAB HOPEFUL

Mr. Farrell's remarks were in marked contrast to those of Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and president of the institute, who presided and who said:

"We have had a stabilized wage rate since 1923."

He expressed the opinion that the period of liquidation is "about over." In a normal year, he said, the tonnage necessary to supply maintenance, replacement and general needs is about 51,000,000 tons, and for the first half of 1931 the rate is approximately 30,000,000 tons.

Both Mr. Schwab and Mr. Farrell discussed the unfavorable price level prevailing in the industry. Mr. Farrell said most steel companies would not earn their preferred dividends if the present situation continued.

Clara Bow Better; May Leave Hospital

GLENDALE, Cal., May 22.—(INS.)—If Clara Bow, film actress, continues to gain strength as she has in the past few days she will soon be able to leave the sanitarium where she is under treatment for a nervous breakdown, it was disclosed by her physician here today.

She probably will be taken to Rex Bell's ranch to recuperate, it was said.

Mundelein's Fete Delayed Over Fog

NEW YORK, May 22.—(INS.)—A heavy fog which delayed the Aquitania caused a change today in the plans for a welcome to Cardinal Mundelein, of Chicago, returning from Rome. A cutter was to go down the bay and take the prelate off the ship at Quarantine, but he radioed that he would remain aboard until the liner docked.

Brokers Get Thrill, Steel Listed at 154

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP.)—Brokers on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange had a moment of merry pandemonium today when the ticker erroneously quoted United States Steel at $154, exactly $53 high.

$500,000 MORE FOR AIRPORT

The County Commissioners today voted another $500,000 for completion of the municipal airport.

Minority Commissioner C. C. McGovern refused to vote on the motion, which was made by Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong and supported by Commissioner E. V. Babcock.

This brings the total cost of the airport to $3,500,000.

Norman S. Brown, county director of public works, read a prepared statement in which he explained that the latest appropriation was for the installation of gasoline stations, electric lights for the field, plumbing, heating and ventilating work and other such items.

Brown added that $181,000 remained of the third $1,000,000 which the commissioners voted for the airport last August, when he predicted a completed airport in five months.

Today C. W. Forcier, recently appointed manager of the airport, promised McGovern that, with fair weather and no labor troubles, the airport should be ready for limited flying within 60 days and unlimited flying by Labor Day.

SUSTAINED BY M'GOVERN

McGovern asked several questions relating to condemnation of property for the airport site.

After the meeting McGovern said:

"When this money is spent we will not have an airport. I was up there a few days ago and all I found was a pile of mud. From the first I wanted to get 150 acres, which have provided beautiful airports in other places, and expand it later."

Four Raids Open School Vice War

Developments today in the police cleanup of vice in vicinity of Hill district schools and District Attorney Andrew T. Park's investigation of a county-wide baseball lottery were these:

1—Four alleged vice resorts near Franklin School were raided by city police.

2—Reputed headquarters of Sam Rost, at 328 Second avenue, Rankin, named in baseball lottery probe, were raided and two men arrested.

3—John A. Carey, of 175 Leckey way, North Side, arrested on orders of District Attorney Andrew T. Park on a charge of operating a lottery.

Police swung into action today and struck four alleged vice resorts as School Board heads decried the immoral conditions to which pupils of Hill district schools were subjected.

Following the charge of police negligence by Dr. A. L. Lewin, of the School Board, and the threat of Marcus Aaron, president of the board, to make a plea to Public Safety Director James M. Clark, Hill police, acting under orders of Inspector Albert Beebe, crashed an alleged speakeasy and "numbers" rendezvous in the vicinity of the Franklin School.

EIGHT ARRESTED

Jury Duty Holds Mother, Baby Fed in Court

This wasn't unusual.

The child's mother was serving on a Common Pleas Court jury, which was locked up for the night—and that was unusual.

Susie, the youngest of four children, was brought to the jury room and was fed while Mrs. Rodgers and the 11 other members of the jury deliberated in the suit of Robert M. Matthew against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The jury disagreed on its verdict.

MAYOR LEAVES ON TOUR

SOUTHAMPTON, England, May 22.—(AP.)—Ambassador Charles G. Dawes left today for the United States.

All That U. S. Golfers Lacked Was Bobby Jones

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

All Americans eliminated in English golf on Wednesday.

We knew that Bobby Jones had gone to Hollywood. But we didn't know he had taken the game with him.

The last Yank took a bow late Wednesday afternoon and couldn't straighten up.

That leaves only Britishers in an English golf tournament and cancels John L. Sullivan's famous remark made while inspecting a piece of canvas in New Orleans.

We thought George Voigt would win for us. But George met a golfer who had been a coal miner and is now an insurance agent. A fellow like that feels at home in a bunker, up to his neck in water or in your lap.

You can't blame our golfers for being discouraged. Even if they had won, all our newspapers would have printed pictures of Bobby Jones.

Flyer Wrecked, Engineer Killed

Engineer L. H. Hillgrove, of Brookline, was killed, Fireman L. A. Knarr, of Oil City, injured, and the lives of scores of passengers endangered today as the Buffalo Flyer, crack express train of the Pennsylvania Railroad, crahed against a 10-ton boulder, derailing its locomotive at Edgecliff, near New Kensington.

The boulder had tumbled down a cliff and onto the tracks five minutes before the express was due. Several persons who saw it on the track were powerless to halt the train.

SIGHTS ROCK TOO LATE

He applied his brakes, but he could not stop.

The locomotive crashed against the boulder, pushed it 400 feet, then fell over on its side.

Several hunder feet of track were torn from position.

Scalding water from the engine's boiler deluged Hillgrove. He was dead in a few minutes.

Carnegie Explorers Find Jungles Tamer Than N. Y.

African jungles are peaceful glades compared with New York traffic lanes. At least that's what Rudyerd Boulton, young assistant curator of birds, Carnegie Museum, and his wife, Laura, have to report after spending seven months in the midst of Angola, Portuguese West Africa.

After tramping hundreds of miles through desert and bush, capturing thousands of birds and mammals, without any attack by illness or beast, these Pittsburgh scientists were given a severe jolting yesterday when the taxi in which they were riding to the train in New York collided with another machine. They both carry bruises of American traffic.

Defendants Insist Rights Violated by Arrest During 'March' at P. R. R. Station

The case of the four men and a Negro woman charged with inciting to riot while attempting to hold a demonstration for the unemployed near the Pennsylvania Station, February 25, went to the jury today after Robert Woods and Joseph Mankin had maintained in their defense that the constitutional right of free speech entitled them to speak.

Woods said he was secretary of the Trades Union Unity League. Mankin said he was an agent of the Daily Worker.

Mike Burich testified he sold the Daily Worker, but denied he had created a disturbance or resisted arrest. Edward Cook and Miss Parthenia Hills declared they were only spectators.

Detective James Bailey testified yesterday that at a previous meeting in front of the City-County Building, Miss Hills had struck him in the face.

Witnesses for the prosecution yesterday testified that 300 unemployed had gathered and blocked the street so pedestrians and street cars could not pass.

4 RAIDS OPEN VICE CRUSADE

Foster, 29, and Popes West, 34, were arrested. It was the eleventh time the place was raided by police, they said. On the third floor of 1225 Epiphany street police reported the seizure of "numbers" paraphernalia, and arrested James Carney, 30. He was held in $2,500 bail.

Two women and a man were arrested in a raid on an alleged disorderly house at 1232 Hazel street. Florence Nelvis and Gertrude Styles were docketed as proprietors.

APPEAL TO CLARK

Two Negroes were arrested and a warrant sworn out for the proprietor of an alleged speakeasy at 39 Logan street, where police reported seizing 50 pints of moonshine. The place is near the Franklin School.

Clark, confronted yesterday with the statement of Principal W. A. Laning, of the Franklin School, which appeared in the Sun-Telegraph, that 30 disorderly houses were located within two blocks of the school, directed Inspector Beebe to detail a squad of plainclothesmen to raid all places where the law is being violated.

N. R. Criss, of the School Board, declared the conditions are most dangerous in the vicinity of the Business High School, attended mostly by young girls.

Stating that girls from all parts of the city are subjected to harmful influence of seeing vice conditions paraded in the open, Criss today said that vice in the neighborhood of Hill schools has been a sore spot for a long time.

Coolidge Urges Serious Consideration of Wages

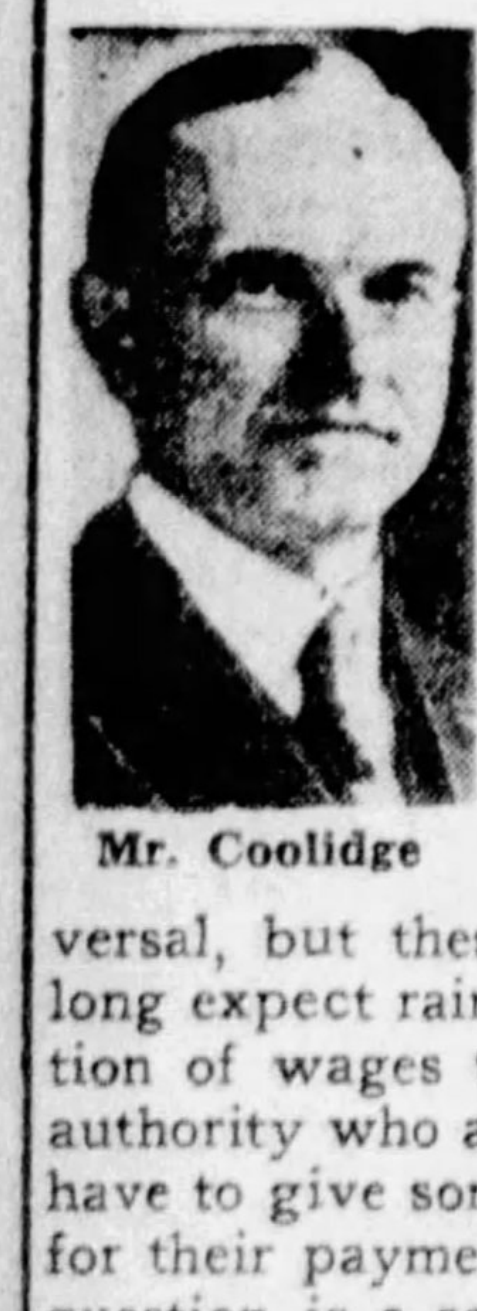
To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

One of the most difficult questions pressing urgently for decision by government and business is railroad rates. Almost daily someone in Washington is urging the maintenance of the present wage scale. But wages cannot be paid without ready money. The public attitude has not encouraged the railroads to accumulate a surplus even if possible. They have to pay wages and taxes out of current earnings. They claim nearly all the increased rates allowed about 10 years ago have been withdrawn by subsequent orders of the government. Meantime wage scales were increased.



Mr. Coolidge

Business would consider an increase in railroad rates as a serious burden at this time. If it resulted in increased employment on the railroads there might be large compensations and if it created confidence and revived trade, approval would be universal, but these reactions are problematical. No one can long expect rairoad service that is not paid for or continuation of wages that do not come out of income. Those in authority who are asking for the maintenance of wages will have to give some thought of helping to provide the income for their payment. The decision of the government on this question is a serious responsibility.

FLYER WRECKED, ONE KILLED

over. He refused aid and worked himself out of the locomotive.

Knarr told Emil Zaborsky, 21, of Braeburn, who had offered to help him, he had tried to jump out the window.

PASSENGERS SHAKEN

Scared passengers felt the jolting progress of the train as the locomotive pushed the rock, then fell over. The two day coaches, the chair car, the baggage car-smoker, and the mail car remained upright, and none of the occupants was injured.

Paul Schlenke, 18, of Natrona, and Herman Schindler, 15, of Edgecliff, in a rowboat on the Allegheny River, saw the crash. They tried to prevent it by waving at the engineer as he approached the curve.

A telegraph operator, too, tried to avert the wreck by flashing word to the Pennsylvania Railroad office at New Kensington just before the crash, but the officials were unable to get word to the engineer.

ESCAPE SHORT LIVED

Hillgrove lived at 2411 Pioneer avenue, Brookline, and was the father of six children. His last words, just before the engine fell over, were, according to Knarr:

"We're lucky we weren't killed."

Five minutes later he was dead.

The body of Hillgrove and Knarr were rushed to New Kensington by train, then to the New Kensington Hospital. Passengers were returned on the same train.

R. M. McCollum, of Oil City, brakeman of the train, worked his way into the locomotive after the crash and, in extricating Hillgrove's body, was burned about the feet and hands.

Nobody suspected that the rock had been pushed over the cliff. Residents said slides occurred frequently at this time of the year.

The train left the Pennsylvania Station at 10:15 o'clock, daylight saving time. The accident occurred 50 minutes later.

CONVICT DEFIES THREAT, TELLS ABOUT FIRE

Efforts to Conceal Details Of Ohio Prison Blaze Strengthen State's Case

COLUMBUS, O., May 22.—(AP.)—A passing word between the defendant and a witness was held up by the state today as an important link in its chain of evidence against Clinton Grate, 31-year-old convict, on trial for murder growing out of the deaths of 320 fellow prisoners in the Ohio Penitentiary fire a year ago.

TELLS OF INSTRUCTIONS

Jimmy Maloney, convict who admitted he supplied two candles with which the state claims the fire was started, added the new link yesterday when he told from the witness stand of a meeting with Grate in an ante-room of the court during the noon recess.

Grate, Maloney testified, approached him and said:

"Jimmy, don't say anything. Stand pat."

NAMES FIREBUGS

Previously, Maloney told the jury of events immediately after the fire, which he said Grate and Hugh Gibson, also indicted but not yet tried, admitted they started. He said that Grate told him they expected to use the candles for soldering work, but came to him while the fire was raging and said:

"Jimmy, this is awful. Don't tell anybody you gave me those candles. If you do, you will be implicated. Those candles were used to set the fire."

Maloney said his knowledge of the disaster had placed his life in jeopardy behind the prison walls. Grate, he said, shadowed him constantly and once attempted to stab him.

'TORTURE' LAID TO CHILDREN

TORONTO, Ontario, May 22.—(INS.)—Two boys and two girls, of grade school ages, today were involved in the charges of 6-year-old James Brown that he had been tortured by fire in the school furnace by the four children, who had wanted him to steal money from home.

Statements from the other children said, however, that the 6-year-old boy was tortured because he "was telling tales about other pupils."

Miss Bessie Ross, teacher at the Lobo school, where the incident occurred, heard the boy's screams and rushed to the basement. She said she found two older boys and two girls holding Brown in the firebox of the furnace and allegedly lighting paper to burn him.

Roads Optimistic Over Rate Revision

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP.)—Considerable optimism was expressed in railway and banking circles today over the prospects of the program launched by eastern railway executives yesterday for a revision of freight rates.

Rowdy accompanied Commanders Donald MacMillan and Eugene McDonald to the Arctic in 1925, and had attended every national convention of the Shriners during the last 10 years. Two years ago he went on a trip to the South Seas.

Poison in food the dog found when off his leash was the cause of death.

NEW WITNESS AIDS KIRKLAND

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 22.—(INS.)—Virgil Kirkland saw a new ray of hope today when his lawyers presented in evidence a letter mailed from Davenport, Ia., and written by a man who claimed to have seen one of the events that culminated in the death of 18-year-old Arlene Draves, with whose murder Kirkland is charged.

After Bud Anderson, pal of Virgil, left the stand, the crowd, which overflower the courtroom in the expectation of seeing Kirkland take the stand in his own defense, was amazed when the youth's attorneys introduced the letter with the announcement that the writer and his wife would be called as witnesses.

The letter, signed by R. A. Manning, general delivery, Davenport, Ia., was written on cheap paper and addressed special delivery to Kirkland's mother, Mrs. Mrytle Kirkland, who received it yesterday.

HARRISBURG, May 22.—The hope that the Musmanno coal and iron police bill amendments, which its author declared rendered it impotent, might be repudiated by the Senate next week was expressed today.

Toward this end M. A. Musmanno, Allegheny County legislator, was speaking over Radio Station WPEN in Philadelphia.

He planned to ask Philadelphians to enlist the aid of their senators to vote down the amendment and support his bill in the form it passed the House nearly two months ago.

The radio talk today, the second of a series, will be followed by another over WCAE tomorrow in Pittsburgh. Musmanno plans to fly back late today.

The first talk he gave last night in Harrisburg, home of Senator William H. Earnest, chairman of the Judiciary General Committee.

MERCHANT TAX TO BE ENFORCED

Collection of mercantile tax from merchants throughout Allegheny County is to be enforced and those who evade or deceive will be compelled to answer in court, according to Attorney Alexander Cooper, counsel for the Mercantile Appraisers in Allegheny County. The action followed a recent conference in Harrisburg with Dr. Clyde King, secretary of revenue. Cooper said:

"Merchants who do a business of $1,000,000 a year and report only $600,000 are laying up trouble for themselves. Those who do not make payment will have to face suit. Auditors are making a checkup to ascertain how the law is being obeyed."

A tax of $1 on each $1,000 of gross retail sales is levied, Cooper said. If a concern does $50,000 a year the merchant must pay a tax of $50. He declared proper return of the volume of business done must be made.

BOMB HURLS 5 FROM BEDS

Hurled from their beds by a bomb explosion attributed by police to blackhand activities, five members of a Clairton family, including two children, escaped injury early today. Fragments of the bomb ripped through the first and second floors of the building in Sixth street. Windows in many nearby buildings were shattered.

Alphonse Muto, 37, and his wife, Gemma, 31, their two children, Annie, 12, and Victor, 3, and a sister of Mrs. Muto, were occupants of the building. A confectionery store was located in front of the building.

Three tires on an automobile owned by Jerry Parnravo, of 273 Reed street, parked in front of the confectionery, were "blown out" by the blast, and 19 windows in a building on the opposite side of the street were broken.

TWO MEN HELD IN 'RIDE' KILLING OF FORMER CLAIRTON GIRL

BEATEN, SHOT TO DEATH AT YOUNGSTOWN

Body Found in Culvert by Boys; One Suspect Long Admirer of Slain Victim

Pretty, red-haired Betty Palko, 27, formerly of 364 Mitchell street, Clairton, who went to Youngstown, O., from her present residence in Cleveland to keep an engagement with her admirer of nine years, police said, lay in the Youngstown morgue today, her skull fractured and a bullet through her body.

Louis Vitullo, 35, and married, poolroom proprietor, and Victor Mihaly, 21, a paroled convict, both of Youngstown, were being held by police, who were seeking the person who murdered the girl and threw her body in a culvert, seven miles from Youngstown.

Vitullo, arrested after two boys found the body, was taken to the morgue by police, who said he identified the girl who went to him from her home in Clairton nine years ago. She was the mother of his two children, police said he told them.

TELLS OF TRYST

Police Chief Paul E. Lyden said Vitullo admitted the girl had come to Youngstown to keep an engagement with him. Mihaly was arrested, according to police, after Vitullo said he could not get away from his poolroom when the girl 'phoned him upon her arrival in Youngstown, and that he had sent Mihaly for her. He heard from neither of them until he was arrested. Later he said he sent his cousin, James Vitullo, 21, for the girl, but police released the cousin after questioning him.

Police said they learned that Vitullo had established Miss Palko in Cleveland, where she lived with their two children, Sally Lou, 6, and Grace, 5, at 1920 East Fifty-ninth street. The children, being cared for by relatives, had not been told of their mother's death. Sally Lou, according to relatives, is ill with measles.

STRUCK, THEN SHOT

Coroner J. C. Henshaw, of Trumbull County, said the girl had been killed by a .38-caliber bullet, fired from close range, after she had been struck on the head. The bullet was found in the culvert.

Police were expecting the girl's parents to arrive in Youngstown from Clairton today. Her brother-in-law, C. A. Kachera, of Cleveland, arrived in Youngstown last night. He told police, it was said, that Vitullo resided in Youngstown, where he was employed, and that she visited him frequently.

An argument with her mother resulted in Betty's departure from her Clairton home, it was learned today. The girl's pursuit of "a good time" led to frequent clashes between mother and daughter, members of the family said.

ARMY FIGHTING PLANES HERE TO REFUEL

Associated Press.

Army airplanes that took off from Dayton, O., today with the dawn, swept, by separate routes, toward New York for tomorrow's war game maneuvers. Perfect weather smoothed their way.

The more than 500 planes reached refueling points in Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Rochester, Washington and Middletown, Pa.

The planes, which compose the first provisional air division of the United States Army, were due at flying fields in the New York area late this afternoon.

Fifty-two of them, their motors roaring as machine guns, shot out of clouds in fan-like formation and glided onto the Pittsburgh-Butler Airport.

At Bettis Field 5,000 persons pointed their eyes to the skies and watched 12 planes gliding to the field in twos and threes. They were led by Brig. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, flying his own ship.

As Foulois hopped out of his plane a wartime buddy, injured two years ago in the national air races, hobbled across the field to greet him. It was Col. William Thaw, member of the famous Flying Escadrille.

CHAPTER V.

The girls with the indifference of youth laughed. So that was what happened to the girl who won a contest and whose picture had been in all the newspapers.

"I've had some terrible days since," said Clara. "I've been the victim of blackmailers—I have been robbed—I have found that friends I trusted were unworthy—but never have I had such a horrible feeling as that day when I found that all of my scenes had been cut out of my first picture. I was sick. I was dizzy. I walked home, hating to meet my father, who, alone, believed in me.

"He comforted me and said, 'Don't worry—maybe all the rest of them are jealous of you.'

"I knew they weren't jealous. I knew I was bad. Something was wrong.

"Then followed depressing days of doubt and worry. I couldn't get a job. I walked from studio to studio, begging for a chance.

"'I won a contest,' I told them. They only laughed.

"I thought," Clara told me, "my jinx was a permanent one—that all my life I would have to live in one room, eat miserable food, wear awful clothes and be denied the things in life any girl enjoys. If it had not been for my father's encouragement, I think I would have died.

"My mother was gradually growing worse and finally, we had to put her in a sanitarium. It took every cent my father had, but we did so want her to live, we loved her so.

Another Chance

"Just when things were the blackest, I was asked to come to the Algonquin Hotel and meet Elmer Clifton and his assistant director. My father went with me. They both took one look at me and said, 'I'm afraid you're too old.'

"I had worn a waist of my mothers and a long skirt of hers because I wanted to overcome my youthful appearance. At every studio they told me I was too much of a kid, or too fat, or too something.

"'Can't I go home and get my own clothes?' I pleaded with Elmer Clifton. 'Honest, I'm not old.'

Elmer Clifton gave her permission to go home. He met her and Robert Bow the next day at the Algonquin Hotel.

"We're going to New Bedford," he said. "I'll take you with me. I can't say whether you'll fit the part."

Clara delighted at this change of atmosphere, packed her few belongings and departed with the company, which included Raymond McKee and Marguerite Cortot, who later became his wife.

Robert Bow, in telling me about this episode, said:

"I hated to see her go alone, but one look at Elmer Clifton's face convinced me I could trust my little girl with him. 'Will you write to me?' I begged Clara. But I didn't hear much from her for two weeks. Then came a telegram saying: 'Please, Daddy, I'm so lonesome—can't you come to New Bedford?'

"I took the first train," Mr. Bow said, "and as I walked up the steps to the hotel where the company was stopping, I met a beautiful young woman. To my surprise, she threw her arms around my neck.

"'Daddy! Daddy!' she cried, 'Don't you know me?'

"It was Clara. I didn't know her. She had makeup on—she wore better clothes—and in fact, looked like a different girl.

Mary Carr's Aid

"I shall always be grateful to dear Mary Carr, who taught her how to use makeup and who helped her buy the new dress. Neither Clara, nor I have ever forgotten Mrs. Carr's kindness. If it had not been for her help, Clara might never have made the success she did in "Down to the Sea in Ships.""

Life for Clara Bow has always been a matter of contrasts After great happiness has always come tragedy and unhappiness. The little red-haired girl whose story has so touched the hearts of those who know it has always feared to be too happy, for once she felt that she was sitting on top of the world there was sure to come the awful tomorrow and the abyss into which she has fought so hard not to sink.

The showing of "Down to the Sea in Ships" was a triumph for our little heroine. New York critics, generally considered the most difficult in the world, the most blase and the hardest to please, discovered her.

Clara was not a headliner—mercy no! She just played the part of a little stowaway. The headliners were Raymond McKee and Marguerite Cortot. Up in glamorous electric lights went the names of these two favorites. Clara's name was only among those who are usually called the supporting cast. But the keen New York critics saw the vivid little face, the bright eyes and the radiant personality that was hers. They wrote in adjectives that almost any actress would give a month's pay to have written about her. They wrote so constantly of the unknown girl who played the stowaway that one day the theater owner went outside and had her name put in electric lights. The name Clara Bow shone on the busy Broadway street. Clara walked past the theater time and time again just to see her name.

Fate Pursues Her

"I can never tell you," she told me, "what happiness I felt when I saw that name. Life had been so terribly hard and it seemed to me now that all my troubles were to be in the past."

Fate, however, that cruel thing that's haunted and dogged the footsteps of this little girl, was not to allow her complete happiness.

After her success in "Down to the Sea in Ships," Clara started to go out with other young people. She was invited to parties, she was making a little money and she was able to buy a few simple little frocks. She had so little gayety in her life that this seemed to her to be the greatest thing in the world.

It was Willie—and Clara has asked me not to tell his last name for he is now a prosperous business man of Brooklyn with a family, for fear the mention of his name in connection with her might displease. Willie's memories of Clara are no doubt very pleasant, for he was strongly attracted to the little red-haired girl. He wasn't the only one, however, who saw in her the realization of their dreams. She was very lovely, she was very young, she was very innocent—this little Clara Bow.

I know, because I saw her about this time and I thought I had never seen such a sweet child in all my life.

She couldn't understand why men looked at her with longing in their eyes. She didn't know what it meant to have a man want her. She was innocent. Later, she was to learn that men are not always kind in their dealings with women. Often this admiration meant somethings sinister that the wide-eyed child couldn't understand.

First love affairs of Clara Bow are related in tomorrow's installment of Louella O. Parsons' REAL life story of the screen star. Miss Parsons tells of the budding screen star's summons to Hollywood, and her affair with the only son of a millionaire.

AWARDS MADE BY RED CROSS

Experiences of wartime service were recalled last night when hundreds of Red Cross chapters throughout the country combined in a memorial celebration that marked the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the American Red Cross.

The fete was climaxed by a radio talk by President Herbert Hoover, broadcast over a nation-wide network, which was heard by nearly 200 Red Cross workers at the Schenley Hotel, where a banquet and entertainment was held by the Pittsburgh Chapter, of which A. K. Oliver is chairman, last night.

A feature of the Pittsburgh celebration was the award of certificates to 10 graduates of the Volunteer Hospital Service Class, known as "Gray Ladies," to the disabled veterans at government hospitals.

The certificates were presented by Mrs. A. L. Humphrey, chapter chairman of the service, to Mrs. Jane Reno Bryan, Mrs. Julia W. Edmonds, Mrs. Emelia C. Kane, Mrs. Margaret Kerr, Mrs. M. Ellen Maloney, Mrs. Bertha E. Mathias, Miss Ellen G. McClay, Mrs. Effie Todd Mellon, Mrs. Carrie O'Brien and Miss Gertrude See. Twenty-nine alumni of the class, in uniform, also attended the banquet.

DEDICATE NEW RANKIN SCHOOL

Dr. Joseph A. Perrone, vice president of Rankin School Board, will preside at the dedication of the new $140,000 James H. McCrady Grade School in Rankin tonight. The speakers will be Judge Samuel H. Gardner, District Attorney Andrew T. Park, W. Lee Gilmore, supervising principal of Oakmont schools, and Frank J. Good, superintendent of Rankin schools.

The building will be presented to the community by William P. Hutchins, architect, and Dr. Perrone will make the address of acceptance. The building is to be used by fifth and sixth grade pupils. The Rev. Dr. Guy D. Wallace, of the Braddock United Presbyterian Church, will pronounce the invocation and the benediction will be given by the Rev. James Lynch, of St. Brendan's Catholic Church, Braddock.

Park Acts to Oust Swissvale Constable

District Attorney Andrew T. Park has asked for a rule in Quarter Sessions Court as to why the appointment of Edward Goldstein, 37, of 2818 Noble avenue, as deputy constable in Swissvale, shall not be revoked. Goldstein was appointed December 18 on petition of Constable Andrew Farina, who said he needed an assistant. The law provides, Park pointed out, that the alderman or justice of the peace must agree in writing to give regular employment to deputies when they are appointed. He said this had not been done in Goldstein's case.

FRANK L. DUGGAN DRIVER W. R. SPANG

Mr. Duggan, Western Pennsylvania Safety Council president, presenting to Mr. Spang, Pittsburgh Motor Coach crack driver, a medal representing four "accidentless" years. His secret: "Drive the other fellow's car as well as your own and you'll get by!"

DRIVERS GIVEN SAFETY PRIZES

Drive the other fellow's car as well as you do your own, and you'll get by.

This is the advice of W. R. Spang, bus driver of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, to motorists who don't like dents in their fenders. Spang was awarded a safety award bar and safe driver's certificate by officials of the company last night for driving 200,000 miles in four years without a chargeable accident.

Similar awards were made to 42 others, representing from one to three years of safe driving, at a banquet held in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

The awards were presented by Frank L. Duggan, president of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council and a member of the Better Traffic Committee. Speakers were T. F. Fitzgerald, vice president of the coach company, and J. F. Dorsey, inspector of the traffic division of the Bureau of Police. T. W. Noonan, general manager, was toastmaster.

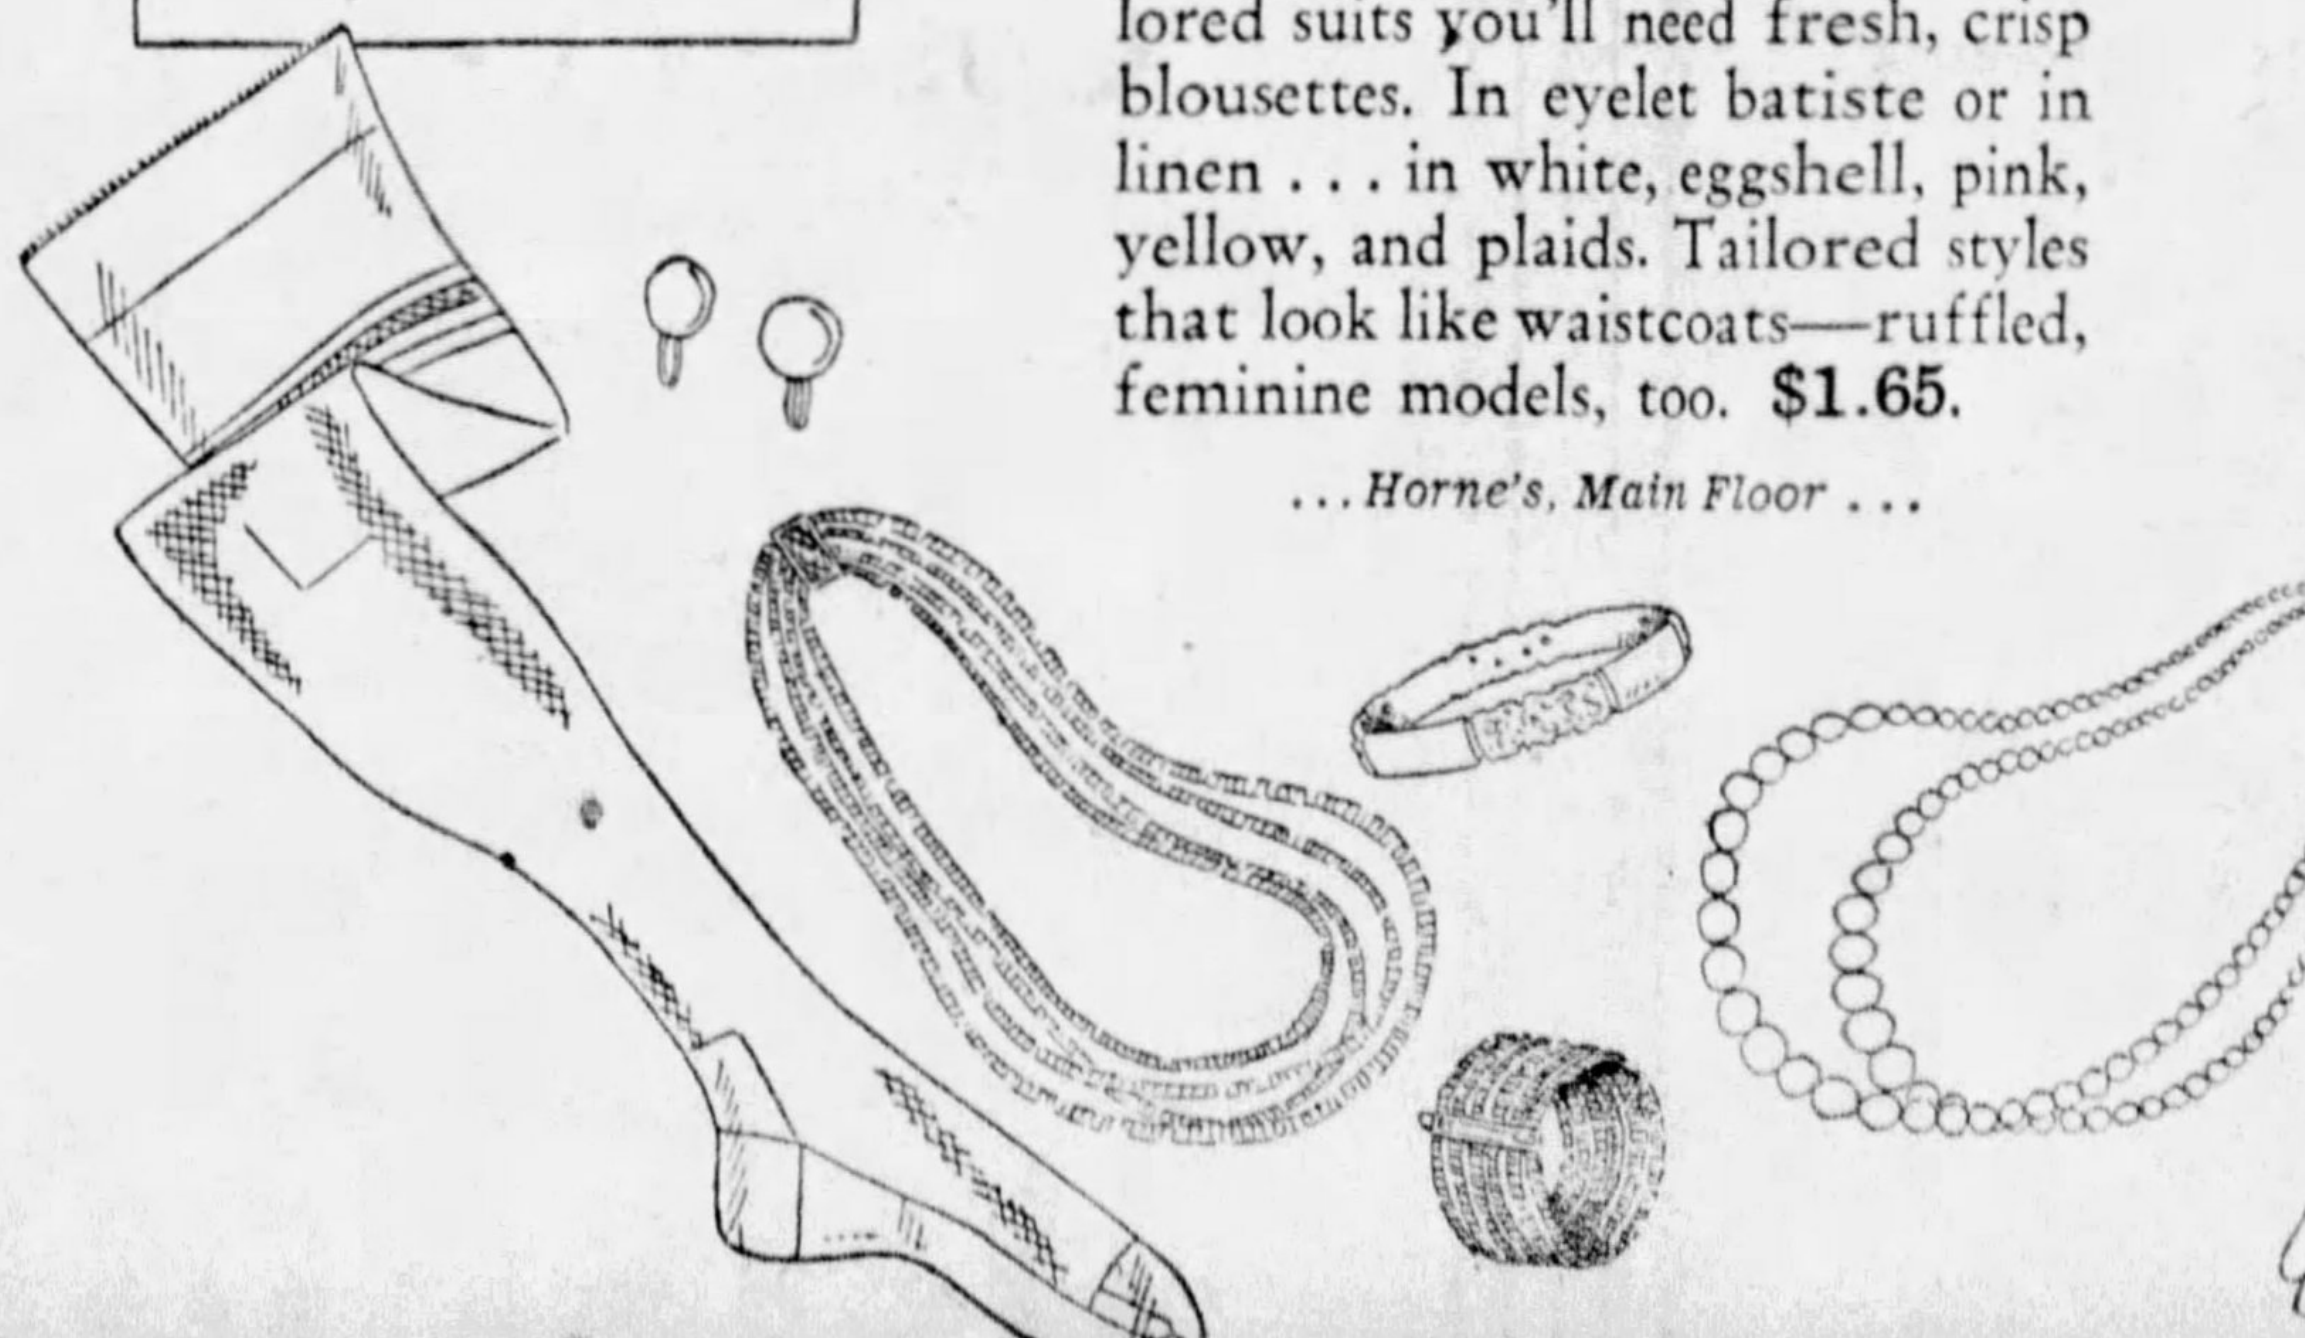
Blousettes

With your sports suits—with tailored suits you'll need fresh, crisp blousettes. In eyelet batiste or in linen . . . in white, eggshell, pink, yellow, and plaids. Tailored styles that look like waistcoats—ruffled, feminine models, too. $1.65.

... Horne's, Main Floor ...



Slip-On Gloves

You'll go far to find a smarter glove than a fabric one—and farther to find any more practical, for they are washable.

"Leno-Mesh" is a new, finer, firmer fabric among the very fashionable cotton meshes, introduced by The Sportswear Shop in these well designed, well tailored frocks.

The Junior-Misses' Section Suggests That It's Smart to

That cottons will be popular at June commencements, is not so much because cottons are inexpensive, but because Horne cottons are so wonderfully intriguing.

Ohio Girl Awarded $5,000 Heart Balm

PHILADELPHIA, May 22.—(AP.)—M. Estelle Baker, a young woman of Cortland, O., was awarded $5,000 damages against Frank P. Glass, of Philadelphia, by a jury for breach of promise to marry.

Glass did not appear to offer defense. Miss Baker's claim was supported by letters addressed to her and alleged to have been written by Glass.

Historian Praises Newspapers of U. S.

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP.)—American newspapers are regarded as "magnificent" by Guglielmo Ferrero, noted Italian historian. Leaving for Italy after a tour, he said:

"I found the quality of newspapers high, the material interesting. There is nothing in the world comparable to your newspapers in the big cities."

Doug and Mary Dine With Premier's Sons

LONDON, May 22.—(AP.)—Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks visited the House of Commons lobby last night as guests of Prime Minister MacDonald's sons, Alastair and Malcolm, who were entertained by the film couple in America.

A small crowd formed quickly. The visitors were introduced to a number of members of Parliament and later dined with the MacDonalds and several government officials.

DAMAGES ASKED BY HILLDORFER

Joseph P. Hilldorfer, 59, North Side politician and for many years owner of a market on Federal street, asked $25,000 damages for injuries by an automobile in a suit against Wesley A. Moffat, of the North Side, filed in Common Pleas Court.

Hilldorfer said he was crossing Montgomery avenue at East Diamond street March 14, 1930, and was struck and dragged for about 20 feet by an automobile owned and driven by Moffat. Hilldorfer suffered fractures of the left leg, nose, right elbow and several ribs, resulting in permanent crippling of his left leg, according to his suit.

He declared that for nine months he was unable to attend to his business, and that it thereby became involved and he lost it.

MAN'S SLAYING BAFFLES POLICE

Beaver County detectives today said they were without a clue in the death of Joe Christiana, of Ambridge, who died yesterday in the Valley Hospital at Sewickley from four bullet wounds in his head.

Christiana, shot while driving through Monaca, en route home, managed to get to his doorstep before he collapsed. Detectives who questioned him, said he refused to name his assassin.

Christiana's only response to questions as to who shot him, detectives said, was:

"Never mind; I'll attend to it when I get out."

OFFICER SHOOTS FLEEING MAN

Failing to heed a warning to stop when he was seen running from a house police were watching early today, Edward Foster, 39, Negro, of 14 Sachem way, was shot in the right ankle by Lieut. M. M. Murphy.

Murphy and a squad of police were watching for thieves who early yesterday began to strip the house, which is vacant, of its plumbing and other equipment.

Foster ran when he saw the officer, police said, and failed to heed orders to stop. Murphy fired once, striking him in the ankle. Foster is in Mercy Hospital on a technical charge of being a suspicious person.

2 Hurt as Trailer Crashes Garage

Two men were injured slightly when the trailer of an auto truck crashed through the concrete garage of Frank Artuso, 936 Island avenue, McKees Rocks, this morning. T. H. Brammer, 28, of Akron, O., driver of a truck, and Carl Hufnagle, 26, of 709 Russelwood avenue, West Park, standing on the sidewalk, were slightly injured.

IDLE WORKERS of the world now number 20,000,000, according to the international labor office located at Geneva. A year ago the idle were only 10,000,000. The League of Nations observes that Russia is the exception, aways seeking more workers, with no worry at all about unemployment.

Our government should get over its boyish prejudice, and send somebody to Russia to find out how it is done.

THE GOVERNMENT will abandon 53 army posts, largely obsolete, to save money. Government might also get rid of its military "gee-gees," or cavalry, keeping one stuffed specimen in the Smithsonian Institution, next the dinosaur, for the information of those interested.

WE HAVE REFUSED to develop airplanes properly, or to allow such men as Gen. Mitchell to show what airplanes can do against warships, because the government didn't want to hurt the feelings of shipbuilders, armorplate makers, builders of docks, etc.

Must we also keep thousands of ridiculous horses, with men riding around on them, in order to give the farmers a chance to sell a few oats?

MR. COLEMAN COX, who writes from time to time, as the spirit moves him, says, among other things:

"The secret of success is hard work. Maybe that is why it has remained a secret to so many."

Conditions in the next few months will compel a good many to become familiar with that gloomy secret that never hoped or wanted to know it.

EXPERT LAUDS MUSEUMS IN AMERICA

Use for Education Better Developed; Belgian Makes Comparisons With Europe

By PENELOPE REDD

The annual meeting of the American Association of Museums considered the problem of international outlooks in this morning's general session at Carnegie Institute.

Jean Capart, conservator-in-chief of the Royal Museums of Art and History, Brussels, Belgium, was the chief speaker in an address on "American Museums from a European Point of View."

Penelope Redd

M. Capart, who has been named as a prominent candidate for the directorship of the Metropolitan Museum in New York City, said:

"The European thinks the Americans may easily maintain museums with their 'dollars.' They take it for granted at sales, that all the best pieces shall go to America by virtue of these same dollars.

"They believe because of the emphasis made upon educational work that the museums are little more than schools for children.

"My personal experiences with American museums, however, leads me to different observations."

"Every American museum has its individuality. Some are little more than aggregates of odds and ends. Others are among the best existing in the world.

"The educational work is better developed in American museums than in any other country, but the difficulty lies in finding an equilibrium between education and science.

"The fundamental basis of museums must be and must remain scientific research."

Judge to Address West View Traders

THE AGE OF SPEED

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

What do you think they use for driving wheels? There's a propeller right smack on the nose of the train. That's going to be a nice mess when the streamline train meets a streamline cow on the tracks.

When the propeller is through hamburgering that placid bovine the air is going to be a blizzard of chopped sirloins followed by light, south-easterly showers of milk.

The streamline express is actually a Zeppelin on wheels. It will cross America from east to west in 20 hours. But that's nothing. You should see the blamed thing caper on a diagonal.

It doesn't stop anywhere by request. It picks up its passengers in mail bags.

Its speed is two and a half miles per minute in the flat. There is no extra charge for dynamiting expensive tunnels. When this streamline calliope hits a hill it digs its own tunnel.

When the train leaves the track you don't have to worry about what's going to happen because it already has.

If you see a stranger draped over the ridgepole of your Iowa cabin in the morning you will know he was blown out of the streamline aisle while climbing into an upper berth in Missouri.

That's stepping on the exhilirator. And if there is anything Americans like to do it is to travel like a leaf on a windy day. When we start any place we want to get there in the shortest possible time and with the best lawyers.

They say the fastest train in the world is the Flying Scotsman from London to Glasgow. This whizzing vehicle is half English and half Scotch. The train goes just as fast from Glasgow to London, but that's because it's all down hill in that direction.

Now we are going to have the fastest train. The old streamline Gazzarus. We don't want any part of it. We live at a whistle stop. And when that train heaves into view we are going to be sucking a lemon.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

People I've Met

NEW YORK, May 22

CHARLIE M———. He says he's 12 years of age. He has big brown eyes and curly hair that keeps falling over his forehead. Not a bad-looking kid at all. I've seen him around for at least two years. He steps into restaurants off Broadway at nights and sells things. He formerly sold flowers. Now he sells newspapers.

I sat in Dinty Moore's the other night after an opening. I was waiting for the wife and, inasmuch as there were three or four comedians sitting around, I was pretty lonesome. Charlie M——— came in with his bundle of papers. So I began to talk to him.

"Why the papers?" I asked him. "What's happened to the flowers you used to sell over and over again?"

He gave me those big eyes.

"The racket's shot," he informed me. "Something's wrong somewhere. People don't buy flowers any more. I got stuck once or twice, so I cut it out."

The kid interested me. He was frank. And open. And by no means as fresh as most of the other boys of his type. So I kept talking.

"Make much money these days?" I inquired.

He shook his head.

"Nope," was his prompt rejoinder. "I used to make over $8 a night from the flowers—but I can't get over $2 a night with newspapers. In the afternoons, after school, I pick up maybe a dollar or so shining shoes."

Now I began to grow truly interested. Here was a boy of 12 who was working harder than most men. Sounded as though it might be material for me.

"Tell me something about yourself," I urged. "Do you support your family?"

He put down his papers. He seemed just as anxious to talk as I was to listen.

"Yeah," he said. "I support them. That is, I give most of it. I got a little brother selling newspapers, too. But he's only 8—and he ain't able to bring in much.

"Pop's a janitor a coupla blocks from here and mom ain't able to get around very much. Pop's been outa work for over a year. He can't seem to find anything. So I go to keep on the move."

He pointed a finger at me.

"You know what I do, mister? I get up in the morning and help pop around the house. Then I go to school at 9 and come out at 3. From 3 to 6 I shine shoes. Then I study until around 9 o'clock, when the morning papers come out. I knock off around 1 o'clock and go home to bed.

"It keeps me pretty busy, all right."

He replaced the papers under his arm and walked away. I looked after him and shook my head. An amazing story. And while I was thinking about it he returned.

He took a little box from his pocket, opened it and placed it proudly before me. Inside was a little tin medal.

"You see that," he chirped. "That's a medal I won in school for conduct. My teacher gave it to me this morning. Pretty, ain't it?"

I nodded.

"What are you going to do with it?" I asked him.

He smiled.

"Give it to mom," he returned. "She's pretty sick, you see. I like to buy her little things and give 'em to her. I didn't buy this. I won it. And when I give it to her, it's gonna make her awful happy."

This was too much for the old but tender Hellinger heart. I reached into my pocket and drew out a dollar.

"Here, sonny," I said. "Take this with you tonight. Buy your mother a little something for me."

Those eyes were like two large pools of gratitude. He took the dollar.

"Thanks, mister," he murmured. "You don't know how much this will mean to mom. Thanks, mister."

Charlie M——— left the restaurant. I sat around a few minutes longer. The wife didn't appear and the comedians failed to get funny. So I decided to stand in the air for awhile.

I bought my hat back from the charming mademoiselle in the cloakroom and strolled into the street. A few steps from the restaurant, up against a rail, was the boy to whom I had just given a dollar. He was talking to another boy with newspapers under his arm. I strolled closer and just managed to catch the tail end of the conversation.

"He's sitting at that table on the left, I tell you," Charlie was saying, "and he's a chump for the sob stuff. I gave him the old one about the sick mother and he slipped me a buck. You go in, tell him you're an orphan and I'll bet he'll give you two bucks.

"But, remember, I want half!"

FRIEDA MIERSE... A beautidamsel. Winner of several beauty contests and now—naturally—a Ziegfeld glorification. Maybe she doesn't know that they're telling this story about her. She'll certainly learn it now.

Frieda lives out in Flushing, or Jamaica, or Far Rockaway, or one of those places. When she heard her phone ring at 8 o'clock in the morning not so long ago, she was both sleepy and annoyed. It's bad enough when a Follies girl is annoyed. But when she's sleepy in the bargain, a murder is just around the corner.

The caller proved to be—and how did you ever guess it—a man.

"You don't know me, Miss Mierse," he said, "but I would like very much to meet you some time and—"

The pretty lady was extremely vexed.

"No," she barked. "I don't know you and I don't expect to know you. The idea of calling me at this hour of the morning! Please don't annoy me again!"

She hung up the receiver with a bang and returned to the sweet slumber that is so necessary to a Follies girlie. It wasn't 10 minutes later, however, when the phone disturbed her all over again. And once more it proved to be the same man.

"Please don't be angry at me," he pleaded. "I've just come to town from Pittsburgh, Pa., and we have several mutual friends out there. They've all told me that you are the most beautiful girl in New York and I'm terribly anxious to meet you.

"Won't you please do me the great honor of taking luncheon with me? Please? And please again?"

Frieda refused. The man pleaded. She yawned. And she finally agreed.

The man's voice leaped.

"That's marvelous of you," he cried. "It's simply great of you to be so kind to me. But how will I recognize you when you get there?"

Once more the pretty lady yawned.

"Very easily," she breathed. "I'll be late!"

'LOST' CONWAY MAN RETURNS

While the town fire siren aroused additional citizens to join in the search and posses tracked the surrounding hillsides, John Kelly, 63, of Conway, whose absence from home started an extensive manhunt, dismounted from a street car last night and calmly announced that he had been "visiting."

Kelly's absence was first noticed by his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Wohnhaus, with whom he made his home, when he failed to return for dinner. When he was still absent several hours later she became worried and notified police, who started search under the direction of Police Chief William C. McElhaney.

Members of the fire department, Boy Scouts and other searched woods in the vicinity of Conway for over two hours. Surrounding towns were notified and additional help was being summoned when Kelly stepped from the street car, highly indignant, police said, at the interest being taken in his affairs.

FALL TO RENEW COURT FIGHT

EL PASO, Tex., May 22.—(AP.)—Albert B. Fall said today improved health and the importunities of friends had led him to revive a fight against conviction of accepting a bribe as secretary of the interior.

Fall, sentenced to a year in jail and $100,000 fine in connection with the leasing of naval oil reserves, announced May 2 that, due to his age and lack of funds, he would abandon plans for an appeal to the Supreme Court and place his plea before President Hoover.

Frank J. Hogan, one of his attorneys, revealed in Washington last night the former secretary again would seek a review of the case. Edward L. Doheny, a friend of Fall, was acquitted on a charge of giving the money.

JOB SWINDLER JAILED, SCORED

Judge R. M. Gibson in Federal Court scored Hary C. Lake, 48, of Indiana, Pa., when the latter was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail for using the mail in a scheme to victimize unemployed men and women. He had offered to obtain them employment for a fee of $1. The Judge referred to Lake's operations as a "mean, dirty scheme."

Lake was arrested by Postoffice Inspector George V. Craighead April 8 at the Pittsburgh Postoffice, when he called for mail addressed to the "Mutual Aid Society," sent by persons in answering advertisements which offered positions to 100 men and 100 women. In reply to the letters Lake would offer to enroll them for $1 each with the "Mutual Aid Society."

Jackie Cooper, Screen Skippy, Given Star Film Contract

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, a Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, MAY 22.

Jackie Cooper, a young actor whose name is on everybody's tongue in Hollywood these days, will work in the future for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

His contract has been bought from Hal Roach, and he now will be a fellow star with Marion Davies, Joan Crawford, Norma Shearer, Greta Garbo, Jack Gilbert, William Haines and many of filmdom's magic names.

Jackie Cooper

It is a great honor for a boy not yet 7 years old, but few will deny Jackie the right after his heart-warming performance in "Skippy." He reached the heights in this film.

Orders already have gone out for the writing staff at M. G. M. to prepare an original story for Jackie's first starring picture. In the meanwhile, he still has to do "Sooky" for Paramount.

Jackie's father is dead. His mother used to do a vaudeville act with the wife of Norman Taurog, who directed "Skippy."

THE PACE THAT KILLS

A group were discussing the many studio shakeups of the last few months. Up spoke Bert Ruby to remark you don't say "Hello" to anybody on his lot any more. You say "Goodbye" and nine times out of ten you're correct.

LATEST GOSSIP

Among those departing their present studio jobs will be Ona Munson, the musical comedy star, who was brought out here by First National, and Myrna Loy, whose exotic beauty has been seen in many Fox pictures . . . Presumably, they will free-lance . . . The recent consolidation of the working forces of Warners and First National is said to have effected a cut of more than 50 per cent in overhead . . . How Daryll Zanuck and his two associates, Lucien Hubbard and Hal Wamlis, expect to handle the normous production duties of the companies is another thing irely. If I remember correctly, sister-studios announced 76 ctures on their new program. . . Influenza has claimed Fifi rsay as its victim. This will ake no difference in her plans to East, however, for she hadn't itended to start until June 11. . Lilyan Tashman has a collecon of art objects, all of which ve the human hand as a motif. . Mother Coulyer, the wardbe mistress at M. G. M., occued the same job in the old Veber and Fields music hall comany. She and Marie Dressler ere girlhood friends.

Myrna Loy

IAT DID WIVES SAY?

Back in New York, Eddie tor and George Jessel met dinner one night at a hotel. h of their wives were along the plans were to spend the ning at cards. In the midst the meal, Jessel said he had go across the street for a few utes and appear at a benefit. invited Cantor to work with They went on together and five-minute act panicked the d. It was so good in fact that ssel proposed to go to another enefit not far away. This time he act was enlarged to 10 minites. Again, it was a scream. By hen, both the players were highly nthusiastic. They went to a third nd a fourth benefit, and it was idnight before one of them rehembered the wives. What happened then is unrecorded.

MUSIC
Carnegie Lecture Hall

PROGRAM

Chant de Veslemoy .... Halvorsen-Kramer
Serenade, Op. 8, L. Van Beethoven
Folk Song, Op. 53 No. 5 ..... F. Mendelssohn
Andante Cantabile, Op. 11 .... P. Tschaikowsky
Silhouette .... A. Walter Kramer
La Traviata .... G. Verdi
Prelude to 3rd Act.
(a) A Norse Child's Requiem .. .. F. Zitterbart
(b) Minuet.

The String Symphonic Ensemble of Pittsburgh gave its second concert in Carnegie Lecture Hall last night. Since the theaters have dismissed many of their former players some of these musicians have banded together to make us some very charming music. These smaller ensembles have at their disposal excellent music from all the great composers, and some little encouragement from our public for these men might bring us that intimate music which we so sorely miss in Pittsburgh.

J. Fred Lissfelt

The group of players last night was under the leadership of Oscar E. Del Bianco, a director of considerable enthusiasm, if not too much subtlety. The ensemble shows signs of its youth, but during the Beethoven Serenade and the very tuneful music of Zitterbart played many a fluent melody, and was duly applauded by the cordial audience.

Exiled Jesuits Find Haven in Austria

INNSBRUCK, Austria, May 22.—(AP.)—The head of the Jesuit Order in the Tyrol, who last week invited any Jesuits who might be expelled from Spain to accept his hospitality, was reported to have received notification that a large contingent was on the way.

Business Man Freed In Lawyer's Death

JACKSON, Miss., May 22.—(AP.)—Edward Morgan, 26, young Jackson business and society man, was acquitted by a jury last night of a charge of murder in the death of George E. Rice, attorney. The jury deliberated an hour and 15 minutes.

On Broadway

Egoist

I think that you will find her very sweet,
She dances well and has a clever line;
Quite ardent—don't mistake me—but discreet—
Her code is simple, sir, but rather fine;
She's fair at bridge—she drinks a tiny bit,

I really think you're doing very well—
I know the year I ran with her was grand;
Well, best of luck, and only time will tell
If you can meet each feminine demand;

Of course, my lad, I know you will agree
It's quite a handicap to follow me!

The Retort Oop!

Lou Holtz, the "You Said It!" star, would have you believe that he presented his colored valet with a bottle of hooch the other night after the show. The valet didn't resume his duties until four days later.

"What happened to you?" asked Holtz.

"Ah've been very sick," sighed the chap.

"Was it the likker?" queried Lou.

"No, sah," said the lad, "the likker was jes right."

"How do you mean just right?"

"If it had been any better," was the reply, "you wouldn't have given it to me, and if it was any wuss, ah'd have been daid!"

Izzy Elinsonisms

The collegiate, who is always in style, but doesn't wear a hat, wants it understood that now it is a straw that he's not wearing.

This is the time of the year traffic cops have "Hey!" fever.

A redeeming feature of the drought is that it appears to have discouraged rain songs.

George Jessel's life has been threatened. If a gun were pointed at Jessel he'd probably think it was merely another blackout sketch in a revue and deliver the gag line.

The Morning Mail

"Dear Mr. Winchell: By the time you receive this I shall be on my way to Port au Prince on a freighter as one of the crew. Two nights out I will jump overboard, and that will be the end of one who took New York too seriously. I've been a shipmate of Eugene O'Neill and once served under Joseph Conrad. My reason for writing to you is that I can think of no one who is so typically representative of the city of shadows and lights . . . too much of each.

"I tried writing my adventures on the sea and elsewhere. After three months I realized I didn't have a chance. Nobody ever heard of me, and I had no pull. Then I realized the truth about this town. You're either on top or bottom, and there's no in-between. It's either champagne or poison. I'm 56 now. The irony is that I roamed the world and nobody ever licked me. I come to Broadway, which has been good to you, and it gets me. I'm signing my right name. I shipped under another.—Good-bye, Hal Hjarkmann."

S'long.

Always the Critic

In one of the smarter speakeasies the other night George Jean Nathan, who eats actors alive, was irritated by a couple in their cups who were making love right out loud.

Merciless Truth

And when a pale-faced entertainer in a shiny tuxedo got up and offered a love song from one of the minor musical hits, Nathan observed:

"American lyrics are better than American lovers."

Broadway

Broadway is a cinematic Epic . . . with mob scenes of countless extras . . . and the world's greatest ensemble and chorus. . . . It's a secret passage to oblivion . . . It is where it is easy to get a test, under a perfect flood of lights . . . but it often requires re-takes . . . It is the happy hunting ground for the wise cracketeer . . . Its path teems with love interest . . . and its byways with usury interest. . . . Broadway is as gay as Mickey Mouse, and potent as a Mickey Finn . . . It's a newsreel going on forever . . . It lapdissolves with quickly changing pictures, like the thoughts of a hophead . . . It fades in with a comedy routine, and fades out on "Came the Dawn" . . . It's a long shot any way you play it.—Tom J. Geraghty, Hollywood.

Nifty

A drunk was staggering down West Fifty-fourth street last night and finally flopped head first into the gutter with a horrible thud.

A Form of Criticism

Boomerang

When George Bernard Shaw and William Archer were defending the drama for London they tiffed with each other via their columns to the delight of many. Archer, frinstance, once argued that Shaw's opinion of "Henry IV" was not a criticism, but purely theoretic deduction from Shaw's race, diet and politics—in short, Shaw's nature and environment.

"And," added Archer, "it is a monstrous injustice that Mr. Beerbohm Tree should be made to suffer from Shaw's environment."

"What outrageous nonsense!" yipped Shaw in rebuttal. "Mr. Tree is infinitely obliged to me; for all London, it appears, is flocking to his theater to see whether he is as rotten as I said he was!"

Robinson Predicts Parley on Silver

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP.)—Confidence that an international conference will be called to discuss the silver problem was expressed by Senator Robinson (Dem.), Arkansas, on his return to Washington.

The Democratic Senate leader said a conference called by China might have more beneficial results than if called by some less interested nation. He added, he had no information as to whether China would issue such a call.

Aspinwall Club Decides Married Women Should Not Be Employed

Women should not engage in gainful occupation after marriage—at least that is the opinion of the Woman's Club of Aspinwall, which had a debate on the subject yesterday. The program in its entirety was one of the most interesting of the season. Presented by the music committee, it included solos by Lillian Terrell, with Mrs. Maud Topping playing violin obligatos and Miss Betty Beatty accompanying at the piano; solos also by Mrs. Clara Emerson Shramm, Miss Beatty accompanying, and a quartet number by Miss Frances McCaslin, Miss Terrell, Mrs. Rachel Parsons French and Mrs. J. W. Munsell piano duet accompanient by Miss Betty and Mrs. L. L. Vayda and Mrs. George Robie singing an obligato written for the violin.

Even the debate was conducted in keeping with the musical idea, for Mrs. William Anderson cleverly likened each of its parts to the movement of a sonata and introduced the speakers accordingly. Mrs. F. E. Sturgeon prefaced the debate with some statistics concerning the number of married women "gainfully occupied" and the sort of positions they hold. Twelve per cent of Pittsburgh's married women are members of the "two-earner system," she said.

Promotes Business

Since woman no longer produces everything in the home, it is but natural that she should follow home products outside the four walls and so justify her economic existence. Mrs. E. W. Duckwall pointed out in her exceedingly amusing presentation of the affirmative side. That occupation for the wife smooths the way for early marriage, removes the fear of economic dependence in middle life, promotes business (since an employed wife must have all the latest apparatus to assist her in her housework), provides self-expression and contentment were among Mrs. Duckwall's arguments.

On the negative side, Mrs. A. V. Laub contended that the married working woman keeps out really worthy young workers who are in greater need of the salary; that a wife's salary usually goes for luxuries; that marriage and motherhood should have the individual attention of every woman; that children brought up by strangers have less resistance than those cared for by their own mothers; that occupation usually means a choice between job and children.

Expressions received from the floor were equally interesting and ranged all the way from the old "sanctity of the home" phrases to emphatic pronouncements to the effect that no husband "supports" his wife—she earns her half of the income and that sons should be brought up in that understanding.

In a further attempt to catch the viewpoint of the consumer on advertising, the Woman's Advertising Club will hold another luncheon in Kaufmann's on Monday. Several prominent men and women have been asked to present their views informally on advertising. Miss Betty Bell is chairman.

The Kappa Alpha Theta fraternity will elect officers at a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Chapter House, Neville street.

Bauman and committees of residence, health, education and business women are co-operating in "Village" attractions, which include among others, the Pepper-Pot, the Purple Pup, the prize fishery and dancing.

Mrs. Cloud

Mrs. Henry Roe Cloud, wife of the president of the American Indian Institute, Wichita, and herself a supervisor at the institute, will speak tomorrow at the afternoon session of the third biennial meeting of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Societies in the Bellefield church. Qualifying for civil service, she went into the Indian service as a teacher, going first to the Blackfeet of Montana, and taking a nursing course in Philadelphia between school terms. She taught two years at the Carlisle Indian School.

The May meeting of the Goucher College Alumnae Association will be held tomorrow afternoon in the home of Miss Olive Loeffler, Pennsylvania Apartments, Center avenue. The chief business of the day will be election of officers for the ensuing two years. This season's activities will close in June with an afternoon meeting followed by a picnic supper at the summer home of Mrs. E. C. Leslie, Campbell's Run road.

Goucher Meeting

* * *

The presence of five members of the Erie Mt. Holyoke Club will give to the Pittsburgh Mt. Holyoke Club's meeting tomorrow something of the nature of a reunion, for some of the visitors are classmates of Pittsburghers and are their guests over the week-end. Mrs. Howard Fish, Miss Helen Spencer, Miss Josephine Mayer, Miss Emily Irvine and Miss Marion Van Netta are the guests. The meeting tomorrow will be in the Pittsburgh Field Club and will be addressed by Miss Elizabeth M. Lee, who will tell of her South American trip.

A bronze tablet, commemorating the first radio broadcast to the North and South poles, will be dedicated Sunday at 5 p. m. in the Shadyside Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, who made both broadcasts, will make the dedicatory address. Dr. H. P. Davis, vice president of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, "father" of radio, will also speak. The tablet was designed by Frank Vittor.

The service will be broadcast, and Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, who received the broadcast to the South Pole, will hear it at his home in Winchester, Va.

INDEPENDENTS OPEN FALL ELECTION CAMPAIGN

NO 'HARMONY' DECLARES MALONE

McGovern Expected to Head Ticket; McGregor, Smith, Garland, Anderson There

With the primary election three months away an Independent Republican movement, which probably will put a full ticket headed by County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern into the field, is well under way.

It was launched last night at Peabody High School by a crowd which packed the auditorium to its doors.

M'GREGOR ON STAND

On the speakers' stand was Coroner W. J. McGregor. His appearance was interpreted as his maiden bow as an independent. Others who participated in the meeting included Councilmen Robert Garland and Charles Anderson, Secretary of Property and Supplies James F. Malone, former Councilman P. J. McArdle and former Morals Court Magistrate A D. Brandon, the latter two eliminated from public office by the Kline administration two years ago; Deputy Attorney General Ralph H. Smith, Attorneys Frank Canuti, Joseph H. Reich, Raymond D. Evans and Benjamin Lencher, Clerk of Courts Samuel J. Topley and Judge Sara M. Soffel. All of the speakers are either aspirants to office or candidates for re-election.

MEHARD PRESIDES

The keynote of the meeting was sounded by Chairman Churchill Mehard, who declared it to have been called:

"Not for the purpose of picking or indorsing any candidates, but as a get together meeting to carry the message to independent voters to organize and throw off the yoke of domination by any small group of powerful slate makers and assert their inherent rights to choose candidates for public office."

Malone said:

"Certain gentlemen downtown can talk harmony all they please but if there are any persons in Allegheny County that think there is not going to be a real contest next fall, they are very much mistaken."

SMITH RAPS BATHTUBS

Smith, often mentioned as a possible candidate for district attorney, said:

"We need now a County Commissioners' majority more interested in financial set-ups and which has knowledge enough not to try to build a road that must hurdle a water works plant. We need a mayor who has more interest in trying to lower tax rates than in Persian rugs. We need a police superintendent more interested in law enforcement than in mother-of-pearl bathtubs and a district attorney who doesn't need the newspapers to tell him the law."

McGovern said that previous to the advent of Joseph G. Armstrong in the County Commissioner's office, in 1924, it never had been necessary to borrow money to conduct the county's business. He said:

"I voted for the Town Hall item in the bond issue when I learned that the state would build one for $1,000,000 on the tax-free armory property owned by the county, and also pay the operating expenses, thereby saving the taxpayers of the county about $300,000 a year.

"I could send to the Western Union and get one of its messenger boys who would use better judgment than my associates on the Board of Commissioners."

Councilmen Garland and Anderson urged independent voters to be sure they were assessed and had a tax receipt for voting purposes. Anderson pointed out that under a recent law, voters may be assessed up to September 2.

The meeting was arranged by Mrs. Frank J. Boyle, secretary of the East End Independent League.

SCOUTS REPORT CITY TRAFFIC SURVEY

1,100 Boys Aid McIntyre In Solving Problems Of Parking, Congestion

The sixth annual measurement of Pittsburgh's street traffic pulse was completed yesterday by 1,100 Boy Scouts of Allegheny County Council under the direction of City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre and Scout Executives A. T. Benson and Tom Venable.

Facts were gathered by the scouts for the Bureau of Traffic Planning and the Better Traffic Committee regarding parking in the downtown business district, traffic volumes on important arteries, conditions on hazardous streets in the vicinity of 22 city schools, the number and location of all city traffic sign and signal equipment and the rates of speed of automobiles on through traffic streets.

PARKING SURVEY

The downtown parking survey, the third which has been made by the scouts for the traffic committee, was, McIntyre indicates, for the purpose of determining its effect on congestion. The parking check this year is to be compared with counts made in 1927 and 1929.

Information regarding the location and condition of traffic signs and signals, gathered by groups of scouts assigned to each section, is to be used, according to McIntyre, as the basis for a complete check on all existing equipment under the control of the Bureau of Traffic Planning. Damaged and poorly placed equipment, which has been in service since before the Traffic Planning Bureau has been organized, will either be moved, repaired or replaced.

ESTIMATES TOTAL

McIntyre estimates that the volumes of traffic entering and leaving the downtown business district this year will reach a daily total between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m., the hours of the count, of approximately 130,000 vehicles.

Counts made by scouts of outlying intersections are to be used as the basis for re-timing of traffic lights which are not coordinated with any of the city's seven traffic control systems, McIntyre says. Such "stop-and-go" lights are brought up to date each year in order to meet changing traffic demands.

The 1,100 scouts taking part in the count yesterday were organized in groups under scout masters and older scouts who acted as supervisors. Approximately 150 group and intersection supervisors reported the results of the count to the traffic planning office last night.

PLANNING ALL-WOMAN CAMPAIGN

Pittsburgh Woman Judge, Woman Manager Working for Re-election

EXCLUSIVE PHOTO by Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

MISS HANNAH J. PATTERSON — JUDGE SARA M. SOFFEL

Judge Soffel, of the county courts, the state's only woman judge, and her woman campaign manager, Miss Patterson, prominent in women's politics in Pittsburgh for many years, laying the early plans for Miss Soffel, an appointee, to win her judgeship in next election.

JUDGE SOFFEL LAUDS AIDE

Regarding her recent choice of Miss Hannah J. Patterson as chairman of her campaign committee, Judge Sara M. Soffel today said:

"Miss Patterson is especially fitted for her present task because of the vast experience acquired in organizing Allegheny County during the suffrage campaign."

Judge Soffel was appointed by Gov. Fisher August 4, 1930. She has sat on the civil side of court continuously since her induction into office, but will take charge of Juvenile Court this summer or early fall, she said.

Anti-Cheating Gadgets Work Unexpectedly On Vote Machine

Chet Cooke, local representative of the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, of Baltimore, had recovered his composure today, but the first of Allegheny County's 1,100 voting machines to arrive here had him in hot water yesterday.

The audience at the Women's Educational Political Association voted on the machine at its meeting in the Central Branch Y. W. C. A. yesterday after listening to County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern's address in which he declared the machine is as nearly cheat-proof and fraud-proof as anything he had ever seen, because it prints the result of elections.

The trouble developed when, following the original demonstration, Cooke had started to take off the result. At this point, Mrs. Lois D. McBride, chairman of the meeting, invited everybody to try the machine to see how easily it worked. Cooke accomodatingly quit cranking while the women operated the machine, then resumed his turning of the handle which grinds out the printed total sheet.

But the machine had no more consideration for Cooke than if he had been a professional ballot box stuffer. The paper would not come out. All it did was tear.

Much perturbed, Cooke strove to make the machine work properly. Suddenly he remembered the interrupted cranking. That had made the trouble.

After he had removed the back of the machine and rethreaded the paper in the printing device he was able to show the result of the "election." Mrs. McBride and Commissioner McGovern verified Cooke's explanation of what appeared at first to be a failure of operation.

Tag Sales for Next Christmas Growing

CHICAGO, May 22.—(AP.)—Santa Claus' pack may be heavier next Christmas.

It's a long time off, but F. D. Dodge, secretary of the National Toy Manufacturers' Association, said today sales for next Christmas had taken "a remarkable upward trend."

Jews Celebrate Pentecost Throughout World

Jewish congregations in Pittsburgh will join synagogues throughout the world today in celebrating Pentecost—the Feast of Weeks.

The feast "Shabuoth" was ushered in last night and will be celebrated for two days by Orthodox Jews. Pentecost, so called because it follows the second day of Passover by 50 days, has its analogy in the Christian Pentecost, and corresponds to it much as docs Easter to "Pesach."

Like Passover and Tabernacles, the Feast of Weeks was originally an agricultural festival in the religious calendar, and is sometimes called the Feast of the First Ripe Fruits. It is celebrated in the home by the tasting of milk and honey, and during the festival the synagogue is decorated with flowers and green branches.

During medieval times, the agritural significance of the holiday was lost, and teachers associated it with the giving of the Ten Commandments. To this day the festival is often called "Zeman Matan Torasene," the Day of the Giving of the Law, and accordingly boys and girls of Jewish faith are confirmed during this season.

Women Fight 'Slate' in Club Vote

CONGRESS HERE HAS LIVELY BALLOTING

Battle of Four Years Ago As 350 Gather to Name New List of Officers

Not since four years ago when the last hotly contested presidential election of the Congress of Clubs resulted in the choice of the "regular" ticket, has the clubhouse been the scene of so much excitement as today, when another campaign drew to a close at the annual meeting.

At least 350 women were crowded into the auditorium when the meeting opened with the retiring president, Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston, in the chair.

The regular ticket—that presented by the nominating committee and headed by Mrs. T. M. Stahlman for the presidency—was opposed by an independent group.

Nominations were made from the floor for the independents, Mrs. Hubert Chapman naming Mrs. D. Edwin Miller for the presidency, and Mrs. C. C. Poling naming Mrs. Edmond Englert for the second vice presidency.

When Mrs. John S. Sloan seconded the nomination of Miss Miriam Schonfield to the board of directors, made by Mrs. Walter R. Fleming, she said that in her long knowledge of Congress affairs this was the first time a representative from the Council of Jewish Women had not been named to the board by the nominating committee, that it has been the custom to have as directors a representative of both the Council of Jewish Women and the Council of Catholic Women.

Mrs. H. G. Taylor, Mrs. Ray S. Judd and Mrs. J. C. Schreiner were also named from the floor to the board of directors.

The nominating committee's ticket includes Mrs. W. H. Francies for second vice president; Mrs. H. C. Breidert, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. H. T. Frauenheim, Mrs. Sherman Massingham, Mrs. W. E. Morgan, Mrs. Thomas P. Otto, Mrs. Edward Rynearson and Mrs. J. E. White, directors.

ADMITS FORGING 'DOPE' ORDER

A craving for morphine forced Edna Sable, 35, of 936 West North avenue, a dope addict, to forge her physician's name to prescriptions, she told Magistrate Ray E. Schneider in North Side Police Court today.

She was arrested at the Peoples drug store last night after the druggist doubted the authenticity of large prescriptions she brought to be filled.

Dr. W. A. Schmidt, of 1235 Iten street, whose name had been forged to the prescription, testified he had permitted the women to take a small quantity of dope daily for the past year.

Schneider turned over the case to federal narcotic agents.

44 Veterans Honored By West Penn Co.

Forty-four veteran employes of the West Penn Electric Company were honored at the tenth annual banquet of the company last night at McCreery's dining room. More than 1,000 attended the dinner at which the veterans were given badges signifing their long years of service.

Falls Off Scaffold, Back Feared Broken

Guda Chimodori, 33, of 327 Bothwell street, suffered a probable broken back today when he fell from a scaffold on which he was working on a building at 2922 Perrysville avenue. He was removed to the Allegheny General Hospital.

Chief to Press Drive Against Fire Hazards In Campaign to Raze Old, Dangerous Buildings

Bureau Will Tear Down All Structures Found Particularly Unsafe

Business buildings and multiple dwellings are being rigidly inspected. The bureau has authority to raze dwelling, which are particularly dangerous as a fire hazard and will exercise it where cases warrant, Smith said.

PERIL WELL KNOWN

The dangers of dilapidated dwellings, where doors and windows are out, and rubbish has accumulated, are well known to the department, Chief Smith said. He is strongly in favor of razing this type of structure.

The Sun-Telegraph has been conducting a campaign for the removal of old, dangerous and unsightly buildings, with co-operation of officials in the departments of Public Safety and Health.

DEBRIS PRESENTS RISK

The risk of fire in an empty house where rubbish has accumulated was illlustrated recently in a blaze in a frame kitchen at the rear of 59 Arthur street, Third Ward. Quick work by firemen put it out with little damage, but they were compelled to move a large quantity of debris to get at the flames.

The fire prevention division which has been in operation about one year has done splendid work, Smith said. Periodic inspections are made and efforts directed to educate owners to prevent fires. Roy Hiller is in charge. Fire loss in Pittsburgh has been cut down approximately 50 per cent in five years, Smith said.

PURSE THIEVES FLEE IN AUTO

Two men robbed Anne Scnesky, of 6528 Darlington road, of her purse, containing $19, last night at Denniston avenue and Darlington road, according to a report to police. The pair escaped in an automobile.

Fight on Perry Road Swamp to Resume

MEADVILLE, Pa., May 22.—(AP.)—Contractors are preparing to resume work on the section of the new Perry Highway, 12 miles from here, where a swamp has hampered the work for more than a year. Engineers first estimated 30,000 cubic feet of fill would be sufficient to overcome the soggy spot, but more than 300,000 cubic feet have been used so far, and repeated collapsing of the ground has held up completion of the project.

Plan Loudspeakers In Church Services

LONDON, May 22.—(AP.)—Substitution of a loudspeaker for the minister in some churches was reported by the Daily Mail today to be under consideration by bishops of the Church of England. Inasmuch as there is a serious shortage of clergymen, it has been suggested that services in certain churches be broadcast with the hope that congregations would join in the prayers and responses as though they were led by a clergyman.

WORKMAN HURT AS WALL FALLS

A workman was seriously injured and two had narrow escapes when part of the wall of an old dwelling at 155 Mulberry way, near Fifteenth street, collapsed yesterday. Police today were guarding the building while workmen were razing it.

John Emery, of 846 Excelsior street, employe of the Equitable Gas Company, struck by a falling brick, was said at Mercy Hospital to have suffered concussion of the brain. Catherine Weber, 4, and Herman Weber, 6, standing near Emery at the door of the house when the coping fell, were unhurt.

The children's mother, Mrs. Sarah Weber, was in the building when bricks came down with a crash.

The accident brought an emergency call to the Bureau of Building Inspection. Superintendent H. L. Ley, who has been co-operating with the Sun-Telegraph in a campaign to raze dangerous buildings, answered in person and arranged for the police guard.

why TYDOL Gasolines are 99 28/100% Gum-Free

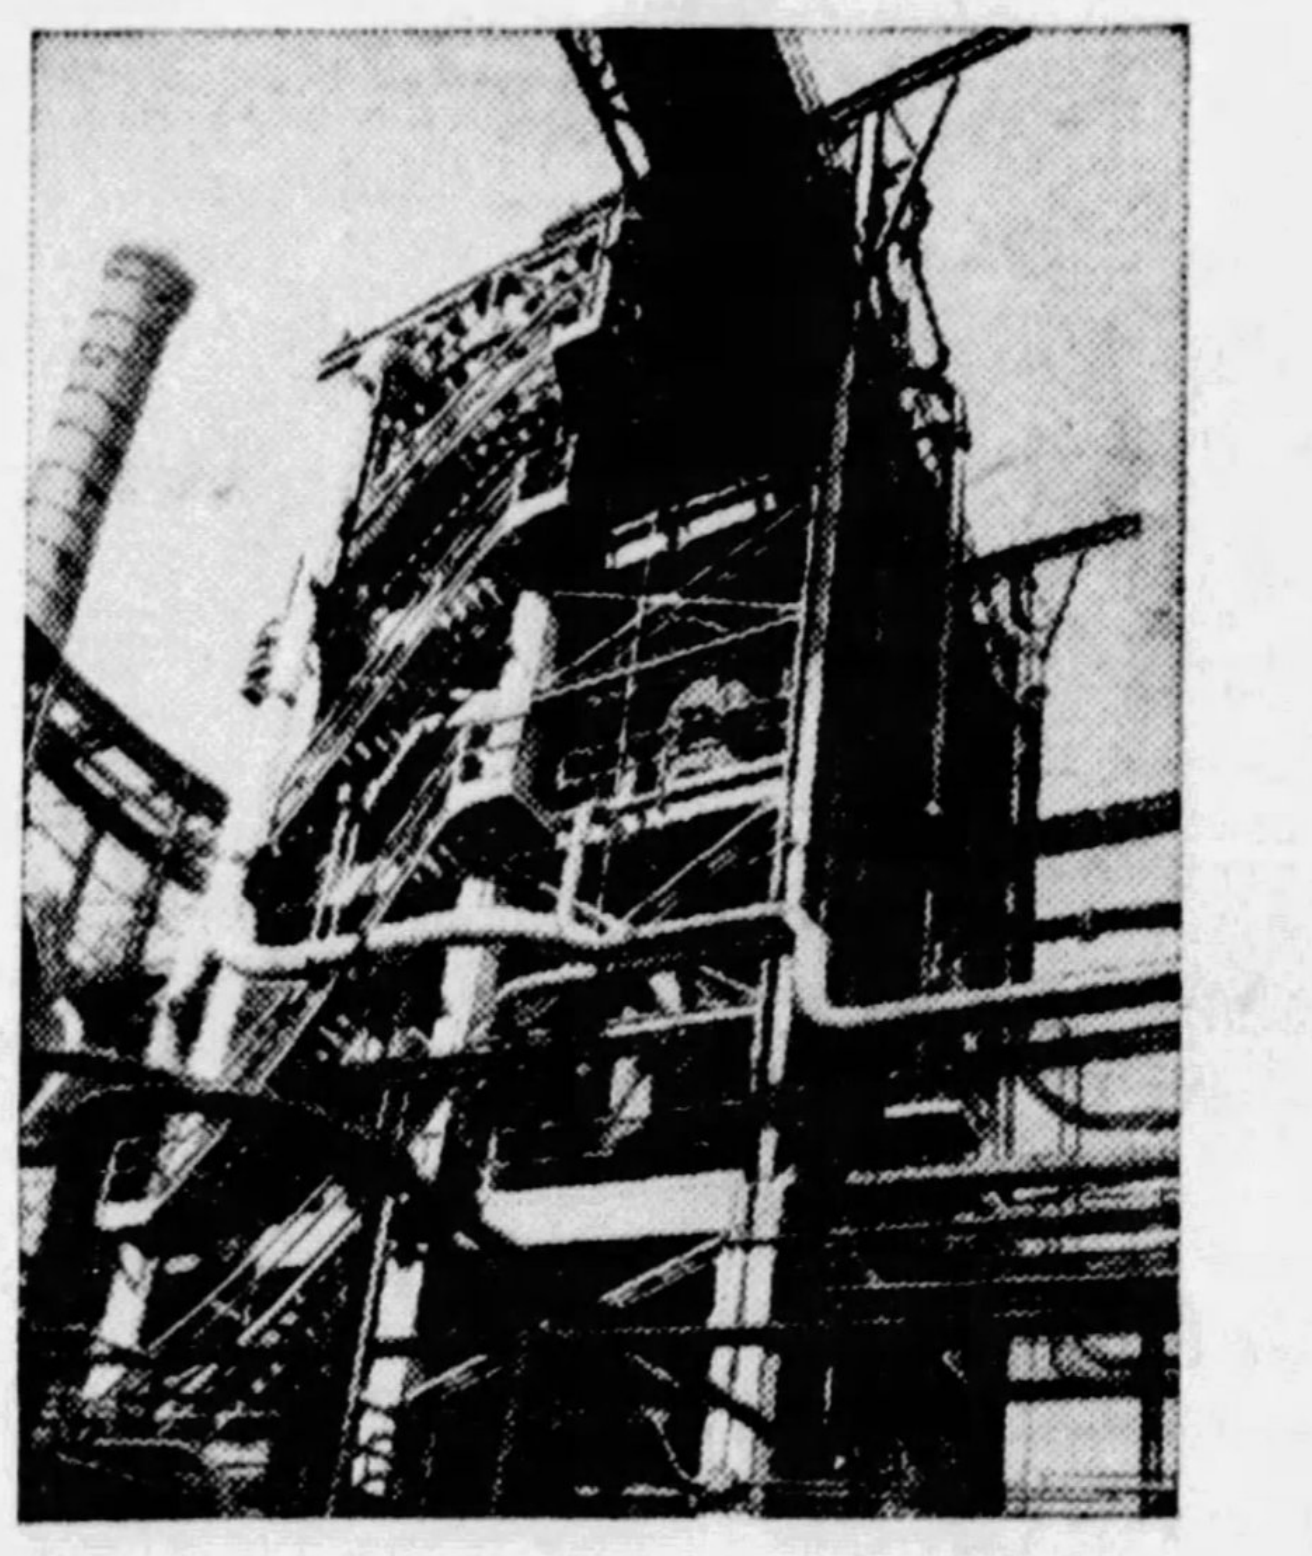
3 GUM-FREE BLENDING . . . Exclusive, secret blend of gum-free gasolines creates the super-power, high-test, anti-knock qualities of Hi-test TYDOL.

..but TYDOL Gasolines are 99 28/100% Gum-Free



"Gum-Tapped"

Refining equipment costing millions creates these pure, sparkling, gum-free gasolines. In this huge, modern, bubble tower, the gum-carrying gasolines are removed for re-distillation.

Gum—black, gluey, smelly—sneaks into your gas tank unseen . . . in gasolines that are seemingly pure and clear. Valves stick. Feed lines clog. Carbon forms. Piston rings twist out of shape.

Hasty or improper refining creates gum. Any time, anywhere, you may pick up gum in gasoline. But at no time, nowhere, will it be in Hi-test TYDOL.

For Hi-test TYDOL Gasoline is 99 28/100% gum-free. Tide Water put millions into new TYDOL refining equipment . . . to get gum out of gasoline . . . to put new purity . . . new quality . . . in gasoline.

Now by every count Hi-test TYDOL wins . . . Super-power. The lowest anti-knock rating compatible with purity. High-test. Gum-free . . . And no price-premium. Try it once and you'll buy it always.

REALTORS ASK PROPERTY TAX REVISION

The shifting of the burden of taxation to real estate seen in government statistics for Pittsburgh has been general in all sections of the country, and efforts are being made by the real estate interests to obtain legislation to afford relief,

Local realtors are connected with the state realty group which recently asked Gov. Pinchot to appoint a commission to present to the Legislature recommendations for relief measures. Pinchot is reported as favoring legislation to help the home owner.

INCREASE IN DRY ERA

Property taxes were 80.6 per cent of the total revenue in 1929, and 73.2 per cent in 1917. The latter date was before prohibition, when the city was receiving nearly $600,000 a year in liquor tax.

Nothing has been discovered so far to take the place of the tax on the saloons. There has been talk of a tax on soda fountains and restaurants, but nothing definite has developed. The property owner has continued to pay the bills.

The city also levied a tax on horse-drawn vehicles. Every time a horse is displaced by an automobile it costs the city money, as the local government gets no share in automobile license funds.

DISCUSS AUTO REVENUE

It has been reported on occasions that legislation is to be introduced to bring back to Pittsburgh a percentage of the automobile license fees the state collects here. Should the city get a proportionate share of this money, it would mean about $2,000,000 in added revenue and probably a big reduction in taxes.

Other forms of taxation considered for suggestion by the real estate interests and means of relief include a levy on heavy trucks and on taxicabs and buses. The old tax on horse-drawn vehicles was estimated at around $250,000 a year.

While the city's expenses have gone up rapidly, the earnings of the types of public service the city sells to the taxpayers, such as furnishing water, have not risen in proportion. There has been little increase in the water rates or in any of the other fees which the city charges for various types of service. This figure shrank from 10.5 per cent of the total revenue in 1917 to 5.8 per cent in 1927.

DAMAGED HOME IN ELLICOT ST. . . . FIREMEN HAD NO WATER!

Ruins of the home in which the mother, Mrs. Jane Hughes, 32, was hurt in escaping fire when she collided with her husband, Lawrence, early today. Firemen had to lay a hose line 1,500 feet long.

LAWRENCE, 11 JOSEPH, 9 JANE, 3 BABY WILLIAM, 10 MONTHS

WOMAN HURT FLEEING FIRE

In the confusion that resulted when lights in her home went out during a fire early today, Mrs. Jane Hughes, 32, of 2045 Ellicot street, bumped into her husband, Lawrence, as they ran to safety with their four children. Mrs. Hughes fell on a water bucket, injuring her face.

Three stitches were placed in her lip when she was treated at the Passavant Hospital.

The family occupied the first and second floors of the three-story frame dwelling. The third floor was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shakespeare and their two children. Aside from Mrs. Hughes, all occupants escaped without injury.

Mrs. Huges, awakened by smoke, roused her family and the Shakespeares.

James A. Matthews, 42, alleged proprietor of the Acmetonia Hotel, at Acmetonia, was arrested after the seizure of four half-barrels of beer and a small quantity of moonshine in the place, it was reported. Denied admittance, agents broke into the hotel.

A 75-gallon still and 15 gallons of moonshine were confiscated in the rear of 7115 Lemington avenue, where Tony Capelli, 34, was arrested.

Cat Causes Blast, Executioner Burned

SPOKANE, Wash., May 22.—(AP.)—Ralph Morse rubbed the cat's fur the wrong way.

There was a flaming blast, a feline yowl, a human howl and they summoned an ambulance for Ralph, who was burned about the face.

Morse was pulling the cat into the lethal gas chamber at the humane society barns at the time of the accident. Static electricity from the doomed animal ignited the gas.

DRAMA OF BETTIS FIELD AIR FEAT TO BE BROADCAST TONIGHT

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor

Baby Rose Marie

Pilot Charles Weiblen's courageous effort in landing his plane at Bettis Field last Friday, probably saving the lives of three women passengers and himself, is to be dramatized on Columbia-WJAS at 10:30 tonight. The landing gear of Weiblen's plane was disabled in taking off for Buffalo. Three other pilots at the field noticed his predicament from the ground and went aloft in a mail plane to signal Weiblen of his distress. Attempts to land a pilot on the plane to make repairs while in flight were unsuccessful. Weiblen then exhibited exceptional skill in landing the plane on one wheel, a la Lindbergh. The possibilities are rife for sound effects and tense moments. Hear it.

NEW YORK AIR RAIDS

Uncle Sam tests his war wings over Manhattan Island tomorrow afternoon in the greatest peacetime display in history. The broadcast on NBC-WCAE and CBS-WJAS at 2 o'clock involves an armada of 672 planes, 797 officers and 687 enlisted men as well as a score of announcers and two score engineers.

These planes flying as a division and in combat formation are to stage a mass attack over New York's financial district. But they are not to have everything their own way—defending planes are to challenge their attack and we guess there will be plenty of boom-boom.

Announcers are to have a grand opportunity at adjectives. The air division, 20 miles long, is to pass in review 1,000 feet above the Floyd Bennett Airport. Flying at 100 miles an hour, it will take 15 minutes for this mammoth aerial parade to pass a given point.

The networks have made plans to delineate everything. Announcers will be flitting about in planes and with binoculars other announcers will observe and report the maneuvers from atop the Empire State Building. George Hicks, Tew Jewett and Ted Husing are likely to ride the planes.

Again we say, don't miss it—WCAE and WJAS Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

QUESTION A DAY:

Often it is necessary to create a modern Babel in programs, such as depicting a mob scene. How is this done?—Kathryn V., Idlewild, Pa.

Answer—We suppose you mean the confusion of voices. Visitors are called into the studio and each is handed a bit of newspaper to read. At a given signal all start reading at once . . . and there you are!

ATTABOY, WALTER!

You know the story of Mark Twain being apprised of his death. When a reporter called his home to confirm the story, Twain himself answered and replied:

"The report has been grossly exaggerated."

In such a fashion did Walter Myers laugh off the story yesterday that he had resigned at KDKA . . . someone talked out of turn. And we're glad, because Walter is one of the most congenial boys we know . . . we never shall forget the colorful enthusiasm that characterize his report of Byrd's flight over the South Pole.

THIS AND THAT

Ben Bernie and Coon-Sanders are pointed toward Pittsburgh for summer engagements . . . If you want Mary Lewis, soprano, singing from Eiffel Tower Sunday at 6 o'clock, you will have to get it from WABC, New York, as WJAS is not in the hookup. . . . The LOUDSPEAKER—By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, May 22.—The most complete summary of broadcasting yet to be recorded anywhere in the world is that published under the title of B. B. C. Year Book.

It is a thick volume, this book of British radio enterprise—464 pages crammed full of facts and illustrated with photographs of the more illustrious personages whose voices have penetrated British parlors. Hoover is represented, the only American in the list—a youthful, almost boyscoutish Hoover.

Every question dealing with broadcasting in Great Britain is considered in the work, under headings ranging from "Finance" to "S. O. S. Rules." It's worth a peek just to see what they're doing abroad and how they're doing it. The peek is particularly appropriate now that Sir John Reith, grand mogul of British radio, is in this country to tell us of radio's part in educating England.

* * *

There are chapters detailing what the B. B. C. is doing for Scotland, and we find that among other things it is giving bulletins regularly on the herring fishery. There is a chapter telling of "co-operation in Ireland," and co-operation in Ireland is really new for a Britisher to talk about.

There is much space given to children's hours. And we learn that "nothing which is not good enough for adults is good enough for children and that really first-rate children's material is as hard to come by as it is difficult to write."

There is a description of its "National Chorus, 250 strong." There is a map for the guidance of pedestrians and motorists on "how to find No. 10 studio." There is a listing of the 110 members of the B. B. C. Symphony Orchestra, in which curiously are the names of 18 women. There is a record of several original plays written expressly for broadcasting. But in this field the usual confidence of the broadcasters is missing.

Then follows a note that the B. B. C is always glad to consider plays specially written or adapted for the mircrphone. A similar suggestion has yet to find its way into print from our own broadcasting companies.

Always evident in this handbook is the desire for improvement, the hint that the British radio men are feeling their way, experimenting in this or that direction toward the development of broadcasting.

Safety Glass

Ford cars are now equipped with safety glass in all doors and windows at a small extra charge

$20 for the Tudor Sedan, Standard Sedan, De Luxe Sedan, Town Sedan or Victoria

THE Triplex safety glass windshield has always been an outstanding feature of the Model A Ford. By reducing the dangers of flying glass, it has saved many lives and prevented countless injuries in automobile collisions.

Now comes a further assurance of safety to every Ford owner . . . polished plate safety glass in ALL DOORS AND WINDOWS at slight additional cost.

The charge for this extra protection is unusually low because of large production and the development of new methods of manufacture. Simply tell the dealer when you buy the Ford that you want "safety plate glass in all doors and windows" and the car will be factory-equipped for you in that manner.

Today, as before, the safety glass windshield is furnished as standard equipment on all Ford cars without extra charge.

FORD OWNERS—Please note that this announcement refers only to NEW CARS. Ford dealers are not in a position to install safety glass in the windows of your present Ford at the above prices.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

TAPIOCA CHEESE SOUFFLE—Scald 1 cup milk in a double boiler, add 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca and cook until the tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Add 1 cup grated American cheese, and stir until the cheese is melted. Cool. Mix well with the yolks of 3 eggs; then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of 3 eggs. Turn into a greased casserole and set in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven about 50 minutes or until the souffle is brown and shrinks a bit. Serve immediately.

* * *

CHUCK ROAST OF BEEF WITH VEGETABLES—Put 4 to 5 pounds chuck roast in a roasting pan and sear the meat on all sides in a hot oven. Reduce the heat. Sprinkle the meat with salt, pepper and celery salt. Add 2 cups boiling water, cover tightly, and cook until almost tender, turning the meat once during the cooking.

Now add 6 potatoes and about 2 cups carrots. When these vegetables are partly done, add 1 head new cabbage cut in quarters. Sprinkle with salt and finish cooking. In serving surround the meat with the vegetables, and garnish with watercress. A gravy is made with the liquid in the pan and served with the meat which is sliced very thin.

* * *

BAKED BLUEFISH—Split and bone the bluefish and place on a well-buttered sheet or cooking platter. Place in a hot oven for 20 minutes. Then spread the fish with the following ingredients, which have been combined: Cream ¼ cup butter and add 2 eggs yolks, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onions, 2 tablespoons chopped pickles, 2 tablespoons parsley, 2 tablespoons capers, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt and ⅓ teaspoon paprika. Return the fish to the oven and continue baking until the fish is done.

* * *

FRENCH APPLE CAKE—Cream 1 cup butter. Add ½ cup sugar to the yolk of an egg and beat until light. Add this to the creamed butter, and fold in ⅔ cup grated almonds and 1 cup flour. Put in pan, and when partly baked, remove from the oven. Spread with cold unsweetened apple sauce and in a layer half an inch thick. Top with the beaten whites of 2 eggs mixed with 2 tablespoons sugar. Return to the oven to finish baking.

* * *

POACHED EGG AND TOMATO RAREBIT—Mix 2 cups tomatoes with 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and ¼ teaspoon soda. Stew together for 5 minutes, then strain and thicken with 2 tablespoons flour which has been mixed to a smooth paste with a little cold water. Add 1 cup grated cheese and stir until smooth. On each slice of toast place 1 poached egg. Pour the tomato rarebit sauce around the egg. Sprinkle with a few grains paprika and garnish with parsley.

* * *

ORANGE BROWN BETTY—Toast 2 cups bread crumbs in the oven and mix with melted butter. Chop 4 to 6 apples, and have ready the juice of 1 orange. In alternate layers in a baking dish, put the bread crumbs and the chopped apples, sprinkling each layer of apples with orange juice, and about 1 tablespoon sugar. Cover during the first half hour of baking, then remove the cover and continue baking another half hour in a moderate oven.

* * *

MACARONI RAREBIT—In a double boiler, scald 2 cups milk, an orange peel, and 1 bay leaf. Remove the peel and leaf, and thicken the scalded milk with 4 teaspoons cornstarch moistened with cold milk. Add ½ pound sharp cheese, and stir slowly until the cheese is melted. Pour 2 cups cooked macaroni into a very shallow casserole. Add 4 tablespoons chili sauce, and over this pour the hot cheese mixture. Bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes.

* * *

CORN CUSTARD—Corn custard, served with crisply fried bacon, is as nice a luncheon choice as one could wish for. You can go to a lot of trouble about the corn custard if you want to, but this simple recipe of mine is, I stoutly maintain, one of the best! Try it for yourselves. Beat 2 eggs well, add a cup of milk and salt and pepper. Now add 2 cups of canned corn, stirring well. Turn into a buttered baking dish, bake in a moderate oven until firm.

* * *

GRAPEFRUIT SALAD WITH NUTS—Soak 1 level tablespoon gelatin in ¼ cup cold water for five minutes. Dissolve in ½ cup boiling water. Add ½ cup sugar and 1 cup grapefruit juice. Pour a little in the bottom of individual molds that have been rinsed in cold water. When slightly thickened arrange a ring of sliced olives with pecan meat in the center. When the remaining gelatin begins to thicken, stir in 12 whole pecan nut meats and 12 stuffed olives sliced. Pour into the molds. Chill, serve on lettuce garnished with mayyonaise and a whole nut meat.

* * *

CHOCOLATE MARSHMALLOW PIE—Line a pie plate with pastry, making a double rim and fluting the edges. Prick the bottom and sides with a fork and bake for 10 minutes in a 500 degree oven. Scald 2 cups of milk. Mix 4 tablespoons cocoa, ½ cup sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt, and into this stir the heated milk, into which you have blended 3 tablespoons cornstarch. Cook, stirring until thick, then continue cooking carefully for 20 minutes. Partially cool and add ½ tablespoon of butter and ¾ teaspoon vanilla, then pour into the pastry shell. Cut 10 marshmallows into slices, arrange evenly over the top and place the pie in the oven until the marshmallows are puffed and delicately browned.

* * *

FROZEN PEAR SALAD—One cup mayonnaise (½ pint), 1 cup sweetened whipped cream, 1 cup lemon gelatin, 6 halves bartlett pears, 1 cup whipped cream, 2 tablespoons crushed black walnuts, 2 tablespoons maraschino cherries.

Mix the ½ pint mayonnaise, whipped cream and dissolved gelatin. Mix the black walnuts, cherries, in the cup of whipped cream and fill the center of each half pear and lay them with the filling down in heart-shaped molds with jellied dressing and place in the ice chamber of the refrigerator and set until firm. About three hours is required to perfectly set and freeze this salad.

* * *

STUFFED TOMATO SALAD—Select medium size tomatoes, peel and remove pulp, having opening in top as small as possible. Sprinkle the inside with salt and pepper, invert and let stand 30 minutes.

Then take some roquefort cheese, put it in a bowl, add a little cream and mix with a fork until smooth. Chop 1 hard cooked egg and mix with the cheese. Fill the tomatoes with this mixture.

* * *

PEANUT SALAD—Shell, skin and chop 1 pint of peanuts; there should be ½ cup. Add 1 cup of celery, washed, scraped, diced and chilled in ice water or in the refrigerator, then dried in a towel. Marinate in French dressing. Wipe peppers, cut in halves lengthwise and remove seeds. Arrange on a bed of lettuce leaves, fill with mixture and garnish the two with 3 thin slices of radish overlapping one another. Serve with mayonnaise.

* * *

CEREAL MUFFINS—Scald 1 pint of milk and pour it over 3 cups of puffed rice or puffed wheat. Add ½ cup of granulated sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt and let stand until lukewarm. Then add 1 cake of yeast thoroughly dissolved, the whites of 2 eggs, beaten to a stiff froth, and gradually 2 pints of sifted flour. Knead thoroughly, cover and set aside for about 3 hours, or until very light. Mold into small, flat biscuits and let rise about ¾ of an hour. Bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven. This makes about 3½ dozen and takes about 5 hours.

* * *

RICE AND STRAWBERRY CREAM—Whip ¾ cup cream until very stiff, adding 3 tablespoons powdered sugar and a pinch of salt. Fold in 2 tablespoons blanched pistachio nuts, 6 marshmallows, cut in bits, and 1 cup sliced strawberries. Lastly, fold in 1 cup cold, boiled rice. Chill thoroughly before serving.

* * *

SWISS STEAK—Have round steak weighing about 2 pounds cut 1 inch thick. Mix ½ cup flour with salt and pepper and pound into the steak. Cook in butter until golden brown on both sides and sprinkle with ½ onion, chopped, and 1 green pepper, chopped. Add 1½ cups boiling water, blended with ½ cup tomato ketchup. Cover and simmer slowly until the meat is tender. This will take at least one hour.

butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1½ cups diced, cooked chicken, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 medium-sized can cream of celery soup, 3 hard-boiled eggs, sliced.

Melt butter, add flour and mix until smooth. Then add celery soup and cook until creamy, stirring constantly. Add salt, pepper, hard cooked eggs and chicken. Serve between halves and on top of the hot biscuits. Garnish with slices of egg, stuffed olives and sprigs of parsley.

* * *

PEACH CELESTINE—Combine 2 cups of diced, canned peaches and 2 cups of diced bananas. Pour over 1 cup of orange juice and 3 tablespoons of confectioners' sugar. Arrange in glasses and sprinkle 8 teaspoons of chopped preserved ginger over the top. This serves eight persons. If you like your peaches decorative, try a peach petal cup, which is made by arranging slices of canned peaches in a fruit cup to represent petals of a flower, alternating with slices of canned grapefruit. In the center place a cherry, lightly sprinkle with finely grated cocoanut so as to make it look like the white variegated center of a flower.

* * *

POP-OVERS—One cup flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon melted butter, ⅞ cup milk, 2 eggs. Mix flour and salt; add milk gradually to make a smooth batter. Beat whole eggs until light and add to mixture. Add butter. Beat 2 minutes with egg beater, turn into buttered custard cups or hissing hot buttered iron gem pans. Bake 30 to 35 minutes, beginning with hot oven (450 degrees) and decreasing gradually to moderate oven (350) as pop-overs start to brown. Makes 12 pop-overs.

* * *

DEVILED EGG AND LETTUCE SALAD—Six hard cooked eggs, 2 tablespoons chopped pickles, 3 tablespoons chopped celery, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 2 tablespoons chopped pimento, stuffed olives, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, ½ cup salad dressing, 6 pieces lettuce.

Cut the eggs in halves, lengthwise. Remove and mash the yolks. Add the pickles, celery, onion, olives, salt, paprika and 3 tablespoons of dressing. Roughly refill the cases. Chill. Arrange on the lettuce and top with the remaining dressing. Serves six.

* * *

HASH CAKES—Two cups chopped meat, 1 cup mashed potatoes, 2 tablespoons chopped green peppers, 2 tablespoons chopped onions, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1 egg or 2 yolks, 4 tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons bacon fat.

Mix the meat, potatoes, seasonings and egg. Shape into 6 cakes and sprinkle with the flour. Heat fat in frying pan, add and brown the cakes. Any leftover gravy can be heated and poured over the cakes after they have been placed on the serving platter.

* * *

ALMOND ICE BOX COOKIES—1½ cups fat, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup dark brown sugar, 3 eggs, 3 tablespoons cream, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2-3 cup almonds, 5 cups flour, 2 teaspoons soda.

Cream the fat and sugar. Add rest of ingredients and shape into 2 loaves. Chill 12 hours. Cut off thin slices and bake.

* * *

DATE CAKE—½ package dates, 1 cup hot coffee, 1½ cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ¾ cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, ½ to 1 cup nutmeats, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Pour the hot coffee over the sliced dates; let stand until cool. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt. Stir the sugar gradually into creamed shortening, then the slightly beaten egg, nutmeats and vanilla. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with date and coffee mixture. Bake in a shallow pan in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) for 30 or 40 minutes. Spread with frosting.

* * *

PORK TENDERLOIN WITH SWEET POTATOES—Have 2½ pounds pork tenderloin cut in small pieces for serving. Place in a small roaster in a hot oven. When the meat is brown on all sides, season with 1½ teaspoons salt and ½ teaspoon pepper. Pare 6 large sweet potatoes and place in the pan with the meat. If there are not enough drippings for basting both the meat and potatoes, add enough water to baste every 10 minutes. Cook until the potatoes are done.

* * *

PERFECTION SALAD—Soak 2 tablespoons gelatin in ½ cup of cold water for five minutes. Add 2 cups of boiling water, ½ cup of sugar, ½ cup of sugar, ½ cup of mild vinegar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon salt.

When the mixture begins to stiffen, add 1 cup finely shredded cabbage, 2 cups of chopped celery, 2 pimentos chopped into small pieces. Turn into a wet mold and chill. Remove to a bed of lettuce and unmold. Serve with mayonnaise.

* * *

DEEP APPLE PIE—Wipe, pare, quarter and slice enough tart apples to fill a buttered baking dish, or deep pie plate. Arrange the apples in layers, sprinkling each

Sauerkraut Rich in Health Building Substances

Dr. Copeland heartily recommends this preparation of cabbage as stimulating to the appetite, nutritious and tempting to the taste.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,

Former Health Commissioner of New York City, United States Senator from New York

I wonder how many recall the old sauerkraut barrel which stood in a dark corner of the cool cellar. From this barrel there always came a most pleasing and appetizing odor.

For centuries sauerkraut has been a favorite food. No doubt its popularity is founded on its pleasant sour flavor and the ease of its preparation. This food has recently become more popular than ever before.

Sauerkraut carries many vitamin and other health-building substances. More than ever before we appreciate their necessity. Just as vegetables have gained a more important place in our diet, so has the value of sauerkraut as a food come to be recognized.

Sauerkraut is made from cabbage, a leafy vegetable. It really is cabbage that has been fermented. This plant is known to be one of our most healthful vegetables.

The chief value of leafy vegetables lies in their vitamin and mineral content. Vitamins A, B and C are found in cabbage. In addition, it is rich in such mineral salts as potash, phosphorus, iron and lime. These salts are of great value as bone-building materials.

Cabbage contains roughage which is necessary to provide proper intestinal action. It carries substances which guard against scurvy and other nutritional disorders. It deserves its popularity because it possesses elements necessary to the growth and health of the human family.

In sauerkraut we have a preparation of cabbage that can be used to good advantage. It adds variety to the daily menu, giving in another form all the nutritive advantages of cabbage.

It has a stimulating effect upon the appetite. Its lactic acid content has a pleasant effect by its action on the intestines.

I am sure that this nutritive dish will appeal to the housewife in her task of planning tasty meals. Not only should food be nutritious, but it must be tempting to the taste. To those who enjoy it, sauerkraut is pleasing indeed.

layer with sugar (about 1 to 1½ tablespoons to each apple). Add such spices as nutmeg and cinnamon if you like those flavorings in your apple pies, and dot with small pieces of butter, using about 1 tablespoonful; and if the apples are not juicy, add a very little water, say 2 to 4 tablespoons.

Cover with pastry, rolled to the desired thickness, and gash to allow the escape of air. Trim and fold back the edges, making a double rim, and pressing it closely to the edge of the dish. Bake about 30 minutes in a 425-degree oven. If you use a dish about 3 inches deep, then it is wise to invert an egg cup in the center, or a small coffee cup, so that the pie cannot fall in the center as it bakes.

* * *

RAISIN AND RHUBARB PIE—Cutt 1½ cups of rhubarb into half inch pieces. Halve enough raisins to make ¾ of a cupful, and roll fine 2 soda crackers. Combine with a beaten egg and 1¼ cups sugar and place in a pie plate lined with pastry. Cover with a top crust, or arrange strips of pastry an inch wide lattice-fashion over the top. Bake 30 to 35 minutes in a 450-degree oven.

* * *

FILLING FOR ENGLISH TARTS—1 cupful of white sugar, ¼ cupful of butter, 1 egg, ½ cupful of seedless raisins, 4 tablespoons of milk, 1 teaspoon of vanilla.

Cream the sugar and butter. Add the rest of the ingredients in order. This recipe makes a dozen and a half tarts. Pour the mixture into the shells and bake in a quick oven.

* * *

NUT CROQUETTES—1½ cups finely chopped walnuts, 1 cup cooked squash, 1 cup mashed potatoes, ¼ cup fine bread crumbs, ¼ teacup pepper, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt.

Combine the ingredients and let stand 30 minutes, then shape into croquettes, dip them in egg, diluted with milk, fine bread crumbs and egg again and deep fat fry a golden brown. Serve with white sauce or brown gravy.

* * *

ORANGE MILK FOAM—(Service for one.)—6 tablespoons orange juice, 6 tablespoons milk, 6 tablespoons cold water, 1 teaspoon sugar.

Beat or shake thoroughly. Serve at once in a large glass.

Note—This is an excellent breakfast or mid-meal orange drink. The addition of citrus fruits to milk promotes the digestion of the milk and makes a very palatable drink. Children who will not drink milk alone often like a milk and orange juice mixture.

* * *

HAM OMELETTE

Beat the whites and yolks of 4 eggs separately.

To the yolks add 2 teaspoons butter, a pinch of salt, and 1 cup of boiled ham finely chopped.

Make a smooth paste of 1 heaping teaspoon of flour and ¼ cup of milk, and gradually add the remainder of ¾ cups of milk and the well-beaten whites of the eggs.

Combine the two mixtures, pour into a hot, well-greased skillet, and bake in a moderate 350 degrees F. oven for 15 minutes. Serve three or four.

* * *

HAM AND CHEESE RAREBIT

¾ pound American cheese.
1 can tomato soup.
Slices of bread toasted.
1 green pepper diced.
1 cup diced ham (left over).
⅛ teaspoon salt.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.
½ cup water.
¾ cup evaporated milk.
2 tablespoons flour.

Put the evaporated milk, water, tomato soup, salt and pepper in the top part of a double boiler. Add the diced ham and green pepper. Cut the cheese into small pieces and add to this mixture, thicken with a paste made of the flour and water. Serve on toasted rounds of bread. A garnish of strips of pimento adds to the attractiveness of the dish.

Serves eight.

* * *

CREAMED CHICKEN

1 cup cream.
2 tablespoons butter.
2 cups chicken, cut fine.
2 tablespoons flour.

Place butter in pan. When melted, add flour, stirring until smooth. Then add cream slowly. When hot, add chicken, salt and pepper.

* * *

BAKING POWDER BISCUITS

2 cups flour.
5 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt.
2 tablespoons shortening.
¾ cup milk.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt.

Cut in shortening with a knife or cut it with finger tips.

Bake in a quick over (450F) 10 to 15 minutes.

Note: For a richer biscuit, use 4 tablespoons shortening.

* * *

POPPY SEED COOKIES

Poppy seed cookies are very delicious.

Soak 1 cup of poppy seed in ½ cup of hot milk.

1 teaspoon baking powder.
1 cup currants.
1¼ cups of flour and the poppy seed.

Drop from teaspoon in buttered and floured pan and bake for 20 minutes in a moderate oven.

¾ cup grated cheese.
¼ pound sliced dried beef.
1 tablespoon grated onion.
⅛ sweet pepper.
1 teaspoon paprika.
1 tablespoon butter.
3 eggs.

Rub tomatoes through a colander and blend with cheese, dried beef picked into fine shreds and paprika.

Heat over a low fire until cheese melts.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Mother Graham Voices Disapproval of Dancing

With an effort I ignored Lillian's reference to Phil Veritzen's anxiety to get to the farmhouse for our Christmas Eve celebration and answered the first part of her whispered promise.

"There's no need of your holding your young people any longer than it takes you to get home," I told her in low tones, which, however, I knew could be heard by the others in the group around the Christmas tree.

"Everything's done here except the basement, and now that the boys are all safely upstairs, there's no need for any delay. I was afraid, perhaps, the excitement would keep the older boys up, but——"

"But you spiked that down securely," she interposed. "There'll be no danger of their poking their noses anywhere below the second floor until tomorrow morning. You'd better get ready for the crowd any time after half an hour. The minute we get back there and report the possibility of coming over here, there'll be a rush for wraps. So hang out the latch string."

"It's already out," I told her, as she hurried away with Ronald, while I started for the kitchen to consult with Katie as to the fruit punch, sandwiches and tiny Christmas cakes, which I foresaw would be needed later in the evening. As I passed my mother-in-law's chair she caught at my dress.

"Are those flittergibbets from The Larches coming over here tonight?"

"That's what Mrs. Underwood says," I answered with a sudden drop in my mental temperature, for Mother Graham's voice was truculent.

"Then I'm going to bed now. I thought we'd have a quiet family Christmas Eve, but you've packed my grandsons off to bed to make room for a lot of crazy-acting boys and girls, who will turn the rooms upside down. You'll have to clean house all over again tomorrow morning."

"We always have to clean up every Christmas morning, you know, mother, after the presents are given out. And the only reason I wanted to get the boys upstairs to bed was because of that surprise for them in the basement. The Ticers are coming over when their own celebration is over to help us arrange things, and I wanted the boys asleep. Otherwise, I would have liked to have them stay up. But please don't go to bed, mother. It won't be Christmas Eve without you."

"Nobody'll miss me," she retorted, but her voice was less caustic, and I guessed that she wanted only to be coaxed. I braced myself for the task, but was spared the trouble, as Mary came gallantly to the rescue.

"What's this?" she exclaimed. "Granzie threatening to go to bed? Why, we'll hang you from the yardarm, if we can find one. Run along, Auntie Madge, and don't worry. My granzie will never desert her girl on Christmas Eve."

I beat a hasty and thankful retreat to the kitchen, secure in the knowledge that my mother-in-law's love for her only granddaughter could deny the girl nothing.

"Dose flowers you gif me, dey make whole room nice," she said, gratefully. "You vant me for something, Missis Graham?"

"Not now," I said, hurriedly, "and I—hate to ask you, Katie—you deserve a rest, but the young people from The Larches are coming over to sing Christmas in, and—"

"Dey goin' dance, too?" Katie asked, with patent worried speculation in her eyes, then answered her own question before I could frame a hesitant affirmative.

"But, sure ting. Dot's vot Christmas ees for, young tings hafing goot time. Und eferybody hoongry after midnight. Eet's goot ting I make em oop plenty of cakes und bread, und roast me ham und beeg sirloin beef. Me, I got lots of tings. I feex some sandwiches und some little cakes und some olives und some of dot fruit ponch und some coffee, und I pass aroond venever you say. But, Missis Graham, you plees send dem home soon after midnight. You no can put presents around tree till eferybody go und I no vant you staying oop all night. You get seeck, und den vere would Christmas be for eferybody. You make Christmas!"

Enthusiastic persons are great starters. Not only are they foremost with energy and praise, but their enthusiasm is so infectious they soon have quite a following at the heels.

But the moment that novelty begins to settle down to routine, the enthusiast scampers off to something new to enthuse over.

The stickers do not make much of an impression in the beginning of anything. In fact they seem comparatively unappreciative and unimpressed. But when the enthusiast is beginning to change his mind, the sticker is making up his mind.

He may not be so delightful to have around, but he is the more dependable and nothing succeeds permanently without him.

He's slow but sure!

EXQUISITE WEDDING GOWNS FAVORED BY PARISIENNES

Sketched in Paris

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, May 22.—No matter what liberties we may take with other fashions, every woman's dream frock — her wedding gown—is rarely permitted to become a nightmare. For most women are wise enough to wish to preserve and adhere to the traditional qualifications of the bridal frock. Of course, we hear of blush pink or pale blue satin being used sometimes, but even then the classic lines and silhouette are rarely if ever dispensed with. The dignity, the delicate misty beauty, the gracious simplicity of the frock of frocks is ever manifest in the majority of the best models, whatever the vagaries of the mode may be in other directions. For which we give thanks. This season, bridal gowns have been extraordinarily lovely, creating an effect that cannot easily be erased from the memory of any of us who have attended a wedding lately. As the present mode is quite aligned to the silhouette used in the majority of wedding gowns, one enjoys seeing an exquisite model more than ever. Ivory satin seems still to be the first choice and much lovely lace and delicate embroidery are employed.

* * *

WE ARE GLAD to be able to send you a sketch of the magnificent wedding gown worn at the ceremony that recently united in marriage the Princess Isabelle d'Orleans-Bragance and the Duc de Guise, pretender to the French throne. Worth made the frock which was of ivory satin with an all-over delicate tracery of silver leaves, on both dress and train. The train was long and square. The bodice was softly draped in front and formed one piece with a short inset panel at the center top of the skirt. Fullness at the front of the skirt fell from the center point of this panel.

* * *

AN EXQUISITE lace veil, an heirloom, was draped over a longer veil of tulle and held across the top of the head by a coronet of diamonds, likewise an heirloom.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Facts About Mountain Fever

In a Senate debate recently there was a discussion of Rocky Mountain spotted fever. It stated that cases have been discovered in the East. These have been reported in Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, North Carolina and Pennsylvania. This outbreak is an unusual occurrence, the disease is mainly confined to the West.

Dr. Copeland

Rocky Mountain spotted fever is a disease transmitted to man by the bite of wood ticks. Ticks or wood lice are insects of a peculiar nature. They take no vegetable food, living entirely on blood. They cling to the skin of man or cattle and are a great problem to sheep herders.

These insects appear in the first part of spring, or as soon as the snow melts on the south slopes of the canyons. The disease is most prevalent at this time of the year.

The infected person has fever. In about three days a skin eruption appears. It is spotted and appears first on the wrists and back. It soon covers the entire surface of the body.

The disease may be mild, but in many instances is quite severe. In 1927 one locality suffered a loss of 85 per cent of all victims of the disease. Outbreaks of this nature and loss of life stimulated much investigation by the United States Public Health Service.

Due to the excellent work of Dr. R. R. Spencer, of the United States Public Health Service, a vaccine against Rocky Mountain spotted fever has been discovered. The vaccine is given as a preventive measure to all individuals who may be exposed to the disease.

This vaccine has now been used since 1924. The results thus far obtained are most gratifying. The fact that Rocky Mountain spotted fever has appeared in the East should cause no alarm. The disease is adequately controlled and undoubtedly will soon be completely eradicated.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

It is plain to any brain that clicks that the army of beauty seekers must carry on. There are times when the supplicant for pulchritude is ready to give up the fight, she almost thinks she'd enjoy the peaceful business of growing old and ugly. But it won't do to join up with the beauty slackers. To lose interest in the reflection in the looking glass is to lose interest in life, to start going to seed, to be on the toboggan hurling oneself towards the valley where wall-flowers grow. So keep fit, keep in form, keep on your toes. There's nothing to be gained by quitting the game.

Recommend exercise to the lazy dollies and they offer a swell-elegant alibi. They say they don't want muscles. The word muscles brings on shakes, shivers and gooseflesh. Foolish ones. Exercise is as necessary for the health of a woman as it is to the health of a man. She needn't get biceps, knots in her legs or welts on her ribs. But exercise will fill out her chest so her clothes will look right, grow curves where curves should be, insure against flabby tissues, such as a fiddle string neck. Upper arms that bulge and abdominal fibers that have gone saggy will reform.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Formality Gives Place to Informality

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I expect to go to a formal dance in a few weeks and I would like to know if it is still proper to wear long gloves? I have worn them up to now, but have heard that they are not in style for spring.

2. Is it proper to remove all the hand part of the glove and roll it under during the evening, or should the entire glove be removed?

3. Will you please tell me if it is correct to eat a sandwich with the fingers when eating out, or should you use a knife and fork?

M. B.

1. It isn't exactly that long gloves are not in style this late in the spring, but formality gives place to informality in most occasions and parties of the late spring and summer, and therefore we would not often wear formal gloves.

2. The entire glove should be removed, in order to avoid that awkward appearance given by turning in the glove.

3. You will, I am sure, find it more convenient, and much better looking, if you use a knife and fork when you eat a sandwich.

"Faithful and True" Would Be Appropriate

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. In one of the organizations to which I belong the standard bearer is to celebrate her fortieth wedding anniversary. The sisters have joined together and have planned to surprise the couple. We would like to know what to call this occasion, as it is not the golden wedding anniversary, which, I understand, is the fiftieth anniversary.

2. Also, what song would be the appropriate one to sing as there is to be a wedding ceremony performed?

READER.

1. There is no name for this anniversary except the fortieth wedding anniversary. The symbol of this anniversary is the ruby.

2. "Faithful and True," the words that are sung to the tune of the Lohengrin "Wedding March" would be the most appropriate lyric for this occasion.

Household Hints

If you live in the city it is not wise to buy large quantities of cereals, raisins, spaghetti and other mice attracting foods. Stores are so handy to most of us nowadays that a few cents gained in buying these things in bulk are not worth the worry we have in keeping away the mice and bugs.

A small jar of vanishing cream kept in the desk drawer will be a great aid in keeping the little stenographer's hands white and soft after the frequent washings necessary in a business office. The cream can be rubbed in more quickly than a hand lotion and will leave no grease in its wake.

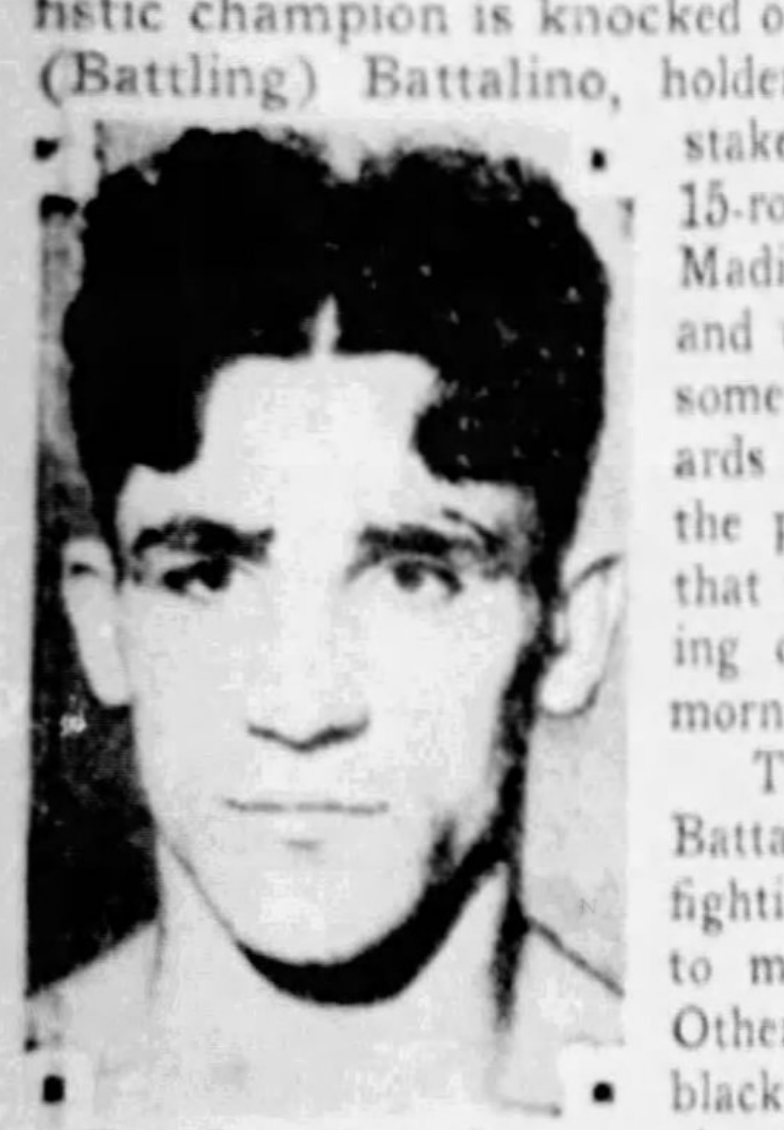
BATTALINO MAY LOSE TITLE TONIGHT



Battling Battalino

IT WILL CAUSE no great surprise if another world fistic champion is knocked off his pedestal tonight. Christopher (Battling) Battalino, holder of the featherweight title, is to stake his laurels on the outcome of a 15-round bout with Fidel La Barba at Madison Square Garden in New York, and unless there is a misleading angle somewhere in the dope of paper standards and comparative performances in the past, it appears strongly probable that the 126-pound crown will be resting on a new head before tomorrow morning.

There are only two respects in which Battalino matches La Barba. One is fighting heart, and the other is ability to maintain the pace for 15 rounds. Otherwise the former Hartford bootblack has never measured up to championship ideals. The title fell to him in the first place through a business arrangement that got him a match with the worn-out Andre Routis on September 23, 1929, and he has since proved a poor successor to such earlier leaders of the class as George Dixon, Terry McGovern, Young Corbett, Abe Attell and Johnny Kilbane.

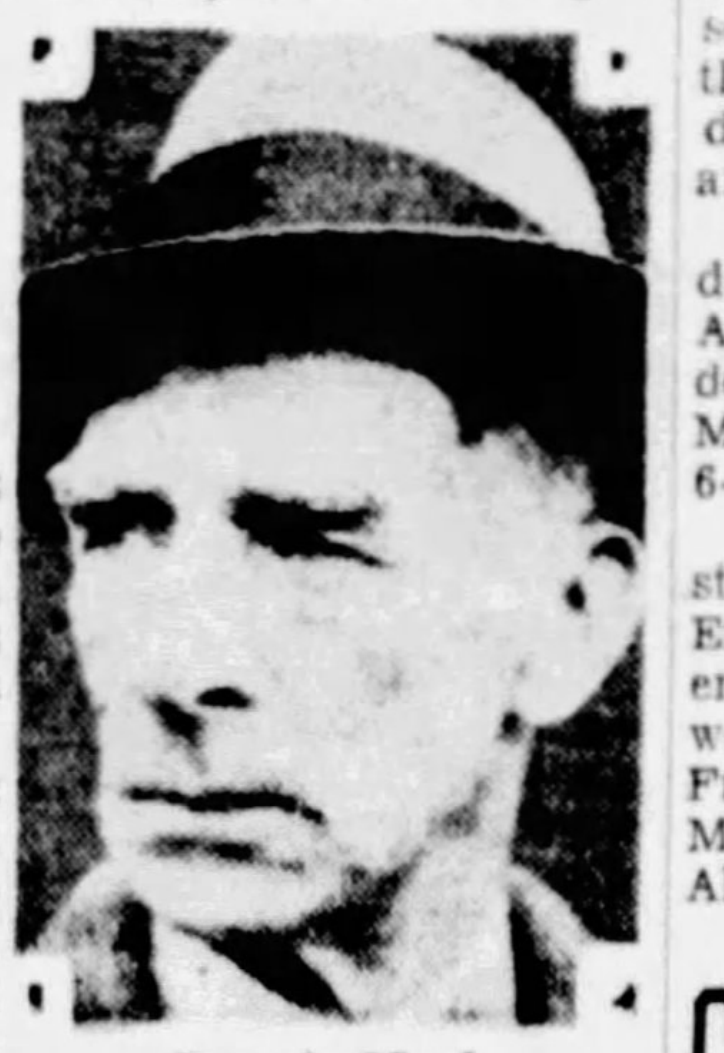
BATTALINO HAS BEEN defeated on no fewer than a dozen occasions, saving his diadem only by the play-safe policy of forcing his opponents to come in above the weight limit of the division. He did take one chance successfully, and also fooled the dopesters, when he met and defeated Kid Chocolate last December 12, but that was due largely to the fact that Chocolate had slipped and had lost something additional in a couple of stormy sessions with Jack (Kid) Berg and La Barba.

In speed, boxing skill and mastery of ring finesse, the advantage appears to be all on the side of the challenger in tonight's fight. The smartness that comes of long experience gives La Barba a clear edge. He won the world championship as a flyweight, and that he is equally formidable since growing into the featherweight class is attested by the neat jobs he performed in trimming such finished Queensberry mechanics as Chocolate, Bud Taylor and Kid Francis. He never has failed in an important bout.

POSSIBLY THE ITEM that led Battalino to take a chance against such a dangerous customer, after repeatedly dodging other worthy challengers for 20 months, is the fact that increasing weight soon will force him to give up the title anyhow. He is said to be making 126 pounds for the last time, regardless of the outcome. It's a tough job for him now. He weighed 133½ against Young Zazzarino recently.

Another inducement was a reported guarantee of $35,000, though guarantees are supposed to be taboo in New York. If those figures are correct, the promoters may have to dig, even with La Barba working for little more than the titular opportunity. The Loughran-Campolo show, with an all-heavyweight card, did not draw much more than $30,000.

ELEVEN OF THE 13 consecutive victories piled up by the Athletics were scored on the western tour completed yesterday, so that in their spring rush the White Elephants accomplished the rare feat of going through an entire occidental trip without losing a game. But that wasn't the only unusual development in the American League's intersectional series. Cleveland failed to win a single contest. After dropping a bout to the Browns on May 7, the Indians lost 11 in succession to the visiting eastern clubs, or 12 defeats in a row.



Connie Mack

WITH CONNIE MACK'S world beaters setting the pace by making a clean sweep of 11 games, the East won the American League series in lopsided fashion, 32 games to 11. The Senators ranked next to the A's with nine won and two lost.

The Yankees were third with seven wins and two defeats, and the Red Sox won five and lost seven. Of the western outfits, aside from Cleveland, the Tigers won five and lost eight, the Browns won three and lost six and the White Sox won three and lost seven.

THE EAST ALSO won the intersectional debate in the National League, 20 games to 12. Despite their slump in losing four of their last five games, the Pirates led the West with an even break, four out of eight. The Reds won four and lost six, the Cards won two and lost four, and the Cubs won two and lost six.

The Giants topped the East with six victories and only two defeats. The Braves and Phillies won five and lost three and the Robins broke even in eight engagements.

THE ACHIEVEMENTS OF a baseball hero of other days have come in for unusual recognition. Bucknell University's year book, "L'Agenda," instead of honoring one person, as customary, picks eight alumni who are or were leaders in their fields, and a section of the book is dedicated to each. One of the eight honored is the late Christy Mathewson, '02, rated by many as the greatest pitcher of all time. Mathewson is listed on the honor roll as "athlete." The others honored are Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, '73; Dr. Samuel Lewis Ziegler, '80; David Janne Hill, '74, diplomat; John A. Walls, '98, engineer; Rush H. Kress, '00, merchant; Lewis C. Hylbert, '05, missionary, and Paul S. Althouse, '12, tenor.

MANAGERS OF OTHER major league ball clubs may rave about their respective pinch-hitters, but Wilbert Robinson, Brooklyn skipper, insists that Rube Bressler, though almost 37, is the greatest of them all. Bressler, according to Robbie, is the ideal pinch-hitter.

"There is no National League batter who can worry a pitcher more than the Rube," declares the Robin boss. "A pitcher has to pitch to him. Bressler never hits at bad 'nes, and when a long fly is needed he delivers. He has won two games for us already as a pinch-hitter. He sure is a handy man to have around."

ONE OF THE men Penn State confidently expects to deliver points in the annual dual track and field meet with Pitt at the Stadium tomorrow, a fixture which the Panthers have won only three times in 18 attempts, is Dan Musser, javelin thrower.

Dan Musser

Musser, who could do better than 180 feet with the javelin while still in high school, has been flirting with the 200-foot mark all spring. He holds the present Penn State record of 199 feet 1¼ inches made two weeks ago in rather remarkable fashion.

MUSSER ALSO HAS been the Lions' varsity third sacker for two years in spite of the fact that he has had to take some time away from baseball for javelin practice. Two weeks ago he left with the ball team for Syracuse on Thursday night. The Lions were to play Syracuse on Friday and Colgate on Saturday afternoon, took his turn with javegame to return to State College for a dual track meet with Syracuse on Saturday. He arrived about 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon took his turn with javelin about 3 o'clock, set the new record of 199 feet 1¼ inches and was dressed and sitting in the grand stand before the meet was half over. His first place in the javelin was very much needed, as State won by only a three-point margin, 69 to 66. Last year Musser did a similar doubling up in track and baseball, leaving the ball team in Atlantic City after a Friday game to join the track squad in Chapel Hill, N. C., for a meet with North Carolina, and returning to Atlantic City for a Monday ball game. A half dozen years ago Mike Palm used to do that stunt for State, running over to the track during his team's turn at bat in a ball game to take his trials with the weights.

DE FOREST, OFF IN PUTTING, BOWS, 1 DOWN

By F. A. WRAY
International News Service.

WESTWARD HO! Devon, England, May 22.—Eric Martin-Smith, 22-year-old Cambridge undergraduate, today defeated John De Forest, son of a wealthy British baron, 1 up, to win the coveted British amateur golf championship, voluntarily relinquished by Bobby Jones.

Both practically unknown to big time golf prior to their overriding of all the favorites in the earlier rounds of the present championship, De Forest and Smith fought a ding-dong duel through 36 holes of the final today with the result in doubt until the last green was reached. Smith never was behind, but he never was far enough in the lead to have a commanding advantage over De Forest.

The defeat of De Forest wiped out the last faint American link with the present championship. De Forest, although a Britisher to the soles of his shoes, had taken a number of lessons from Horton Smith, popular Joplin, Mo., professional.

De Forest's putter was chiefly responsible for his downfall. Time and again he failed to sink easy putts which would have squared the match or have given him a lead.

LOTT, VAN RYN WIN ABROAD

ROLAND GARROS STADIUM, AUTEUIL, France, May 22.—(AP.)—Thawed by their first sight of sun in six days, George Lott and John Van Ryn, the American contenders, easily won their matches against two Frenchmen in the first round of the French hard courts singles championships here today.

Lott beat Andre Piel, 6-1, 6-1, 9-7, while Van Ryn defeated Rene Vieillard, 8-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Miss Elizabeth Ryan, the former Californian, and Cilli Aussem, of Germany, advanced to the finals of the women's doubles, defeating Mme. Jung Henrotin and Josanne Sigart, 6-4, 7-5.

Miss Virginia Hilleary, of Philadelphia, paired with the South African, N. G. Farquharson, to defeat the young English pair of Mary Heeley and Fred Perry, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4, in the mixed doubles.

Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall and Betty Nuthall, two of England's ranking women players, entered the final of the women's doubles by defeating the Franco-Spanish combination of Mme. Mathieu and Senorita de Alvarez, 7-5, 6-3.

GIANTS, REDS DEAL FAILS

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THOMAS BLACKLOCK—THE SCOTTISH POET—The Scottish poet, Thomas Blacklock (1721-1791), became blind at the age of six months, as a result of an attack of smallpox. His ability to write descriptive poetry is an extraordinary accomplishment in view of his lack of sight. It was long maintained that he possessed a sixth sense permitting him to become aware of color by touch. JOSEPHUS SCALIGER MEMORIZED 62,000 VERSES IN 21 DAYS—Joseph (Justus) Scaliger (1540-1609), French humanist and philologist, is described as an "ocean of knowledge" and the possessor of an extraordinary memory. When he arrived in Paris to study ancient languages under Tournebe, young Scaliger, aged 19, at once became the master of his teacher. The great feat of reciting the whole Odyssey and the Iliad from memory was performed in Leyden, Holland, where he occupied a professorial chair at the university. TED DE BONIS—PITCHER OF THE TROY EMERALDS—In June, 1927, the Troy Emeralds and the Cohoes Insulars were playing in Prospect Park, Troy, N. Y. De Bonis hit the first batter with the first pitched ball, walked the second batter, hit the third with the fourth pitched ball and hit the fourth with the second pitched ball, the fourth man forcing in a run. De Bonis pitched 11 balls without a strike being called or a batter swinging at a ball, yet a run was scored.

MANERO LOSES AT LEEDS

LEEDS, England, May 22.—(AP.)—Tony Manero, of the Norwood Country Club, New Jersey, today was eliminated from the $5,000 Leeds professional golf tournament in the semi-final round by E. R. Whitcombe, British Ryder Cup player. The score was 2 and 1.

Manero was the last survivor of the five players from the United States who took part in the qualifying rounds of the tournament.

Joe Turnesa, who won the tournament two years ago, was eliminated in the second round, while Joe Kirkwood fell in the first. Horton Smith and Willie Hunter failed to qualify.

Today's quarter-final and semi-final rounds were played in a downpour of rain. Manero defeated Percy Alliss, 4 and 3, in the quarter-finals.

U. S., Canada Divide Davis Cup Singles

MONTREAL, Quebec, May 22.—(AP.)—Canada and the United States entered the second day of their Davis Cup tennis contest today all even with one victory apiece.

The doubles, only event on today's program, were to pit the young American combination of Frank Shields and Sidney B. Wood, Jr., against Dr. Jack Wright and Marcel Rainville, of Montreal. The final two singles matches will be played tomorrow.

Shields sent the United States forces off to a flying start in the opening singles match yesterday when he whipped Wright in straight sets, 8-6, 6-2, 6-2, but the little French-Canadian, Rainville, evened the count by conquering Wood in a five-set duel, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2, to register the first victory any Canadian ever has scored over the United States in Davis Cup competition. Canada has been playing Cup tennis since 1913.

WOOD ON DEFENSIVE

Wood has been called the best tactician among the younger tennis stars, but he had to yield to Rainville in court strategy yesterday. The Canadian varied his game to good purpose all the way, keeping Wood on the defensive during a major share of the long-drawn-out duel.

Shields played magnificent tennis against Wright and the Canadian veteran never had a chance after the first set.

CHANGE IN PROSPECT

In Saturday's singles, Wood will meet Wright and Shields will play Rainville, barring a possible shift by either team that might involve the other members of the squad, Gregory Mangin and Cliff Sutter, of the United States, and Gilbert Nunns and Walter Martin, of Canada.

The survivor of the Canada-United States contest will meet Argentina, South American Zone winner, at Washington next week.

COULTER WINS TECH CAPTAINCY

Tom Coulter, hurdler de luxe, will captain Carnegie Tech's varsity track and field team next year. The Canadian star, who will be a junior next year, was elected last night at the annual Tech minor sports banquet.

Members of the varsity and freshmen boxing, basketball, tennis, swimming, cross-country, track and rifle teams were guests of the athletic council at last night's affair and were awarded letters and numerals. Frank J. Lanahan was the main speaker.

Coulter succeeds Ray Barger, captain of this year's team. The new leader came here from Winnipeg, Canada, and expects to represent the Dominion in the Olympics next summer.

Buddy Overend, graduate manager of athletics at Tech, announced at the dinner that the organization of golf and wrestling teams will be recommended to the athletic council. It is planned to have the golf team play a few matches this fall.

ENS, DREYFUSS CONFER HERE ON TEAM

Rumors that Jewel Ens, Pirate manager, had stopped off here today to confer with President Barney Dreyfuss for the purpose of ribbing up a trade or two with a view to bolstering the Buccaneer lineup, were denied following a huddle between the pilot and the club owner.

It was said that the two merely had discussed club matters in general, and that the subject of a trade had not even been brought up. If the club decides to attempt any trading before the time limit expires on June 15, there will be no shaping of plans until after the Bucs have returned home next Friday from the Chicago-St. Louis trip.

MAY TAKE SUHR ALONG

That the main object of his visit to Pirate headquarters had been to learn the condition of Firstbaseman Gus Suhr, was the explanation offered by Manager Ens. The Pirate skipper came to Pittsburgh from Philadelphia by automobile last night with his family, while the Bucs went to Huntington, Ind., for an exhibition game there today.

Ens found Suhr greatly improved, and announced that if the consent of the club doctor could be obtained he would take Suhr with him tonight to Chicago, where the Pirates are to open a three-game series tomorrow.

PLANS TO MAKE SHIFT

If Suhr is able to play immediately he will be sent into the lineup tomorrow, otherwise Ens will try the shift previously announced, sending George Grantham to second base, Paul Waner to first base and Jim Mosolf to right field.

Ens was not discouraged over the loss of four of the last five games played on the eastern trip. He said the slide had been due to a batting slump and some unfavorable breaks. The skipper is confident the Pirates soon will regain their batting punch and speedily recover lost ground.

PIRATES PLAY EXHIBITION

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., May 22.—Chicago bound, the Pirates are spending most of today in this Indiana town. The big-leaguers from Pittsburgh are slated to take on the Huntington Aces, an independent team, this afternoon. Andy Bednar will twirl the game for the Freebooters.

The Buccos reached Fort Wayne early this morning. At the bigger town they were met by the enterprising citizens of this place who were on hand with a fleet of automobiles. The Pirates were carried over the 20-odd miles in autos and they are due to return the same way at the conclusion of the game. At Fort Wayne they will board a train for Chicago, which port they are due to reach late tonight. A three-game series with the Cubs will get under way tomorrow.

PIRATES IDLE

The last game of the Pirate-Philly series, scheduled for yesterday, had to be called off on account of rain. It will be played at the Baker Bowl as part of a doubleheader on August 17. eastern trip with great gusto. They won three battles in succession from the Robins and Giants, but after arriving in Boston they began to fold up. The crash has been so marked the team lost four out of five to the Braves and Phillies and thus returned to a 50-50 status on the net results for the eight-game excursion.

THEVENOW BENCHED

The Buccos at present are one of the worst clubs in the major leagues so far as punch is concerned. Shortstop Tommy Thevenow made only one hit on the eastern tour. Ens decided to bench the light-hitting fielder in favor of Ben Sankey, who was in the shortfield role in the second and last game with the Phillies. Ben started out with a single and double and he played cleverly in the field. So Thevenow is destined to keep a seat in the dugout for a spell.

The batting slump experienced by Paul Waner is another source of worry to Ens and the Pirates. Paul also was a big disappointment during the eastern invasion.

Buc Scouts Ready To Tour Minors

Pirate scouts are about to begin their annual ivory hunt. One of the Buccaneer timber seekers, Carlton Molesworth, arrived here today from his home in Frederick, Md., to report for the season, and will start tomorrow on his first swing through the southern sticks. Bill Hinchman also is to leave soon on a similar mission through another part of the country, and out on the Pacific Coast Joe Devine is already sizing up all the material available from the Coast League down to the sandlots.

THOMAS GIVEN VICTORY OVER DAVIES

REFEREE'S VOTE AWARDS BOUT TO JIMMY

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Jimmy Thomas, young Negro bantamweight, of the Hill, today is the holder of a referee's decision over Willie Davies, Charleroi veteran flyweight and bantamweight, scored last night in the 10-round windup of the opening show of the season at Hickey Park, Millvale.

It was an unpopular decision, so unpopular that the fans booed it to the echo and continued their lusty-lunged protests afterward when they would not let the announcer give the weights of the principals in the semi-final, which followed the main event, and also drowned out with boos other attempts to make announcements.

Davies really was the winner of the battle by a margin that was small, but discernible. Judge Frank Ferris voted for him, while Judge Jock Simco called the bout a draw. Referee Red Robinson's vote cast the decision Thomas' way.

DAVIES FLOORED EARLY

Davies merited the award through his better boxing over the route. Off to a slow start, in which he lost the first two rounds, he finally got the range with his left hand as the second round neared its close and swept the following five rounds in a row to establish a lead, mainly by outgeneraling his youthful foe, beating him to the punch and keeping him from setting himself for any sustained offensives. This after Thomas had outpunched him as they warmed up in the opening round and then dropped him for a count of one with a short right cross to the jaw at the start of the second round for the only knockdown of the fight. Thomas landed another good right counter in the seventh round, which shook up Davies, but, during the remainder of the round, Willie had the situation well under control.

WILLIE FINISHES FAST

The eighth round saw Davies begin to slow down, and Thomas again forged to the front to win the frame. And, in the ninth, the best mixing round of the fight, Thomas clearly outfought and outpunched his opponent to make matters close. Going into the final round, the score on rounds stood five to four in Davies' favor, but Thomas had to his credit that momentary knockdown in the second round and it was up to the final round to tell the tale.

It was at this crucial point that Davies' experience asserted itself. He cut loose and outspeeded, outboxed, outgeneraled and outpunched his man all over the ring to leave no doubt in the minds of the majority of the spectators that he deserved the award which he didn't get.

As a result of the clamor of the fans against the decision, the pair are likely to be rematched for an early date, and the show ought to turn 'em away. Last night's season inaugural drew the largest gate in the history of Hickey Park, somewhere around the $2,500 mark.

Davies weighed 116¼ pounds and Thomas 119 at 3 p. m.

BUTCH BEATS GOLD

For action, the eight-round semi-final, between Mose Butch, of Oakland, southpaw bantamweight, and Marty Gold, of Philadelphia, had it all over the main event. Butch, the winner by the referee's decision when Judge Ferris voted for a draw and Judge Simco and Referee Al Grayber for Butch, was fighting to avenge a technical knockout defeat by Gold, due to a cut eye, in a recent bout at the Moose Temple and almost knocked out Gold in the first round, in which he dropped him for counts of five and nine with lefts to the head and then for no count with a right.

Gold rallied, and, beginning with the fourth round, began to carry the fighting to Butch's vulnerable spot, the mid-section, and won that and the next frame. In the sixth, Butch went down claiming a foul from another body smash and was given a rest of several minutes and then floored Gold in the latter's corner before the end of the round. Gold had the better of the final two rounds, during which he continued the drumfire to the body, but Butch's big early lead left him enough to give him the decision. Butch weighed 122¼ pounds and Gold 118½.

NORDI SMITH WINS

Nordi Smith, Negro, of Homewood, and formerly of Newark, O., gave away nine and one-half pounds to Carl Montebano, of Braddock, 159½, and handed the latter a boxing lesson in the second bout, which he won all of the way, and Joey Katkish, of Lawrenceville, flashing a bit of his old left-hooking form, made Terry Waner, of the North Side, resign in his corner at the end of the third round after having been floored twice in the second round and once in the third. Katkish weighed 126½ pounds and Waner 130.

Harry Klaas was the announcer and Steve Russell and A. C. Couch were the timers.

TARTAN TRACK, TENNIS TEAMS END SEASONS

By JESS CARVER

The last week end of important collegiate and scholastic track and field competition gets under way today. Between the typing of the foregoing sentence and this one, many deep and soul-satisfying sighs were drawn.

This afternoon, Carnegie Tech's trackmen wind up what has been a very successful campaign by engaging Grove City at Grove City. Tomorrow, Pitt ends its dual season with an affair here with Penn State and the district high schoolers divide their time between the annual P. I. A. A. championship meet at Altoona; the Washington County championships, at College Field, Washington, which get under way today, and the Greene County title meet at Waynesburg.

DUKES MEET BOBCATS

Duquesne indulges in its second and last dual meet tomorrow, the Dukes being scheduled to meet West Virginia Wesleyan at Buckhannon.

The Tartans will close up their athletic plant after today's track meet and the tennis match between the Skibo varsity and Bethany and the freshmen netters and Kiski, at Saltsburg.

The Skibos and Grovers are expected to serve up a right close meet today, the squads apparently being fairly evenly matched. A victory for the Plaid will give the Schenley Parkers a record of four meets won and two lost for the year.

The withdrawal of the entire Washington team from the P. I. A. A. meet has left open several places on the team that will represent the W. P. I. A. L. McBurney will not be on hand for the sprints, Coburn for the mile or Selway for the javelin.

LEAGUE HOLDS TITLE

The makeup of the W. P. I. A. L. team is expected to be announced by the league track committee today. The W. P. I. A. L. will be defending district champion in the meet at Altoona. Williamsport High won the individual school title a year ago and will be on hand to defend the bauble tomorrow.

CHICAGO, May 22.—For a spell when the Red Sox were up in fifth place I thought the Einstein theory must be in force. But I notice the law of gravity is finally beginning to work and the Boston team is on the dumb waiter, bound for the cellar. They should be at home to all callers in their usual basement abode by the end of this western trip. Well, around Chicago the rumors are flying thicker than the Army airmen. The dope is that Rogers Hornsby is going to be out as manager of the Cubs. This rumor has the same specifications as an air castle in Spain. It hasn't any foundation.

315-YARD GOLF ACE

WHEELING, W. Va., May 22.—(AP.)—J. H. Fleming, youthful Wheeling golfer, made a hole in one yesterday on the 315-yard number nine hole of the municipal course. His ball shot on to the green as Dr. Harry Anderson, playing in a twosome ahead of Fleming, was about to putt, 18 inches from the cup. Fleming's ball struck Anderson's and was deflected in.

SCHOOL NINES FACE TITLE TESTS TODAY

The Section I title in the City League will be settled one way or another next Tuesday at Allderdice and the muddle situation in Section II will be somewhat cleared up today as the high school baseballers continue their battling for sectional titles.

In Section I, Westinghouse and Schenley clash Tuesday in a play-off game, the winner to take down the section crown, now held by Schenley. The teams finished their regular seasons last Tuesday tied for the lead.

In Section II, a brace of postponed tussles will be run off today, the results being counted upon to straighten out the tangle. In one game, Carrick meets Oliver and in the other, South Hills takes on Langley.

Beaver High's crack nine, champion of Section III of the W. P. I. A. L., meets Mt. Pleasant, of Section II, in an intersectional fracas today, the winner to enter the final round of the league competition.

Yesterday, Wilkinsburg won the county independent championship by defeating Rankin in the deciding game of the three-game series, 3 to 0. Sloan, who hurled a no-hit game earlier in the year, turned in a shutout triumph, allowing only three safe hits.

EASTERN CLUBS SWAMP WEST

MACKS, GIANTS MAKE BEST RECORDS

Associated Press.

"The triumph of the East" is the only possible title for the story of the first round of intersectional play in the two major baseball leagues. Only one eastern club failed to reach at least a .500 average in its games against the West in the round which wound up yesterday with three more eastern victories out of four American League games and a complete washout for the National League.

The Philadelphia Athletics must come first in recounting the tale of eastern triumphs. The A's made a clean sweep of their 11 games in the West, climbing to the top of the American League. Altogether they have won 13 successive games, pounding the Detroit Tigers for a final triumph yesterday, 12 to 5.

NATS WIN NINTH

Washington also did some important climbing in its western tour, downing the Chicago White Sox, 4-3, yesterday to make it nine victories in 11 games. Heinie Manush drove in all four Senator runs.

The New York Yankees, holding second place just ahead of Washington, won seven and lost two. They completed the rout of Cleveland yesterday, taking a 7-6 decision after Babe Ruth's fifth homer of the season had given them a good start. Cleveland failed to win one of its 11 games against eastern clubs and yesterday's defeat was the twelfth straight.

Rip Collins, of St. Louis, cost the Boston Red Sox a chance to gain an even break in their 12 games in the West. Collins held the Sox to four hits to take a 2-to-1 decision. Boston finished ahead of all the western clubs with five games won and seven lost.

GIANTS SHOW WAY

In the National League the count for 32 intersectional games was 20-12 in favor of the East with the New York Giants in the lead. The Giants lost a single game to Pittsburgh but won every other series to finish with six victories and two defeats.

Boston and Philadelphia each won five games from the western visitors and lost three while Brooklyn, despite some wabbly playing, broke even in its eight games.

SCHOOL GOLF TEAMS CLASH

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Another big week of golf will come to a close tomorrow, although it will be succeeded by one full of just as much interest. Today two matches are being played in the Interscholastic Golf Conference. Langley High is playing Kiski at Saltsburg, Pa., in a Section I tilt, while Carrick is host to Bellevue High in Section II.

The usual Saturday matches at district clubs will be marked by a big Red and Blue team match at the St. Clair Country Club, its first of the season, while the inaugural tournament is to be held at the Summit golf links, near Uniontown.

Shannopin has slated a four-ball best ball match play against par event for tomorrow, medal play under full handicap will be held at Greensburg and Wildwood will stage best ball two-ball match play contests.

Sunday a mixed foursome is slated at the Summit links in Uniontown, and many locals are listed among the entries.

The women of the St. Clair Country Club held their formal opening event yesterday, with Mrs. J. E. Ashford grabbing the top prize in the first division with a net 79. Mrs. J. C. Wick was high in the second flight with a net 82. A fine field turned out for the competition. Manager Herman Ploetner had everything shipshape and a delightful luncheon marked the occasion.

Titan Net Team Blanks Waynesburg

WAYNESBURG, Pa., May 22.—Westminster tennis players converted their racquets into whitewash brushes yesterday and applied a coat of kalsomine to the Waynesburg College team, 7 to 0. The summary:

DORMONT LOSES TO HOMEWOOD

Homewood and the J. L. Thomas nine scored signal triumphs in City League encounters last evening. Homewood nosed out Dormont, 4 to 2, and the Thomas entry walloped the North Side Civics, 9 to 2.

In the Crafton-Ingram Church League, the Presbyterians defeated the Methodists, 4 to 2. Riecks downed Joseph Hornes, 8 to 4, in a C. & I. League fracas and in the Wagner loop, the Lloyd Cardinals trimmed Chi Mac, 5 to 3.

Edgewood won over North Bessemer, 9-7; Smiths defeated Jenkins, 8-0, and Immaculate Heart blanked Whitaker, 7-0, in Greater Pittsburgh League frays.

Snee Dairy defeated DePasquale, 3-2, in the Steel City League. Irwins won over Sonora, 4-2, and Colteryahn downed McGraths, 8-5, in the Central Pittsburgh circuit. Homestead Aces nosed out Linwood, 4-3, in the West Penn League.

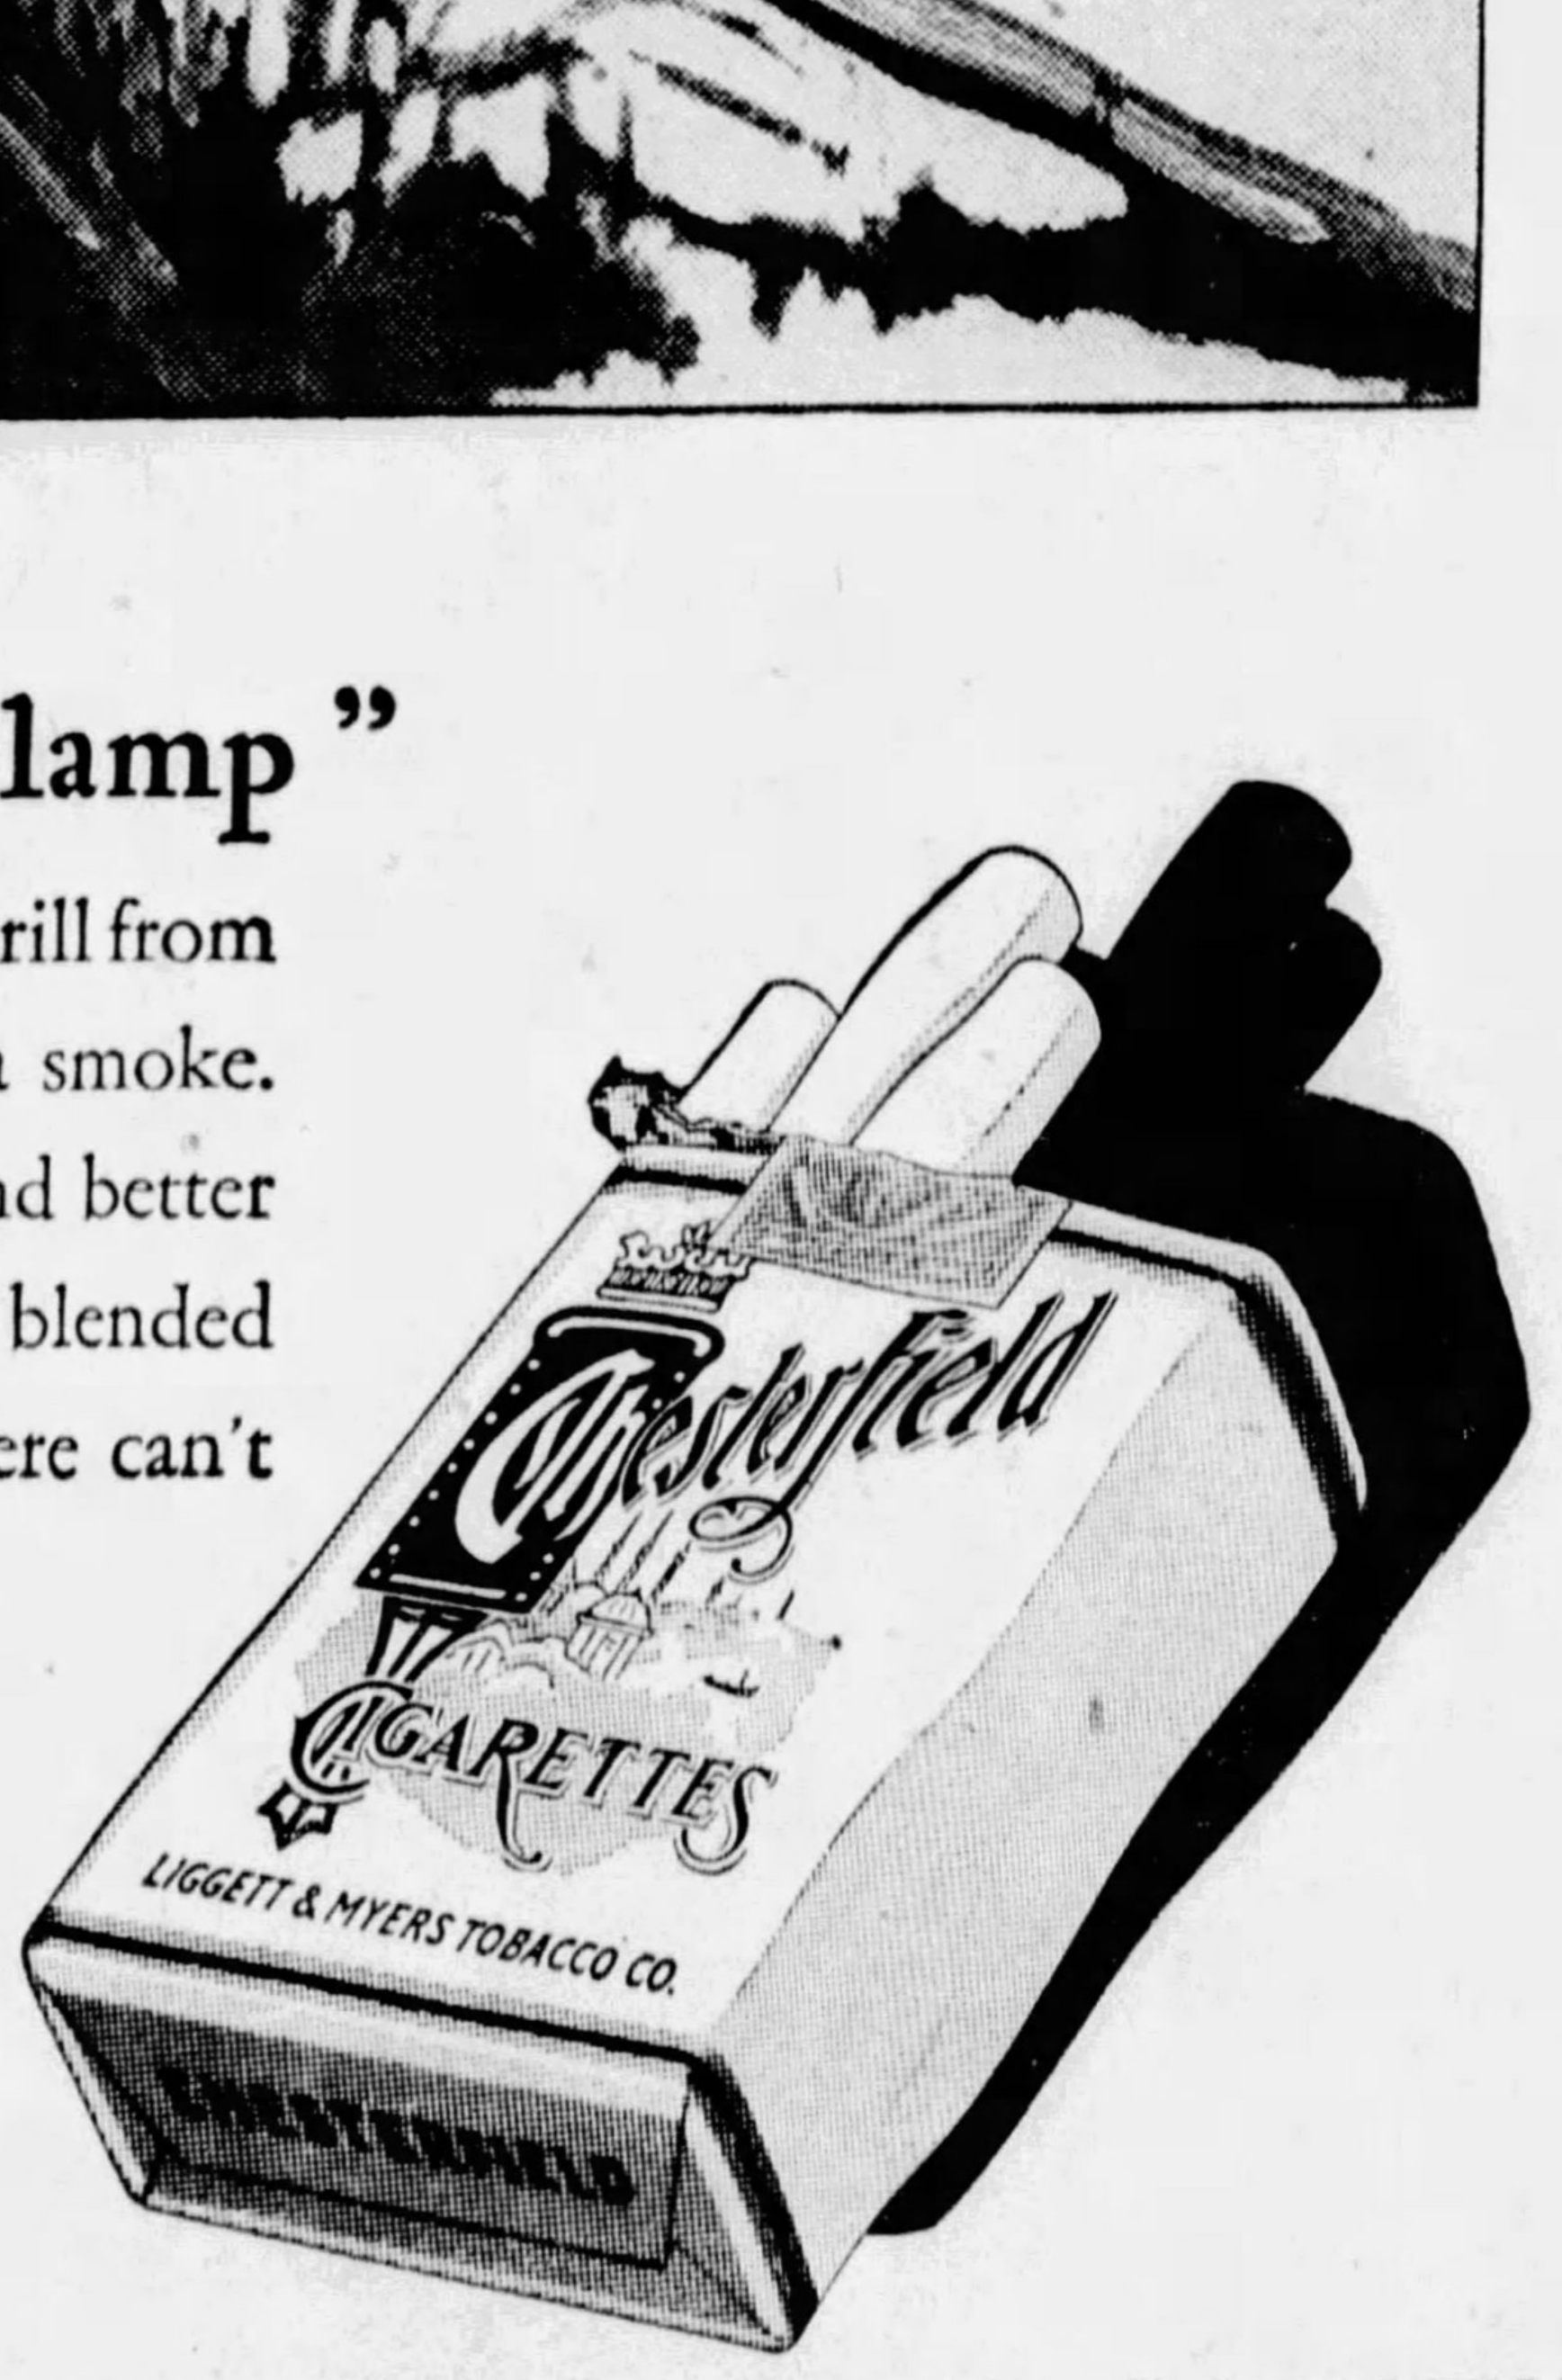
Big game is big game whether you hunt it yourself or share the thrill from an open book, or the silver screen. Likewise, a good cigarette is a smoke. What you taste in Chesterfield is what you want to taste—milder and better tobaccos. The taste is there and the fragrance too, for these tobaccos are blended and cross-blended to bring out their full aroma and flavor, and there can't be anything better in a cigarette.



FOR NINETEEN years, our Research Department has kept intimate touch with every new development of Science that could be applied to the manufacture of cigarettes. During this period there has been no development of tested value or importance to the smoker which we have not incorporated into the making of Chesterfield cigarettes.

NET CARD SET FOR SEC. II

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Eight teams, two less than faced the barrier on opening day a year ago, will go to the post in Section II, of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League when the bugle calls local racqueters to the start of 1931 competition tomorrow. Announcement to this effect was forthcoming late yesterday as P. T. A. schedule and sanction committeemen released for publication their handiwork on the lower division card for the impending campaign.

The champion Westinghouse Seconds, 1930 victors, will still dispute the titular path against a strong field, however, for arrayed against them will be Sam Keller's accomplished Duquesne Library troupe, Howard Moore's revamped College Avenue crew, a promising Bellevue entry, and clever outfits from West Penn Power, Washington Heights, Rockwood, and South Hills. Bellevue, Rockwood, and South Hills are newcomers to the group.

The lower division inaugural bill suggests likelihood of interesting tussles. The titled Westinghouse netmen travel to Mt. Lebanon for a joust with the youthful Rockwood combatants, while Duquesne Library jaunts to South Hills. West Penn Power invades College Avenue, and Bellevue mounts Washington Heights. Meanwhile Section I warriors will mix with College Hill at P. A. A., Stanton Heights at University Club, South Hills at Edgewood, and Mt. Lebanon at Westinghouse.

Three important games are carded in the West Penn League this evening. In one of the battles, Homestead Aces and Reliance Life will be fight it out for first place at the Homewood playgrounds.

At Swissvale the fans will take a peek at Marty Griffin's entry and there is every reason to feel that the popular Hill district alderman will put a classy aggregation on the field. Dave Roberts, who is associated with the club, was the pilot of the famous J. F. Malone club for many years.

The third game finds Turtle Creek Community making its way to Moultrie Park to meet the St. Joachim.

In the City League, two games will be staged. The J. L. Thomas team goes to Dormont to meet the South Hills entry, while Book Shoe faces the Buicks on the North Side. Armand Dubuque probably will oppose the Shoemen with Dunn on the mound for Sam Griffith's club.

Tomorrow evening the newly organized Beechview Board of Trade nine swings into action at the Alton grounds against the Homewood club. The South Hills team will have to be good to cope with the City League team.

Fans following the fortunes of the Homestead Grays will see their favorites facing two former big leaguers tomorrow afternoon in a doubleheader at Forbes Field. Dormont will be met, and pre-game statements say that Bill Doak and Wilbur Cooper will pitch. Doak is a sure bet, but there seems to be some doubt regarding Cooper. The first game will be called at 2 p. m. The Grays play at Ingomar tonight.

MAY-STERN HAS BOUGHT OUT PICKERING'S — PROGRESS

Making May-Stern's, a Great Store---Still Greater

The merging of Pickering's with May-Stern & Co. was a million-dollar transaction—one of the largest in the merchandising history of Pittsburgh. It brought to May-Stern's, however, the goodwill of 40,000 more customers. It gave this store an added sales volume which, of course, greatly reduced overhead and immediately enabled us not only to buy for less than ever before, but to sell for less, as well. Never have we been able to give the public more for its money. Every day this million-dollar merger presents still more striking evidence in the values it offers that a great store has become—still greater!

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Mother's Place Where She Can Benefit Children

Should a mother take a job to help her children? Suppose the father of those children objects . . . even though he realizes that his small salary cannot meet their needs? Suppose he says, "A mother's place is in the home" . . . even though she and her babies may be starving and sickening in that home—

Then what?

Months ago, Eve came asking that question—and started a riot! We backed Eve up. Whereupon a couple of thousand Peeved Papas said that Ladies Like Us were "Wrecking The American Home" . . . but still the mails bring stories like the following.

Husband Lost Job

This is a story of "Love as is" . . . not a rose wreathed Romance from Hollywood, but a thorn-beset romance from real life. These two were handicapped by poverty—and by their own ignorance and selfishness. Their marriage was going on the rocks, as perhaps yours is. What did they do? And did they win or lose? Listen—

"Dear Sally Martin:

"The 'should-mothers-work argument goes on and on in the column, doesn't it? I wonder if my story won't help some worried mother.

"When I was 19, I married, and gave up a job I had held for two years, and in which I had worked up to over double my starting salary . . . i. e. from $75 to $165 a month. I had met my husband when he was a soldier near where I lived during the war. I knew he was 'my man,' and after he returned from France and had worked a year, we were married. What did it matter then that he only made $4.00 a day? I was in love, and his lack of education and ability or ambition to fit himself for higher things didn't seem sufficient to make me reconsider marrying him.

"Like Eve's husband, he wouldn't hear of me working, so on the eve of my wedding, I quit my job and commenced my struggle on his $24 a week. In a year my first child came . . . and he lost his job. We got in debt badly. And he's never had a steady income since . . . never an income of over $100 a month at any time. In two years more we had a second child . . . and went still more in debt.

Worried About Children

"In the meantime, what was happening to Tom and me, who had vowed our love was eternal? Who had put material things in the background? Deemed love the all-important thing?

"We were growing discontented. Neither of us seemed to find much to smile at any more. Who can smile and think of love when creditors hang around the doorstep like hungry wolves? When they must live in cold, musty, cheerless rooms in a shoddy neighborhood?

"How beautifully romantic . . . and how deceiving . . . are those lines 'two can live as cheap as one!' Especially when the 'two' become four! And when the babies are growing and needing more and more to care for them and educate them! I tell you it was just eating my heart out!

"All this time Tom made no effort to increase his income and, at any mention of my going back to work, he ranted, raved and scolded until I was thoroughly subdued—till next time. Some may think, reading this, that I was self-centered and selfish. Absurd! I was worried about my children. They were growing up in an atmosphere of dingy poverty . . . on poor food, and with little prospect of decent schooling. I was giving them my personal care all right . . . But often we had little to eat even, for days at a time. Was that good for them? Was any of the situation good for them? It was not!

"Well, I put a stop to it. It came to a showdown, and I got that job! Tom was furious, wouldn't speak to me. But he's got over it. And now he admits that he admires me for taking things into my own hands. We live in a clean, decent place. A home of our own. We have a small car even. They aren't all paid for yet, it is true. But we are happy. We're going ahead.

Mother's Place

"We have hope and cheerfulness around us. Our children have decent food, and will have a decent education so they will be able to make their way in the world. And they have good health. They're growing as children should. They're both in school. I have a woman come in for a few hours each day, and things run just as smoothly and intelligently as though I were home all day.

"As for a mother's care of her children; that is not merely a physical ministration. If she is the right kind of a mother, like Eve, she wants to give them an education and a chance in the world, as well as to feed and wash them. We are living in a different age—an age of refinement and education and culture. If our children are going to make their way in the world, they've got to be given the tools to do it with. We want them to grow up to be good, efficient citizens, and they can't accomplish much if they haven't education . . . and education takes money. Surely $24 a week won't do it. It'll leave them stranded, that's what.

"These people with their mid-Victorian ideas about mamma always buttoning baby's shoes herself give me a pain. I say a mother's place is where she can do the most for her children. If that happens to be working down town, then that's where she belongs!

"HELEN."

AUTO WRECKING ZONING ASKED

The City Planning Commission will introduce into Council next Monday an ordinance to bar automobile wrecking lots in all but heavy industrial use districts.

It also is supporting four ordinances vacating portions of Woodruff street, substituting ordinances previously introduced to City Council in connection with the improvement of Sawmill Run boulevard, also one re-establishing the grade of Noblestown road.

Weakness in Chemicals And Coppers Gradually Changes Course of List

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP.)—The stimulus given the railroad securities by the launching of a project to increase freight rates failed to check the persistent trickle of selling in other divisions in today's security markets.

Stocks were firm during the early trading, but weakness cropped out in the copper and chemical issues, and gradually imparted a heavy tone to the entire list. Railway bonds recovered substantially, but several other descriptions continued to shrink.

United States Industrial Alcohol stock dropped about 5 points to the lowest price since 1915. Issues declining a point or two included United States Steel and Westinghouse. Early gains of a point or two in the industrials and utilities were mostly more than lost by afternoon, although such advances in a broad list of rails were partially retained.

Wall street attention converged upon the steel industry, as the American Iron and Steel Institute met in semi-annual meeting. James M. Farrell, president of U. S. Steel, described the constant price cuts in competitive efforts to get business as "diabolical."

Mr. Farrell asserted that the steel executives had largely themselves to blame for the low state of earnings.

In connection with the current effort to get an upward revision of freight rates to keep railway bonds on savings bank legal lists, some rail executives assert that rail executives are in part responsible for their troubles, through ruthless competition.

J. I. Case declared the regular quarterly payment of 50 cents, despite widespread rumors of a cut. General Electric declared its regular payment.

Both copper and chemical shares reflected the recent reductions in prices of their products. The weekly commodity price index was announced as lower for the tenth consecutive week, and at 102.5, it stands within 2.5 points of its 1913 level.

Chicago Title and Trust Company was named receiver. The mortgage concern, which has been in the hands of a protective committee since August, 1929, consented to the receivership.

COPPER DEMAND EXPANDING

NEW YORK, May 22.—Copper buying in the domestic market is in better volume. Fabricators have canvassed the market and not finding any 8½-cent copper available, have begun to buy in fair volume at 8¾ cents, delivered.

Foreign sales yesterday were about 2,250,000 pounds, but were small in the forenoon today because of the approaching Whitsunday holidays abroad. Owing to widespread observance of these holidays, it is probable foreign sales will be small until Tuesday.

Producers continue to hold at 9c delivered, and it is known some of them refused business at 8¾c.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

The demand for fruit and vegetables was slow today at the wholesale produce markets in Pittsburgh. There were no changes in quotations.

The poultry markets remained steady, demand fair, supply nominal with slight changes in quotations.

Carlot supplies were moderate with 392 cars on track. Arrivals included five cars apples, 13 bananas, 1 beans, 2 cabbage, 9 cantaloupes, 3 carrots, 4 celery, 1 cherries, 3 cucumbers, 3 grapefruits, 7 lemons, 9 lettuce, 8 onions, 23 oranges, 1 peas, 4 pineapples, 23 potatoes, 1 spinach, 7 strawberries, 10 tomatoes and 7 mixed vegetables.

LOCAL MARKET QUIET AND STEADY

Pittsburgh Plate Glass in Demand as N. Y. Recovery Continues; Hachmeister Up

Trading was quiet and prices were steady to firm in the early dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. In the fuel division quotations showed only minor fluctuations. Western Public Service, which reached new low ground on a slight decline yesterday, was off a small fraction to another new bottom this morning, but only a few shares of the stock changed hands. Curtailed industrial activity in the company's marketing area has caused moderate liquidation in the issue.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass was strong at the opening, holding the gain made in yesterday's late trading. Strength in this issue was induced by the recovery in leading industrials and rails in the New York market. Hachmeister-Lind lifted its price slightly at the start, reaching new high ground on the present move.

Shift of Investors in Favor of Long Term Bonds Expected

Those who follow the investment situation closely are of the opinion that an important shift in favor of long term bonds is near at hand. They feel that the tremendous demand for short term obligations which has been in evidence through recent months has lifted that class of investment collateral to levels where the return offered is no longer attractive even to banks. As a matter of fact it is reported that banks are looking the situation over very closely at the moment, seeking out some of the choicest of long term investments where safety of principal and interest is assured and where at the same time the return offered is attractive. It would not surprise some of those who keep in close touch with conditions if the short term market should reflect the effects of some important selling over the next little while.

Railroad stocks, with New York Central in the van, were the leaders on the spectacular rally which got under way shortly before the turn into the closing hour yesterday. Rather urgent bidding for New York Central at levels 2 to 3 points above the day's early low levels provided a strong influence in setting in motion the brisk covering movement which followed the demonstration in that stock. The action of Central was such as would have suggested constructive forces were endowed for the moment at least with something in the way of "leadership," an element which had been lacking up to the time. Pressure on shorts in Central turned the general market and smart recovery ruled in the list as a whole.

A substantial increase in savings bank deposits has been shown in the first four months of the year. This trend reflects the conservatism prevalent all over the country. Much of this money has been banked by persons who have lost confidence in securities, temporarily. Sooner or later, this supply of funds will be released. Part of it, undoubtedly, can be expected to come into the stock market. Hence it seems reasonable to believe that there is a good underlying demand which will make itself felt, once sentiment brightens.

The Street is inclined to regard the declaration of an extra dividend of 25 cents a share by Coca Cola as reflecting confidence of the management as to the future. Earnings in the first quarter were above those for the 1930 period, but regardless of this, it is contended that directors would not have voted the extra payment unless they felt that the company's future possibilities were also satisfactory.

The placing of Texas Corporation stock on a $2 a share basis, compared with $3 heretofore, came as a surprise to many in the financial district. Liquidation in the stock and its limited ability to rally in the past four weeks has led to the belief that the distribution would be omitted entirely. It is probable that other predictions of drastic dividend actions will prove to have been overdone when the various directorates act in the coming weeks or months.

Hugh Bancroft, pjresident of Dow, Jones & Co., Inc., publishers of the Wall Street Journal, speaking before the Philadelphia Bond Club on the subject "1931 to Date," said, in part, "So far this year we haven't been buying very much, but we have been getting out of debt very fast. While many security loans have been liquidated by the transfer of ownership from borrower to lender, a process which unfortunately is going on extensively in other fields. Yet, after making all proper allowances for such transactions, it seems clear we are individually saving and getting out of debt at a remarkable rate. That is one of the reasons why business is bad. But it is preparing a strong foundation for better business to come."

National Steel Profit Holds Steady

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE NATIONAL STEEL Corporation is expected to report earnings for the second quarter of the present year approximately equal to those of the first quarter. Sales and earnings in April were at practically the same rate as in March. The volume of May business has been well maintained.

In the first three months of 1931 net profit after all charges was $1,926,000, which was equivalent to 89 cents a share on 2,155,905 shares of stock. This covered dividends for the quarter of 50 cents a share by a margin of 39 cents a share.

If the prediction of earnings for the second quarter is borne out, the company will earn $1.78 a share for the first half of the year. It will have earned dividend requirements for the first three quarters and half of the dividends for the final quarter of the year.

Covered Dividends Twice

FOR THE FULL YEAR of 1930 net profit was $8,415,822 or $3.91 a share. This covered dividend requirements for the year almost twice.

With the sale of $40,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds a short time ago the company has completed the financing of its expansion program and has placed itself in a strong current financial position.

No further financing will be necessary until the company builds a plant in the Chicago district. While this step has been under consideration for over a year, the present condition of the steel industry makes any definite move towards new construction at that point unlikely for some time.

Most of Plants Finished

PRACTICALLY ALL THE improvements to plants have been completed. The merchant bar mill at the Detroit plant is the only major unit not ready for operation. Other recently completed units in the Detroit district are in production. Due to the depressed state of the automobile business, however, operations have been at a low rate up to the present time. Production in the Weirton district is at a higher rate than the general average for the steel industry.

The new structural steel mill at Weirton is in production. Usually a long period of time is necessary to get a new mill of this type into proper working order. Officials feel that unusually good results have been obtained in getting this unit on a production basis. The rolling of rails in this mill probably will be started later in the year.

Berry Kisses Jennifer as They Rush to Party

(This famous story has been made into a talking picture by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with Marion Davies in the leading role.)

CHAPTER XIV.

The great-grandfather of Leslie Edgerton had once been governor of a Confederate state. It had cost the grandfather of Leslie Edgerton one million and a half dollars to run on a foredoomed ticket for President of the United States.

The father of Leslie Edgerton had married a Miss Henrietta Crosby, of Crosby, Conn., and had retrieved the million and many more by subsequently inheriting, by proxy of this wife, the Crosby watch factories.

The paths of the Crosbys and the Raricks crossed occasionally, chiefly at Bailey's Beach, public charity functions, bridges, bazars, teas and occasionally in a purely social way.

Jenny had ventured to include the Crosbys in what had been the largest dinner dance of the season, with which she had magnificently set the winter ball rolling the night after the opening of the opera.

The Crosbys had "regretted." Jennifer had cried, with her usual irrelevant questionnaire, which she hurled, while smarting, at such situations, "Where do they get off? The Edgertons don't set my hair on fire."

Beautiful Estates

Leslie had sat opposite Jennifer at a Hunt Club subscription luncheon two days later, and made no reference either to the occasion of the dinner dance itself, which had caused talk because of its elaborateness, or to her regrets.

That had somehow rankled in Jennifer more than the original refusal. It was as if, with a preciosity that was chiseled thinly into her face and lay along the delicate arch of her brows, Leslie had set about wounding a wound.

The building itself was a long low one, of enormous width, no particular depth, and a whiteness to it as if a Mediterranean sun were perpetually beating down. Some wag had tagged it "Carnegie Library" because of this low width and the pairs of Carrara lions that crouched beside the four flights of marble staircases.

The Edgertons had decided to have a sense of humor about this 68-room white elephant, which five years previous had been rushed to completion in time for Leslie's birthday.

The white crash of this house into the finest stretch of forest land within its radius from New York was a sore point with Tom Edgerton. It had cost easily over a million and a half, and there it stood, an affront to his taste, his intelligence and his dignity. It was the sort of home a war millionaire might have erected out of an overnight fortune.

Truth of the matter was—and bitterly he knew it—Henrietta had been deep in an affair with the architect who designed it.

Tom's sop to his sense of the ironic was to be unfaithful to his wife on every possible occasion, in this house, which had turned into a monstrosity because she had insisted upon giving carte blanche to her lover, the nincompoop young architect on dancing legs, who had created it.

"We're a pretty lot," Leslie Edgerton had once said to her father, who, when in his cups, could laugh uproariously at a remark he would slap her clear, heart-shaped face for when sober. "We're a pretty lot, dad. The only thing virgin around here is the soil. If!"

Rides With Berry

Jennifer and Berry tilted into the three-mile driveway of that virgin soil on two wheels at a 60-mile clip. They had driven out in Berry's underslung, boat-shaped roadster. Jennifer at first had remonstrated, holding out against cramming herself, in her slim sheaf of baby-ermine gown, into a crouched position in the natty sports car.

"Come along. Be as boyish as your bob. I'll wrap you in a raccoon coat, and that little white mitten you're wearing for a dress won't turn a hair," he said, and brushed aside a butler who had been holding some more white ermine for her to slide arms into during the 12 minutes of this controversy.

She liked his riding her down this way. Old cave-man stuff, she told herself. Putrid-old. But she liked it. Wasn't often a fellow with millions, only grandson of a personage like old Rodney Rhodes, and more millions to come on top of it, came in a package like Berry. Personality. Brains. Brawn.

"Nervous?" he said, letting out a rip of speed, as they cleared the city line.

"Not to the point of breakdown," she said, and tilted a look at him from the low crouch into which the car forced her.

"You girls give me a pain in the neck," he said. "Innuendo. All lies."

"I'm sorry, Berry," she said, and laid a hand against his driving arm. "And I'm glad it's all lies."

Proposes Marriage

"That's right," he said, "be yourself," and smiled at her with white teeth set in a face that had been polished tan by the sun.

"What self is that?"

"The self I like. You're a darling, Jennifer. I strongly suspect you of having brains, too, and you're brainy enough to keep them carefully concealed under that Joan of Arc bob."

"Give me a light, Berry."

"Oh!"

"There, you had it!"

"You little designing designer," he laughed, and drew up. "It's darling of you, though, to want our ride to last."

"It's darling of you, Berry, to have got me asked out to the Edgerton's tonight. I'm on."

"Nonsense!"

"I don't give a damn for them or their parties, except for you——"

"By God! I think you lisp! Let me thee your tongue."

"There!" She darted it at him. Quick. Pink.

"You sweet Sweet," he said, out of its long endurance.

"Berry, let's you and me be low-down honest."

"I choose the first. You be honest."

"If you had half an idea of how honest I'm going to be, you'd climb out and hitch-hike your way back to town."

"Fortify me for that exigency—this way," he said, and kissed her again, his strong lips flaring so that involuntarily she drew the back of her hand across the feeling of the wetness of his teeth against her face.

"Berry, you and I weren't born yesterday."

He made to kiss her again.

"Don't do that."

"You egged me on."

"I know, but——"

"You are so blamed honest, Jennifer, it makes a fellow want——"

"Awful serious, Berry."

"It can't be done, Jen. I'm immune."

"Berry, marry me."

He tightened as if a lock had sprung.

"Certainly. But I haven't my music with me."

"Berry, get this. I'm serious. Marry me. Don't answer. Just listen. You're no angel, Berry. God knows I'm not. I like you. A lot. I want you to respect that. I'm pretty crazy about you. You're a bad boy, Berry, but neither of us is sprouting wings. I think it's a swell plan and I'm sober. I'll marry you, not to reform you, but to reform with you."

Speeds Into Parmley

"Bing!" she [illegible] and cocked a finger.

"I don't know whether you're spoofing me or not, but let's not be serious tonight, Jennifer. Isn't it enough—this night—us—this way—"

"Damn you, darling," she said, "you're standing up the girl."

"Jennifer, let me know you tonight — afterwards — my rooms?"

"You go plumb to hell, Berry," she said, pushing him from her with high laughter. "Step on her, we'll be late! And if you don't behave, the girl will leap from the car and her mangled remains will be found on the roadside by an early morning farmer carting his carrots to market. Daughter of Dime Millionaire leaps from speeding car of son of rubber-heel magnate!"

"Jen! Nee! Fer!"

"Step on her, I said."

It was to her high, fast, and incessant laughter that they tilted into Parmley on two wheels at the 60-mile clip.

"Five and Ten" Synopsis

John G. Rarick has made millions as a chain store operator. His wife, Jenny, shortly after their marriage, lent him $2,500, all she had, when he was near failure, and out of this money he built riches. Rarick buys a magnificent home, but secretly finds himself hating his wife. This is accentuated by his own temperamental inability to get close to Jennifer and Avery, his children. Rarick installs an odd genius, Dr. Felix Gerkes, in his house. Jenny objects, and a bitter scene follows, in which Rarick delivers the ultimatum that Gerkes remain. He sends for Jennifer and compels her to cancel a dinner engagement to dine with Gerkes. Jennifer finds him interesting. Jenny begins to be intrigued with Ramon, a youthful gigolo. Avery comes home from school to beg his mother to help him get leave from his father to have a couple of years to himself. Jennifer likes the handsome and rich Berry Rhodes and Jenny urges her to try to win him.

DAILY TRUE STORY The Green Button

Head of Firm Proposes To His Secretary

She had never seen Mr. Martin. King, his office manager, had given Lorrie the position on the strength of her recommendation from the bank where she had worked. It had been merely a matter of desiring more money which her previous job could not pay.

Mr. King was at the telephone when Lorrie arrived. He saw her enter and beckoned to her, saying into the transmitter, "just a moment, please." To Lorrie he said, "Take what I shall repeat, please."

"All right," he informed whoever was at the other end of the line as Lorrie picked up the nearest pencil and paper.

The message that he received and repeated for Lorrie was to the effect that Miss Watson was in a hospital in the next state as a result of an automobile accident.

Lorrie, hat and coat still on, used the nearest typewriter and handed the typed message to Mr. King.

"Well, you came just in time. I hate to take down messages in long hand. More than that, you will have to take Miss Watson's desk. Queer about this. I engaged you to take her place because she was to leave next week. I wanted her to sort of help you break in on the job—Mr. Martin is very particular."

"That's all right with me," Lorrie answered, "if he only smiles when he is particular. I cannot abide a grouch."

Mr. King looked frightened and someone back of her chuckled.

"Er—Mr. Martin," King said, a trifle embarrassed, "Miss Watson was in a car smash and is in a hospital."

"So? Perhaps it's for the best. She was to have been married next week, I understand."

"Well, anyway, he knows how I feel about grouchy men," Lorrie said to King. "What do I do now?"

Summoned by Employer

"Wait for the buzzer and then go in there," and he indicated the door through which Mr. Martin had disappeared.

There was a sharp buzz under her desk. Lorrie looked inquiringly at Mr. King, who nodded and indicated the door to Mr. Martin's sanctum.

Mr. Martin was rather young, and unusually good looking, Lorrie saw, as he sat there with his hat and coat off—at least, he seemed young to be the head of such a whooping big business.

"You are——?"

"Miss Thayer," Lorrie said. "Mr. King said I was to take Miss Watson's place—and she was to have shown me the ropes this week, but I can find out what is required."

"A letter, if you please——"

He dictated. But he hadn't smiled once. It was a long letter and filled with many technical sentences that had to do with the business and many quotations of prices, stocks and what not.

"That's all now, Miss Thayer—rush it, please; this is to go by air mail; it is something I do not want to telephone or put on the wires."

Lorrie went out and typed the letter on the president's special engraved stationery, as King instructed. She took the letter in to Mr. Martin, first tapping at his door and waiting for the command to enter.

"Thanks," he said, and kept on at some figuring. Not five minutes later Lorrie's buzzer sounded and she went in.

Miracle! Mr. Justin Martin was smiling.

"You have given me quite a shock," he said. "Not an error in this letter. Where did you get experience, Miss Thayer?"

She told him the name of the bank.

"I am very particular, I have even overheard some of the workers outside refer to me as an old 'fuddy-duddy,' whatever that may be, but with your intelligent work I can afford to smile. There is, on the under edge of your desk a small green push-button."

Clever Trick

"I found it and wondered, Mr. Martin."

"But you didn't ask?"

"Someone would tell me when it became necessary."

"Miss Watson and Mr. King were the only ones who knew about it. The nature of my business, with many other office men who know all the old tricks of being out or in conference, makes it necessary for me to resort to a little strategy."

He got up and opened a door. There was a small but well-fitted inner office. Lorrie noticed that his hat and coat were hanging in a mahogany locker in there.

"Clever—if I can get to know who these bores are."

"That will be easy. There are only four at present. They transact their business in their own office with my agents and come here merely to visit. Give me, say 10 seconds to grab my papers and slip in there. Then you may open my door. The trick is to tell these callers that you think I have gone out, hesitate a little, to give me time, then tell the caller that you will make sure. you will see if my hat and coat are in here. If so, you will have someone find me, as I will be in the building. Then open the door fully as you step in. My boresome caller may see for himself that I am not here and that my hat-tree is empty."

"That will be great fun," Lorrie declared.

Falls in Love

It worked beautifully. Within a fortnight Lorrie knew all four of the bores. There was no slip-up, she stalled them a bit, threw open the door to see about the hat and coat and regretted that Mr. Martin had gone.

It was a swell job. It paid most satisfactorily, but there was only one trouble with it—Lorrie fell head over heels in love with Mr. Justin Martin.

He was going to be away a fortnight, he explained, and she might as well have a vacation, also. And he did so appreciate her services.

It should have been a great holiday, but it wasn't.

And all because Mr. Justin Martin, to Lorrie's great surprise, was also at Palm Beach and his engagement was announced to Flora Haddon, who had been so much in the newspapers for her rather gay social activities.

One day a rather stout, matronly woman came in and asked for Mr. Martin. Lorrie recognized her. She was the mother of Flora Haddon. Lorrie had seen her at Palm Beach.

Lorrie deliberately pressed the green button.

"I—I think that Mr. Martin has gone ont—I'm quite positive," Lorrie said, "but I will make sure."

"Do so!" snapped Mrs. Haddon.

"I will look in and see if his hat is there, if it is I will have someone find him for you, as he will be in the building."

Lorrie got up and opened the door wide.

Lorrie Quizzed

"No," she said, "his hat is gone."

"I sit here until he returns," Mrs. Haddon said, in a loud voice.

"I'll be back tomorrow," the woman said, and went out.

"Sit down, Lorrie," Mr. Martin said.

"Why d[illegible] give me the green signa[illegible] Mrs. Haddon called?"

"Because [illegible]cause—I thought I should; [illegible] see I saw that she was trying to hide an ugly whip under her cloak and you've been so grouchy lately I guessed it was trouble, and you couldn't afford the publicity of a horse-whipping, and I guess I overstepped—"

"I—found it necessary to break my engagement with her daughter. Lorrie, you're the brightest, nicest girl I know. Now if we were to be married and run away for six months or so it would be just about the best thing that could happen to me."

"Justin," Lorrie said, "if it doesn't happen to me I'll die!"

"It will be more fun to go sailing away on a honeymoon, dear girl," he said.

But Why Have the Police Been So Slow to Clean Up the Franklin School Neighborhood?

Director Clark, of the Public Safety Department, and Supt. Walsh, of the Bureau of Police, have promised to close the disorderly houses, speakeasies and gambling dens in the neighborhood of the Franklin School, and to keep them closed.

The promise comes after the scandalous situation had attained widespread publicity.

The Board of Public Education has known of conditions for a long time and has been so disturbed over them that it has talked of removing the Franklin School to some other neighborhood.

Principal Laning reports that there are more than 30 objectionable establishments within two blocks of the school, catering to all forms of vice from dope addiction to gambling. Ten resorts can be seen, it is said, from the school windows, and drunkenness and disorder are often in evidence.

Social workers and school visitors confirm Principal Laning's report.

It would be interesting to know why the police have been so slow to clean up the neighborhood.

Have they not known of conditions?

Cost of Bad Government

Standard of Government Can Be Raised By Elimination Of Waste and Corruption.

Representative French, of Idaho, says that ''the only way to reduce the cost of government and reduce taxes is to reduce governmental activities all along the line.''

That is one way, but it is not the only way, and it is not the best way to reduce the cost of government and lessen the burden of taxation.

It is the high cost of bad government in this country—federal, state, county and municipal—that is chiefly to blame for the fact that the total cost of government has jumped from two thousand nine hundred and nineteen millions of dollars in 1913 to thirteen thousand millions of dollars in 1930.

Eliminate some of the waste of public money upon pork-barrel projects, modernize our tax methods, simplify our budget systems, reorganize federal, state and local governments, liberate our police forces and our educational institutions from the grip of evil influences. That is the way to raise the standard of government and reduce its cost by eliminating waste and corruption.

Instead of reducing ''governmental activities all along the line'' our head servants the country over should be striving to purge ''governmental activities all along the line'' of the sinister influence of pork-barrel politicians and other special interests.

Calvin Coolidge always said that the best service he rendered the people of Massachusetts while governor was in the reorganization of their government. He cut the cost and raised the standard of government.

HE DID NOT CURTAIL ANY USEFUL GOVERNMENTAL ACTIVITY.

Every state in the Union can cut the cost and raise the standard of government if its head servants will wage aggressive warfare against the projects and methods of pork-barrel politicians and other special interests that tax the people to pay the high cost of bad government.

Our head servants at Washington can raise the standard of federal government and reduce its cost if they will abandon partisanship long enough to reorganize the federal system in the public interest.

Reducing ''governmental activities all along the line'' is merely a proposal to give the people less for their money

What is really needed is the rigorous application of business system and efficiency to government in order to give the people better government for less money.

Usefulness of Museums

They Can Do Much to Promote Interest in Science by Establishing Outside Exhibits.

The annual meeting of the American Association of Museums, which opened in Pittsburgh yesterday, directs attention to important changes that have taken place in these institutions since the organization met here before.

Museums not so many years ago were musty repositories of stuffed birds and other such objects. The curators were scientists more interested in their own researches than in the education of the public. People visited the museums and looked at the exhibits. If they learned something from them, well and good; if not, there was nothing that could be done about it.

That was the attitude then. Now alert museum men take an aggressive attitude, and seek actively to interest the public in the wonders of nature and science.

One of the most encouraging things is that the museum men do not confine their efforts within the walls of their institutions, but endeavor to teach their lessons in parks and other outdoor places where people congregate.

One of the speakers yesterday told of trailside museums established in Palisades Park, New York, and in Yosemite and Yellowstone National parks..

We have a more accessible example in Oglebay Park at Wheeling, where visitors are taught the names and characteristics of the trees and plants, the birds, insects and other animals, and also something about the geology of the garden, in an entertaining way.

It is to be hoped the discussion of this subject at the museum men's convention will promote more extensive activity of this character in Pittsburgh.

An Indiscreet Remark

Fayette County District Attorney Has Let His Heart Run Away With His Head.

J. B. Adams, Fayette County prosecutor, has announced, according to a Uniontown dispatch, that no one out of a job in his district will be jailed for violation of the fish and game laws.

Mr. Adams has let his heart run away with his head.

There are numerous vagabonds who will be only too glad of such an excuse for slaughtering deer and dynamiting trout streams.

Marry-Go-Round

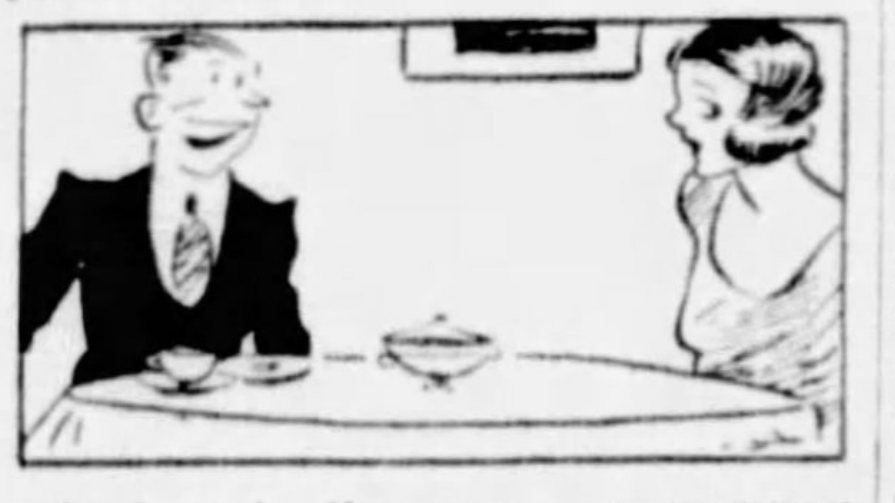
By HELEN ROWLAND

Love and the Law

A man cannot obtain an annulment of marriage just because a woman married him under false pretenses, according to the latest Supreme Court decision. That is, not if those "false pretenses" consisted in merely pretending that she LOVED him, when she didn't.

* * *

Of course, if she had deceived him about her age or her past or her race or something really important, it would have been different. But just a little thing like love! What's THAT — to the judicial mind?



And yet, the man or woman who marries for LOVE, and doesn't get it, is the most cruelly cheated person in the world. Because, in these days of good jobs for women, and bachelor flats for men, love is about the only thing to marry for.

* * *

Love is the only thing that enables a woman to put up with a man's moods, demands and grouches, overlook his conceit, bear with his tardiness and idiosyncracies, and listen to his alibis, without feeling her nerves snap.

* * *

Love is the only thing that gives a man the strength to stand a woman's nerves, endure her smothering, overlook her capriciousness, cater to her vanity, listen to her chatter and forgive her weaknesses, without losing his mental balance.

* * *

Love is the only thing that will make serving three meals a day, washing the dishes and counting the laundry a joy, instead of a sentence at hard labor.

Love is the magic veil that enables a woman to see the dashing wooer of her courting days in the strange creature in a faded dressing gown, who is making faces at the looking glass through a cloud of shaving lather.

* * *

Love is the only sorcery that will enable a man to perceive the eternal feminine charm in a woman who is squinting at the mirror through a veil of cleansing cream as she rubs the mascara off her eyelashes.

* * *

Love is the only thing that makes your work a joy and an inspiration, instead of drudgery, your ambitions worth striving for, and your successes and achievements worth while.

* * *

You may marry for money, for adventure, for experience—or just for a change. But if you marry for LOVE, and don't GET it, you've simply been "taken for a ride."

THE MYSTERIOUS PAST

By Archibald Henderson

One of the most amazing and perturbing consequences of acceptance of quantum mechanics is the uncertainty it imports into our ability to foresee the future. This ability, from the scientific standpoint, has been one of the bed-rock principles of mechanics. Given a cause, it was presumed possible to predict exactly the effect. The quantum mechanics steps in and definitely limits the possibilities of prediction. It can tell something, but not enough. In a sense, we are able to learn only half of what we ought to know. We may know the velocity of an electron, and yet not be able to determine the moment of time when it will arrive at a given position. A very considerable literature, both in science and in philosophy, has arisen, as the result of this singular consequence of the acceptance of quantum mechanics.

It has been generally supposed, however, and on reasonably valid grounds, that, even on the basis of quantum mechanics, we could give an exact description of the past path of a particle. We might not be able to predict the future, but surely we could describe the past!

A recent paper, signed by Albert Einstein, Richard C. Tolman and Boris Podolsky, robs us even of that assurance. The quantum mechanics, if its principles are to be relied upon, actually involves an uncertainty in the description of past events which is analogous to the uncertainty in the prediction of future events. This uncertainty proceeds from the fact that we are limited in the knowledge we can obtain through the measurement of momentum.

We know, presumably, how to deal with so simple a phenomenon as that of the opening and closing of a shutter. We are supposed to know the momentum of a particle in the past, and hence also its past velocity and energy. Unfortunately the past motion of one particle needed in the experiment cannot be accurately determined, in spite of current belief to that effect. Indeed, there is no method for measuring the momentum of a particle without changing its value.

As stated in this striking communication, which appeared in the mid March number of the Physical Review.

An analysis of the method of observing the Doppler effect in the reflected infra light from an approaching particle shows that, although it permits a determination of the momentum of the particle both before and after collision with the light quantum used, it leaves an uncertainty as to the time at which the collision with the quantum takes place.

Thus, although it is possible to measure the momentum of a particle and follow this with a measurement of position, this will not give sufficient data for a complete reconstruction of its past path, since there is no method for measuring the momentum of a particle without changing its value.

If the quantum mechanics be finally confirmed as authoritative, science will have to surrender one of its greatest prides and boasts: certainty. We shall not be able to tell, with confidence, any longer, why we are, what we are and where we are. Nor where we shall arrive, starting from here and now, and going in a certain direction with given velocity.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

What would you do if you were a little boy of 13 lost in a blizzard, with 19 other little lads?

Nothing outside your shelter but a whirling horror of white . . . nothing inside but a creeping tide of cold, a fire that failed, screams that slowed to whimperings, stiffened to death——

A little boy of 13 alone for the first time with death——

Screamed for your mother? Shrieked with fear, as the others had shrieked—at first? Or, mad with fright, gone leaping into the snow?

Bryan Untiedt did none of these things. Wanted to do them all. But driver Carl had left him in charge. So he stuck. Kept moving. Made them fight to keep warm. Ripped his clothes, one by one, from his skinny young body to wrap around the little brother whom nothing could save . . . Today the whole world knows the story and calls Bryan a hero. But only Bryan knows how he got that way.

How did he manage to keep his head . . . choke down child terror and grief . . . climb above child weakness? Let him tell it.

"I noticed my little brother Arlo was going. (Two were already dead). The thought almost drove me crazy. Several times I started to step out the door into what I thought was another room. I caught myself in time. My head felt light. I almost fell. 'THINK, DARN YOU!' I kept telling myself, sometimes talking aloud, although I seemed to know it was me."

"THINK, DARN YOU!"—that was what carried him through. Ice was freezing him, fear was strangling him, death was clutching him, but he fought them all back and THOUGHT. Only a 13-year-old brain—BUT IT TOOK COMMAND. That young brain held the feeble body, the frightened spirit, in place. Nothing to fight with but THOUGHT, but with that he won out, over death. And saved the others.

And you?

When your test comes as perhaps it has come—

When you're caught by some storm of fate—trapped and lost in a madness of need—and your heart's going mad with fear—what will you do?

THINK, DARN YOU—THINK!

Stop whimpering! Stop being sorry for yourself! Stop counting up the horrors around you! Stop letting your feelings ride you. FOR THEY'LL ONLY RIDE YOU IN CIRCLES. Feelings cannot guide you, cannot lead you out of a jam. There is no SENSE in feelings . . . only SENSATION. They are literally a whirling madness in your blood — a spouting ecstasy or agony from a score of glands. You might as well entrust your destiny to a dose of hives or an attack of giggles as to your FEELINGS. Feelings cannot guide you; only THOUGHT can guide you.

THINK, DARN YOU—THINK!

Think honestly and bravely, what got you into that jam. Think sensibly and quietly what you can do to get out of it. You can always do something. Nearly always it will be a very simple thing. Just such simple, sensible things as Bryan Untiedt did — burning up books, making the big children wrestle and play to keep warm. Nothing very remarkable about doing such simple things, particularly when you're craving a lot of noisy, dramatic action. But drama, when you're in a jam, is as bad as plunging headlong into a blizzard. Do the simple things — the NEXT things — the self-controlled things. Do enough of such things and you'll get out of any jam.

THINK, DARN YOU—THINK!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

Thoughts That Sing

As long as music's voices
Keep ringing in my ears,
I can forget the trials
That else, might bring me tears;
As long as I can hear
Glad choruses of song,
I can ignore the shadows
Of hours lone and long.

For blest is he who journeys
Life holds for him a rapture
No other gift can bring;
He weaves anew the lyrics
Of mocking-bird and lark,
He hears the muted music
Of gardens in the dark.

Text for Today That ye may walk honestly toward them that are without, and that ye may have lack of nothing.—I. Thessalonians, iv:12.

An Ugly Animal, But—

There Are a Million Worse Walking Around This Country on Two Legs.

IT NOW EATS FISH—IT ONCE ATE MEN.

This ugly creature, sacred in the eyes of many natives, is a crocodile called Tembi, that lives on an island about 300 yards out in Lake Victoria, Africa.

The creature, as you can guess, is of immense age, several hundred years old, perhaps nearly 1,000.

It has been ''tamed,'' if you can call a crocodile tame, for more years than the oldest native can remember.

The monster answers to its name, comes to be fed when natives call. They give fish to the crocodile, but if one of them came too near, he might lose a leg. This crocodile is not particular.

Looked upon now as mildly sacred, and under no circumstances to be offended, or allowed to go hungry, this crocodile, in days past, is alleged to have been revered, as the embodiment of some sacred spirit.

Then, instead of merely feeding the animal with fish, human beings, captured from other tribes, and children, were thrown to ''Tembi'' for food.

In this hideous head, and its small, cruel eyes, nature seems to have reached the maximum of ugliness. And yet, dear friends, this crocodile is a peaceful, respectable citizen of the waters, compared with some animals that we have walking around on two legs, calling themselves human.

To compare this crocodile, acting according to its nature, with some of our Prohibition crop of murderers, that kill women in cold blood, fearing that they may ''squeal,'' would be to insult the crocodile.

The human race produces types of depravity that leave the whole reptile kingdom far behind, human specimens more cruel than the crocodile or tiger, more poisonous than the cobra, and, unlike the rattlesnake, striking without warning.

Very ancient is the adoration of crocodiles among primitive human beings. The cult of the crocodile dates from high antiquity, especially in ancient Egypt. ''At Thebes,'' we read in the Royal Natural History, ''a crocodile was reared from youth in a temple, where it was fed with sacred food, adorned with rings and bangles, and worshiped with divine honors; while after death its mummified body was carefully preserved . . . hundreds of embalmed crocodiles are still to be found. . . . On the northwestern coast of Africa, a pair of tame crocodiles were kept in a pond by priests dressed in white garments, who fed their charges with snow white fowls.''

Let us hope that this country will get rid of its crocodile-rattlesnake population, multiplied 10,000 times by Prohibition and bootleg financing.

After all, we are not so far removed from Egyptians that worship the crocodiles. Millions of citizens worship Prohibition as their great fetish. And, as a part of Prohibition, they fasten upon the country the army of criminals, the gigantic industry of bootlegging, with its income greater than that of the United States government.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 22. — Thoughts while strolling: What's become of ginghams with rick-rack edging? Ladies who swirl out of apartment houses smoking. Donald Freeman who helps make Vanity Fair vain. But interesting. Those gusts of air from refrigerated movies, like the cool of new snow.

Journalism's Beau Brummell—George Buchanon Fyfe. An airplane sails over Times Square suggesting a coasting white hawk. A blue chow. Always think of Caruso eating spaghetti. Pork-chops were his dish. A stool and counter lunch offers a "peach plombierre" 15 cents.

Geoffrey Kerr, a London, England boy, who made good in the city. More of those after dinner cordial shops. Subpena servers. Carbon monoxide. And roues tottering magnificently. Hal Phyfe and H. T. Webster look alike.

They are finally tearing down the old Belmont hotel. An all night shoe repair shop next door to a dance hall. Those ship grills with sperm-oil lamps and scrubbed white pine tables. At least New York police are attentive to old people crossing the crowded street.

Bide Dudley's nick name is from Obidiah. After Obidiah McGuffey of the First Reader. Dean Cornwell back from painting murals in London. Those sight seeing wagon barkers trumpeting like dying bull bisons. The new type of gold digger with spring heel shoes and sly ringlets.

Why are employment agencies so shabby? Brock Pemberton begins to look the portly plutocrat. And just a few years ago he was only a gangly Kansas gawk. Why have revues overlooked dancer named Ann Pritchard? Or have they? Those large restaurants where waiters descend like a cloud.

The hawk eyed men with pencil and pad studying stock tables in limousines. Arthur Train window shopping. The glint of a dying sun on the Chrysler spire. Marion Sunshine, who wrote the English "Peanut Vendor" lyrics. Why not print future bond issues with black mourning edging?

This column reached a high for inexcusable errors the same day recently. It stated Dwight Taylor was the son of J. Hartley Manners, that Buster Collier was the son of Willie Collier and that Tallulah Bankhead was born in Tallulah, Ala. What makes it all the more humiliating is that save in the case of Miss Bankhead I knew better. Her father, Congressman Bankhead, writes me she was born at Huntsville, Ala. I don't know what was the matter. It must have been something I ate. If I'm forgiven I'll try to be a better boy. But don't depend on it.

* * *

My longest column record for accuracy was eight months and 19 days—at least no mistake was discovered in that time. And then I seemed to have exploded with a bang. On the 20th day not only was everything in my column wrong, but I offended one of my dearest friends, split a half dozen infinitives and ended three sentences with prepositions. The next midnight I was plunging across the Atlantic to forget.

* * *

A reporter interviewing Helen Keller the other day at her Forest Hills home asked what she would rather see above all things if her sight suddenly returned to her. She replied: "First a child. Then a dog."

* * *

They were wondering what would bring a picture of New York most vividly to mind if one happened to be marooned in the middle of the Sahara. Lisle Bell believed it would be the sudden cry: "Let 'em off—Forty-second street!"

* * *

I know a man who stumbled onto a burglar in his bedroom. With a magnificent beau geste, he said, casually and calmly "Hello, I didn't know you were here," went on into his bathroom and slumped into a dead faint.

* * *

There was that time I hit out at what later proved to be a hat and overcoat on a rack in a darkened hallway. I turned and cleared eight steps of the front porch in one leap trying to screech "Police." My mouth would open and shut but there was not the slightest squeak.
